High-Production Agriculture Can Save The Planet, Insists Analyst

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — "You have let environmental activists paint you as the villains," said Dr. Dennis T. Avery, Center for Global Food Issues, Hudson Institute. "We're putting the necks of ag science on the block for environmentalists to lop off our heads."

Avery was speaking about the role that agriculturalists have taken as a result of bowing to pressure by those who want to (in a wrong way) reverse the trend that the world is taking — greater population and greater need for food resources.

Avery spoke to 45 agri-industry educators, students, and government agency representatives on Thursday at the Sixth Annual Changes In Animal Agriculture Mini-Symposium. He told them that now is the time to remove the barriers to trade and utilize the rich farmland of the world, especially here in the U.S., to "save the planet with high-yield agriculture."

Avery told the meeting of professional animal scientists that there are activists who claim the world should not expand its livestock population. "They believe we should all become vegetarians. But they are not delivering a vegetarian world.

"Meat consumption in China rose 10 percent — and 3 million tons — in 1992. It did the same again in 1993. As China's per capita incomes continue to rise in the years ahead, meat consumption may well increase even more rapidly than that."

Strict vegetarians, according to Avery, make only a small percentage of total U.S. population. For the world, instead of a greater population switching to a vegetarian diet, "things are going rapidly in the other direction."

Also, many of the so-called "third-world" countries such as India and Indonesia are accelerating economically to where there is a larger middle class. With the income that results, more demand an expensive, high-protein diet, something delivered from intensive live-

A delightful presentation was given by the Pennsylvania State Dairy Princess, Jennifer Grimes. And, a greeting was also given by Amy Mearkle, the alternate Pennsylvania Dairy Princess and a resident of Bedford County.

Production awards for the year went to Trotacre Farm, Enon Valley for 48 cows, 17,795 pounds of milk, 758 butterfat, and 610 protein.

Rutter Brothers, York, took the

Delmarva Poultry Fund Drive Totals $503,317

Dr. H. Wesley Towers, state veterinarian, Delware Dept. of Agriculture, left, received DPI's medal of achievement award and Charles Marker, Dover, Delaware, received DPI's distinguished citizen award.

SALISBURY, Md. — Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc. (DPI), the non-profit trade association working for the continued progress of Delmarva's poultry industry, exceeded its 1994 Fund Drive goal with cash and pledges totaling $503,317. That news was announced by Fund Drive Chairman Douglas K. Marvil at the April 26 Delmarva Poultry Booster Banquet in Salisbury, Maryland. Marvil told the nearly 1,900 DPI supporters, "When you have a quality product or service and a membership such as ours that believes in the organization, success is contagious."

The annual Fund Drive is DPI's means of raising money to support its many services and programs. DPI's membership consists of

Nutrient Management Board Work Progresses

VERNON ACHENBACH, JR.

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The 15-member Nutrient Advisory Board on Wednesday forged ahead in reviewing information for use in advising the state Conservation Commission as it develops regulations for the state Nutrient Management Act.

The final regulations are to be in effect July 1995.

While the April meeting of the board went beyond scheduled time as board members bogged down on the issue of "flexibility" in regulations, talks Wednesday seemed to resolve some of the concerns of some of the members, although other concerns were brought out more succinctly.

Discussions on Wednesday held little floor-time to criticism of DER — as had been the situation last month — and seemed to allow members to proceed to relevant topics.

Members were given presentations of current practices by the USDA Soil Conservation Service in issuing its cooperator soil conservation plans, and an update on pilot efforts to implement a One-Plan Concept.

The One-Plan Concept was introduced last year and a signatory event held during the Penn State Ag Progress Days.

The concept of the plan is to mesh all existing agriculturally

NORTHEAST BROILER/FRYER PARTS - PART I FEDERAL-STATE

Trucklot buying interest was good to very good. Supplies of boneless skinless breasts with tenders were very tight with buyer inquiries not filled. Breast cutlets without tenders were available but buyers could not line up trucking to deliver the product. Most trading was at the 2.00 level but some buyer resistance was noted at the higher prices. Whole breasts were very tight. Most buyers were fully booked for this week but were looking for product for next week deliveries. Whole legs were adequate. Leg quarters were in close balance to short. Wings cleared well for an improving demand.

PRICES PAID PER POUND, ICE PACKED AND CO2 PACKED BROILER/FRYER PARTS, DELIVERED TO FIRST RECEIVERS IN POOL TRUCKLOT AND TRUCKLOT QUANTITIES.

National Grain Market

ST. JOSEPH, MO.
WEDNESDAY MAY 4, 1994

WHEAT PRICES REBOUNDED WEDNESDAY DUE TO IMPROVED OUTLOOK FOR RUSSIAN EX- PORT BUSINESS. CORN PRICES FINISHED MIXED AND SOYBEAN PRICES JUMPED SHARPLY HIGHER ON PROFIT TAKING ON THE BOARD. WHEAT 5 T 8 CENTS HIGHER. CORN MIXED. SORGHUM 1 TO 5 CENTS HIGHER. SOYBEANS 2 TO 9 CENTS HIGHER. NEWS THAT RUSSIA MAY NEED FROM 1 TO 3 MILLION TONNES U.S. WHEAT SOON, BOOST- ED WHEAT PRICES. EARLIER REPORTS THAT RUSSIA HAD DEFAULTED ON PAYMENTS WERE TEMPORARY AND COULD EASILY BE RECTIFIED. CORN PRICES RECEIVED SUPPORT FROM SPILLOVER STRENGTH FROM WHEAT PRICES AND IDEAS THAT RUSSIA'S PURCHASE OF U.S. WHEAT WOULD LIMIT THE USE OF WHEAT IN LIVESTOCK FEED RATIONS. THIS IN TURN WOULD INCREASE CORN USAGE AND TIGHTEN STOCKS. SOME PRESSURE WAS NOTED DUE TO RAPID PLANTING PROGRESS IN MIDWEST AREAS AND EXPECTATIONS FOR MORE CORN TO BE PLANTED THAN ORIGINALLY PLANNED. SHARP INCREASE IN SOYBEAN PRICES DUE TO INDICATIONS RUSSIA MAY PURCHASE U.S. MEAL ALONG WITH WHEAT. SOME PROFIT TAKING ON THE BOARD WAS ALSO A FACTOR IN HIGHER PRICES.

EXPORT NEWS: USDA ACCEPTED ONE BID TO SELL 500 TONNES COTTONSEED OIL TO VENEZUELA UNDER EEP FOR JULY SHIPMENT.

Slices through lush stands while gently crimping stems.

New Idea 5200 Series Disc Mower Conditioners swiftly slice through the toughest conditions while gently crimping stems.

And reducing mowing time while reducing leaf loss is critical in maximizing the relative feed value (RFV) of your crop.

Best of all, the low maintenance, shaft-driven self-contained disc modules get you through spots that stop others in their tracks.

Select the best width for your operation: 9'3" or 11'9". Then see one at your White-New Idea dealer or call 1 800 767-3221.

The Old Farmer's Almanac This Week With

MAY 9-15, 1994

LIMERICK DAY, MAY 12.

FIVE LITTLE LINES

Everyone knows a limerick or two although most of them are unprintable! We celebrate this lighthearted verse form on May 12, the birthday of its champion Edward Lear. The limerick's origin is unknown, but Lear's Book of Nonsense, published in 1846, and its sequels were largely responsible for limericks' immense popularity during the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. Lear claimed that he was inspired by "an old nursery rhyme, whose form and rhythm are quite familiar."

There was an old man of Tobago
Who lived on rice, gruel, and sago,
Till, much to his bliss,
His physician said this —
"To a leg, sir, of mutton you may go."

TIP OF THE WEEK

To keep windows free from paint, run a bar of soap around the edges of the glass before painting frames.

EARTHWISE

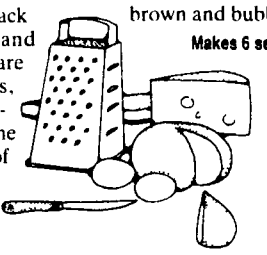
Having clean indoor air could be as simple as growing the right houseplants. Many popular plants have been found to cleanse the air of pollution. For example, ficus or fig trees and spider plants have been found to reduce formaldehyde gases. English ivy tackles benzene. Aloe vera and potted chrysanthemums are general cleaner-uppers, absorbing a variety of toxins. Be careful to hang the English ivy out of reach of small children and pets, its leaves can be toxic themselves if eaten.

BROILED CRABWICHES

- 1 6½-ounce can crabmeat
- ¼ cup minced onion
- 1 tablespoon minced celery
- 1 cup shredded mild cheddar cheese
- 1 cup mayonnaise
- 6 slices French bread

Combine all ingredients except bread in a bowl; mix well. Spread crab mixture on bread slices. Place under broiler until brown and bubbly.

Makes 6 servings



The Old Farmer's Weather Forecast

Prevent Piglet Crushing

MODEL 90 FARROWING CRATE

Constructed from heavy gauge materials, this crate is designed to reduce crushing with sow comfort in mind. The bowed bottom bars make for a comfortable 33" crate width when the sow lays down, yet the adjustable anti-crush bars eliminate the sow from carelessly dropping on the piglets. This movement restriction does not hamper the sow as lays down, or wants to stand up, as the bars slide up and out of her way.

OPINION

Tax Reform Needed

With local tax reform a hot issue in the political debates now in progress we list several basic ideas that should be considered.

• School districts should be given the authority to impose a flat rate income tax and real property tax; should have the discretionary authority to decide the tax rate and the proportionate share of total tax revenues originating from income taxation and property taxation.

• The current statutory cap in the rate of earned income taxation should be eliminated, provided current real property tax revenues are reduced by any additional revenues from the higher rate.

• Nuisance taxes, including occupation taxes, should be eliminated.

• The county personal property tax should be eliminated.

• All taxing districts should be required to obtain prior approval by voter referendum to raise taxes or incur debt beyond a fixed percentage of the current tax base.

Although several bills in the hopper to reform the local taxation system, House Bill 2202 has received considerable attention and action. An amended version of H.B. 2202 passed House of Representatives. It authorizes municipalities, school districts and counties to adopt an optional local taxation form, authorized under current law. Taxing entities opting for the new taxation form can not have any intangible personal property tax, flat rate or assessed value occupation tax, occupational privilege tax, per capita tax, earned income tax or any current tax permissible under the Local Tax Enabling Act.

Counties could approve either a one-percent sales and use and hotel occupancy tax or a half percent personal income tax. A county that chooses a county personal income tax could not impose the county sales and use and hotel occupancy tax.

The one percent sales and use and hotel occupancy tax, if adopted by a county, would be collected like the state sales tax. The sales merchant would make payment to the Department of Revenue. These tax revenues would be distributed monthly to the county and to municipalities and school districts, adopting an ordinance in support of the county tax. The revenues would be divided on a formula of 50 percent to the county, 25 percent to municipalities and 25 percent to school districts.

Counties could not reap a windfall in revenues in the first year of a new sales and use tax and hotel occupancy tax. All new revenues exceeding 105 percent of the previous year's revenues, under the old taxation system, would be used to replace revenues lost by taxes eliminated and then to proportionately reduce county real property taxes. Municipalities and school districts, receiving county sales tax revenues, would be required to use the monies to replace revenues lost by taxes eliminated, and then to proportionately reduce real property taxes.

Municipalities and school districts would be authorized to impose a personal income tax at a rate of up to one percent for municipalities and up to two percent for school districts. Again revenues collected by a municipality or school district exceeding the 105 percent threshold would be distributed in the same manner as excess revenues from the county sales tax and the use and hotel occupancy tax.

A municipality would also have the option to impose a municipal services tax of up to $10 on all persons employed within the municipality.

A county, municipality or school district, opting for the new authority, could not increase any local tax rates (including real property taxes) without voter approval in a referendum. There would be some exceptions to this rule. The tax rate can be increased in response to a state emergency declared by the Governor; to carry out a court decision; to pay interest on local indebtedness incurred under the Local Government Unit Debt Act; to meet pension fund requirements; and to respond to a municipality or school district found "distressed" under applicable laws.

Once a taxing body has this new taxing system in operation for at least three years, it may elect by voter referendum to revert to the taxing authority provided in the current Local Tax Enabling Act. This proposed legislation would authorize a taxing district to allow tax deferrals of real property tax increases on homestead property owned by low-income residents. The total deferral allowance could be up to 85 percent of the home's market value, if unencumbered, or 70 percent of market value, if it is encumbered. Taxing districts would be authorized to create local tax study commissions to make non-binding recommendations to the governing body.

Certainly a shift from property taxes to a system of taxes to be supported by the general population would be more acceptable to owners of family farms.

To Evaluate Starter Fertilizer

Many farmers are debating the benefits of starter fertilizer on corn.

Limestone soils which have been receiving regular applications of manure rarely see benefits of starter fertilizer in corn planted after May 1. No-till fields which are usually colder may benefit from a starter fertilizer.

The phosphorus level in the soil seems to be the key factor. If your phosphorus level is in the optimum or higher levels, you most likely will not need a starter fertilizer.

Also, if you are continually fertilizing your fields with manure, you should wait to early June to determine if you need additional nitrogen. By using the nitrogen soil test, you will be able to determine if additional nitrogen is needed.

By following these test procedures, you may reduce fertilizer costs, apply the nutrients when the crop may best use them, and protect water quality.

To Use Buffer Strips

A major chemical company is promoting a program called "Operation Greenstrip."

This program is designed to encourage the use of grass buffers along streams and waterways. These strips help prevent pesticides, fertilizers, and manure from entering streams and waterways.

Research has shown that a 16-foot-wide grass strip along the edge of fields prevents 80 percent of pesticides from reaching streams.

Today, several pesticides are not permitted to be applied within 66 feet of an area where water enters a stream. You may avoid stricter regulations and prevent a major fine by leaving buffer strips on your farm.

Farming in an urbanizing environment requires doing things differently. By practicing some simple and inexpensive practices now will create public goodwill and reduce the need for government regulation.

Remember, most government regulations are developed to correct a public concern or perception i.e. water quality, odor, eye sore, etc.

To Recycle Pesticide Containers

The American agricultural chemical industry is the first industry in the nation to be working for programs to reduce the amount of packaging material in the waste stream.

They estimate that in 1994, recycling programs in 25 states will collect more than 1.3 million pounds of plastic containers at state-approved sites.

To find out if your county is participating in the program, contact your local county cooperative extension office.

The Agricultural Container Research Council (ACRC) is supporting recycling programs across the nation to collect empty containers and to find other uses for them. To date, because of the potential for residues in recycled materials, most of the plastic collected is being utilized in the generation of electricity. As research finds alternative uses and assesses the risk of residues, other uses of the plastic will be found.

To be acceptable for recycling, plastic containers must be empty, clean, inspected, uncapped, dry, with a label on the container. Containers cannot be smashed or cut up. An empty container is one that has been triple- or pressure-washed.

Feather Prof s Footnote: "It is impossible to be a total failure and it is impossible to succeed perfectly."

READ THE WILL!
May 8, 1994

Background Scripture:
Galatians 3:1 - 4:7
Devotional Reading:
1 Corinthians 12:11-33

The newspapers are full of stories of infamous crimes being committed in our neighborhoods: senseless drive-by shootings, a three-year-old girl murdered by her uncle, a vagrant set on fire by a gang of youths, a mother hiring someone to kill the ex-boyfriend of her jilted daughter, and so on. Each time I read of one of these tragic crimes I try to understand how the guilty persons could have brought themselves to do these things. Usually, I cannot.

And then, in inner dialogue I say to myself: "I suppose you'll still claim these people are also children of God?" Often that is very hard to affirm and I have to wrestle with it. But then I return to the conviction that yes, these murderers, despite their demonic behavior, are nevertheless children of God — but they don't know it! And, because they don't know it, they don't act like it. In fact, they act just the opposite, like sons and daughters of the Devil.

There is a temptation to believe that there are essentially two kinds of people in the world, the good people and the bad. The good people are people who do good things and the bad people similarly do bad things. In a sense, according to this belief, we are created differently and in our lives we just act out what we are. There was a time when many people assumed that this was just a matter of blood: good blood lines produced good people and bad blood lines produced bad people. Today, we might say that it is a matter of genetics.

ALL SINNERS!

But that is not the prevailing view of the Bible which clearly maintains that all of us are sinners, all of us fall short of the glory of God. All of us have the choice of good and evil virtually every day of our lives. And none of us go through life making all the right choices. Far from it.

I do not pretend to understand the criminal mind, but I have had enough exposure to know that many of those "bad" people in our jails share the same opinion of themselves as we do: they also believe that they are "no good," doomed to live a life of failure and evil, unable to rise above their darkest impulses. And because they believe that, they live it out in their lives. They fulfill our prophecies and their own expectations.

Many of us who are somewhere in-between the righteous and the evil polarities, have the same problem. We, too, may feel that we were behind the door when the halos were passed out, that somehow, although we are not doomed to evil, neither are we destined to much good either. We think little of who we are and we fulfill our own negative prophecies.

ADOPTION BY GOD

So, all of us need to read and reread the will to find out who we are: "But when the time had fully come, God sent forth his Son, born of a woman, born under the law, so that we might receive adoption as sons" (4:4,5). All of us are created by God to be his sons and daughters, but if we do not know that, we do not live as his children and our relationship to God is like a birth certificate in the courthouse files and nothing more. The way we live destroys the natural relationship.

But the good news is that, regardless what we've done to that relationship, through the Sonship of Jesus Christ God is willing to adopt us as his children. "So through God you are no longer a slave, but a son, and if a son then an heir." There isn't a man, woman or child of us in this world who cannot be God's child if we know-it and respond in faith. We are all in the will. All we have to do is claim our inheritance. Have you?

Okla. City Feeder Cattle

OKLAHOMA CITY
WEDNESDAY MAY 4, 1994

Compared to last week: Feeder steers $1.00-$3.00 lower. Feeder heifers weak to $2.00 lower. Few stocker cattle $1.00-$2.00 lower. Demand moderate. Supply continues to be cattle off graze-out wheat. Wheat has matured as much as two weeks early due to dry conditions in late winter and early spring. Weigh-ups gaunt to average and greatly improved for buyers from last week. Flesh conditions also positive for buyers with many steers now in average flesh. Buyers very selective with heavy fleshed cattle at full declines. Quality plain to average, few attractive. Receipts reduced by heavy rains Friday thru Monday. Slaughter cows $.50- $1.00 lower. Slaughter bulls $2.00 higher. 329 cows and bulls sold with over 2/3rds of these stock cows or pairs. Receipts this week 9,325; last week 13,599; last year 8,999. Supply consisted of 90 percent yearlings over 600 lbs.; 6 percent stockers and calves under 600 lbs.; 4 percent cows and bulls. Prices follow with weighted average weight and price in parenthesis.

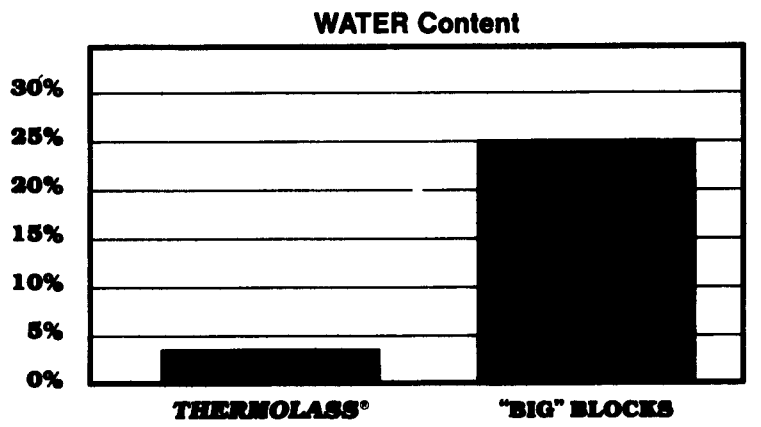
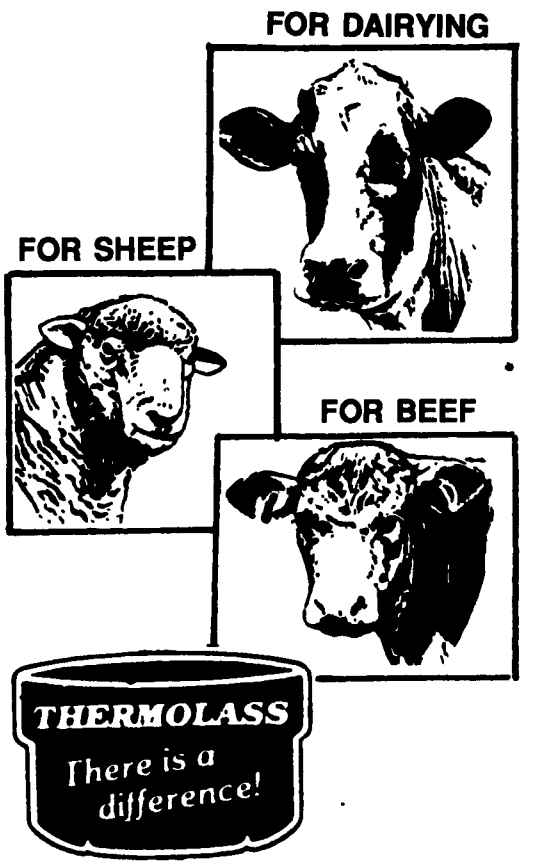
Why pay for WATER in a molasses block?





THERMOLASS®

There is a difference!

- THERMOLASS® contains only 2-4% moisture.
- THERMOLASS® is a licensed patent process requiring intense heat application, resulting in a natural hardening and curing of the finished product. Cattle must like it! Controlled consumption.
- No filters. No salt. No clay. No intake inhibitors. No chemical hardeners.
- High nutrient density. No dilution from water, chemical hardeners, and intake inhibitors.
- 100% nutritional - no sacrifice of nutrition for the convenience of feeding.
- As fed basis - 80% TDN and 48% total sugars (as invert). High in energy.
- THERMOLASS® in 240 lb. plastic barrels.

Zimmerman Retires From PDA Bureau of Livestock Marketing

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Every workday for 32 years, John Zimmerman drove east from his 150-acre Perry County farm in Rye Township across the Susquehanna River into Harrisburg to his job at the state Department of Agriculture.

His morning farm chores already done, the trip used to take him an hour, before the I81 bridge was built across the river, and would give him time to think.

He said that many times his thoughts were of the work to be done, the livestock auctions he would travel to that day, the number of hogs, calves, etc., he would group and catagorize.

"Lots of times, going to a sale, part of your thoughts were on the sale, what you were going to have that day. Or on the grading operation, usually going to grade hogs, or other livestock, how many I would have, how long it would take.

"And sometimes you'd think about the quality (of the animals). Good quality is a plus from (the perspective of) sales and grading. It always takes long to grade poorer quality. They usually have a bigger assortment of sizes and quality, so it takes longer to get them through.

"And there were a number of times, driving, when you would think about home and things that needed to be done," Zimmerman said.

Those who operate or who have operated livestock auctions around the state should be familiar with John Zimmerman.

On Sept. 19, 1962, Zimmerman joined the state Department of Agriculture as an agricultural marketing specialist. On Jan. 4, 1965, he was promoted to chief of the livestock division, and he held that position until his retirement March 18.

For all those years, Zimmerman's softspoken manner and firm, but friendly face has been associated with the state Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Livestock Marketing.

No more. Zimmerman at 63, is currently living on his farm with his wife Carolyn, with whom he will celebrate a 37th wedding anniversary on Wednesday.

His work now is taking care of all those things he wanted to get down at home ... the small jobs, the painting jobs, the fix-up, the repairing.

But while the state still sponsored it, it was Zimmerman's voice, among others, that was heard on the twice-daily toll-free telephone recordings of the Pennsylvania market reports.

And when the livestock auction in Pennsylvania served a stronger position in the daily marketing of livestock, so did Zimmerman. It was his face, among others, that was seen grading livestock in stables in preparation for an upcoming sale.

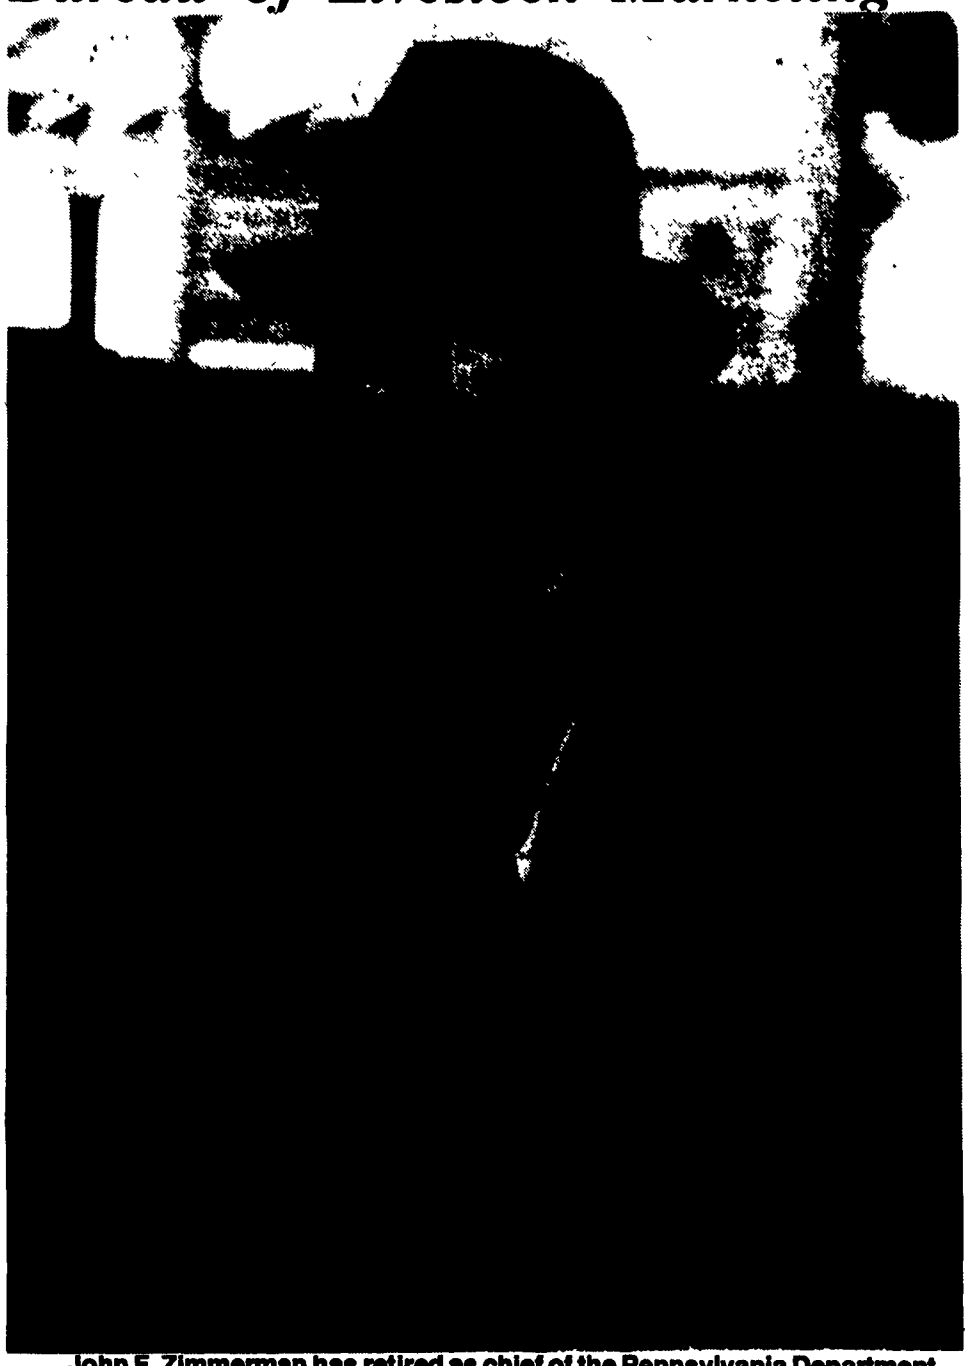
With spray-paint can in hand, or some other marking device, Zimmerman has judged the quality and separated into lots hundreds of thousands of animals for auction.

He has traveled across the state many times visiting auction houses, grading animals for sale, marking animals, meeting people, working with people, talking, sharing a cup of coffee, swapping stories.

His job, as an objective livestock grader, was very important in protecting the local producer from receiving inappropriate prices, helping to protect the consumer, and trying to create a level playing field in grassroots commerce.

Those were the days when the community butcher was prominent in the demand portion of the price-driving supply and demand equation.

Now, though there are still a number of local butchers who buy livestock at auction, the majority of animals and the price paid is generally set by several major buyer-processors, or contractors.



John F. Zimmerman has retired as chief of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture Bureau of Livestock Marketing. He is known for his support of the industry, and his personal disposition.

While nothing stays the same, it is still worth noting when things change as significantly as they have with the grass roots agricultural community and its ways of doing business.

Zimmerman was a part of the change.

When he was just starting out with the state Department of Agriculture in 1962, Zimmerman, then 31-years-old was back from a two-year stint as an officer in the U.S. Air Force, having served as a radar controller with the rank first lieutenant.

Previously, he had attended Penn State University at the Harrisburg Center in 1949 and 1950, through the ROTC program and went on to earn a degree in agricultural economics.

He grew up on a mountain subsistance farm behind Summerdale with a herd of milking goats, and other livestock and laying hens, and when he was 15, his family moved to a Cumberland County farm, about 14 miles away from where he lives now, on the other side of Stewart's Gap.

With hogs, some cattle, and a half dozen or so riding horses, he said he grew up wanting to be a cowboy, and then with World War II coming, he wanted to be a fighter pilot, "Until I found out I was color blind," he said, laughing.

"But until I was 15, I didn't have a definte goal of what I was going to do," he said. His father, raised and born on a farm, had been looking for a farm and had finally found one in Enola. Zimmerman said that was when he decided that whatever he was going to do, it would be agriculturally related.

They were, as is said, the good old days.

For a youth in Cumberland County on a 50-acre farm loaded with pheasants, and having a couple of dogs that would hunt the birds and rabbits, life was good.

"That was one of the joys of life, was hunting pheasants. I had the idea when I got out on my own I would all kind of time to hunt," he said, again laughing at his youthfull outlook.

Although the pheasants are pretty well history, Zimmerman has more or less always kept the first week of deer season as an annual observation, sometimes taking two weeks in the late fall to hunt. And more recently he has been fishing with a son-in-law.

But those are avocations and times for being an individual, separate from the demands of society.

His work as auction grader and reporter for the state was his work.

"(Work has) meant a great deal to me, and still does," he said recently. "It was an area where my so-called expertise laid and it was a service provided to the agricultural community and consumer as well, and you had that feeling that you were of help to people," he said.

He routine was never exactly routine, but he would drive 20,000 to 25,000 miles per year to travel across the state to get to auctions, stay overnight, do another auction somewhere else the next day, and maybe get home later the next night.

On the road, before the roads became so big and straight and level and made all the remote places accessible.

Even as recently as last year, Zimmerman tallied 2,500 to 3,000 miles on the road in Pennsylvania just during October. And that is with severe reductions in the amount of traveling that has been allowed by the state with the

York Ag Land Preserve Board At Work

YORK (York Co.) — The York County Ag Land Preservation Board, appointed in June 1989 by the York County Board of Commissioners, began the task to create and implement the York County Conservation Easement Program. Since it's review and approval by the PA Ag Land Preservation Board in August 1990, the program has received and evaluated 135 applications covering approximately 22,364 acres in 21 townships.

By the end of December 1993, the York County Ag Land Preserve Board had preserved 21 farms, in 10 townships, totaling 6,056 acres. Another 173-acre farm is awaiting State Board approval. York County currently ranks second in the state for acres of farm land preserved.

During the January 1994 application cycle, the Ag Preserve Board Office received a total of 46 applications from 18 townships. Of those, six high scoring applications, covering 1,392 acres in eight townships, were selected for preservation process and will be submitted to the State Ag Land Preservation Board this fall for approval for preservation.

Statewide, 32 of PA's 67 counties have an approved conservation easement program. The Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Farmland Protection has approved the easement purchases on 431 farms covering 54,388 acres as of March 1994.

FREE DELVOTEST® SP or P OFFER

Introducing Delvotest® SP.

Buy a Delvotest® Block Heater before June 30, 1994, and get a FREE Delvotest® SP MiniKit.

Delvotest® SP is a simple, reliable, inexpensive test for detecting virtually all antibiotics which includes an increased sensitivity for sulfa residues in milk. You can set up a Delvotest® SP in 2 minutes. With the use of a timer, you can read the results at your convenience, up to 12 hours from the start of the incubation period. You run the test in your own milk room.

Why Delvotest® SP?

- Because you need to know your milk is free from all antibiotics, including sulfa residues.
- Because you need to know your milk is going into the tank truck, instead of down the drain.

Pennsylvania Ayrshire Association Sends News

NICHOL BOZLINSKI
PA Ayrshire Promotions

WAMPUM (Lawrence Co.) — What a weekend as a mop of people, cows, and confusion began to slowly take on the shape of an organized group working together toward a common goal. It was a collaboration of many families and friends as all worked together. Does this not sound how things should be today in the dairy industry? Well that is exactly what happened at the Ayrshire convention. Cooperation and enthusiasm is vital to keeping any organization, business, and family together. And let's face it, we need to stay together to be strong in the world of high tech non individualized person.

At the Ayrshire convention held this past April, cooperation and enthusiasm were both in abundance. Many families from western PA united together toward a common goal, to make the convention a success. People volunteered their time, artistic and creative abilities to help with decorations and hospitality communications. The greatest contribution that this convention relayed was the youth activities. The cattle were prepared by 4-H and FFA members from the area. All of the kids worked together with such skill, harmony, and professionalism one would never guess by the quality of the workmanship that these kids were not professionals. They all conducted themselves in a very enthusiastic and cooperative manner. If something needed done you can be sure they did it right.

One thing that is quite mentionable is the manner that the cattle were clipped. There were six kids to an animal, two on the head, one on either side, one clipping the rear, and one getting oil, changing blades, cleaning up, or whatever the other five needed. If this is how the future looks I am glad that I will also be a part of it. If we all can work together toward a common goal and be successful in our attempt, then anything is possible.

I would like to urge all of you who own an Ayrshire or have an interest in becoming a member of an organization that promotes this kind of cooperation and enthusiasm within itself, please don't hesitate to give me a call at 412-658-0655. I know there are many Ayrshire breeders out there who are not yet members and I would like to encourage your support. It does not matter if you own 100 Ayrshires or none at all. We all have the same goal, we want to tell everyone how PROFITABLE PENNSYLVANIA AYRSHIRES are.

Remember, enthusiasm is contagious, let's start an epidemic!!!

Hall of Fame

This year the PA Ayrshire Hall of Fame had a very distinguished inductee, Mrs. Hope Scott of Ardrossan Farms in Villa Nova, PA. Mrs. Scott took over managing the farm in 1949. She and her husband, Edgar have two sons, five grandchildren, and seven great-grandchildren.

The heritage of the Ardrossan Ayrshire dates back to 1910 when the nine original cattle were transported from Scotland to Philadelphia by ship. Then they were taken by train to Bryn Mawr Avenue, from there they were walked to the 650-acre spread of Ardrossan. The Ayrshires and Mrs. Scott have worked well together over the years. She expressed, "How tough the cow was, while they didn't eat as much as a Holstein. The Ayrshire is more intelligent, quicker, and much more fun to handle." Well she has reason to sound so confident about her cattle, afterall they are still one of the highest producing herds of 100% registered Ayrshires in the United States. She contributes her theory of selecting bulls to her father, who always told her one must maintain the size and substance of an animal in order for it to produce well and have a long life. He said it was possible to let size go for one generation, but no longer or the longevity will be gone. Another important aspect of her father's theory was to control disease. A very good preventative is not to buy animals from other herds and expose them to your herd. This preventative has been practiced at Ardrossan, not a single animal has been bought since those originals from Scotland. Now the herd numbers have grown to 125 milking age females with a total of 300 head. Mrs. Scott stresses that the herd at Ardrossan is line bred, not inbred. Many American bulls as well as Canadian, Scottish, and homebred bulls are used to promote a wide spread genetic base. Young sires are used a great deal. According to Mrs. Scott young sires are the key to improving the breed. There are not enough bulls to choose from by just using proven sires. The overseas market is one thing that can be used by American Ayrshire breeders to expand our potential. And is there ever potential! Ardrossan was home to the first million pound herd which consisted of four animals who had produced a million pounds of milk in their lifetime. There are several opportunities for Ayrshire breeders from across the country to bring the Ardrossan blood lines into their herd. There are on average 15-20 head consigned to several sales throughout the year. Also some private sales take place.

Mrs. Scott supports the youth of the PA Ayrshire Association by donating the calf to the Spring Calf and Heifer Sale each year. All the proceeds from the calf go to the youth. She feels the future relies heavily on the youth and is willing to do her part in helping out. She feels the need to increase membership with the Association and to get everyone working together, not against each other. If everyone would join together and discuss the problems facing the Ayrshire breed and would be willing to compromise for the good of the breed. Problems would become scarce.

In addition to Ayrshires, Mrs. Scott's interests include trustee of the Brandywine Museum and Conservatory, Honorary Chairman of the Arthritis Research, and Chairman of the Devon Horse Show (the largest outdoor horse show in USA - proceeds go to benefit the Bryn Mawr Hospital). She contends that there is room for both women and men in aspects of agriculture. The assistant herdsman at Ardrossan is a woman. She works with men every day and finds that they have given her no opposition at all. It is important for a woman not to be intimidated by men. She contends that she likes and rather enjoys people.

At a young age Mrs. Scott was influenced greatly by her parents, Robert L. and Hope Tyler Montgomery. Also her great aunt, Helen Beech Tyler. Now, she contributes her success to her husband of 70 years, Edgar. She respected and admired their success and was very conscious of it! Her nomination to the Hall of Fame was announced to her on her late father's birthday. It was a very meaningful honor since her father had also been inducted to the Ayrshire Hall of Fame in 1991.

Mrs. Scott has much enthusiasm for the future of the Ayrshire cow. And is willing to share that enthusiasm with many. It is people like her that help make the future appear that anything is possible. It is the PA Ayrshire's Hall of Fame's privilege to have Mrs. Hope Scott in the Hall of Fame.

New Ayrshire Princess

Introducing the new royalty representing the PA Ayrshire Association, Miss Karen Neville is the 1994-95 Ayrshire Princess and Katie Young is the Alternate Princess.

Karen Neville, 15 of Bradford County was crowned the 1994-95 PA Ayrshire Princess by outgoing princess, Samantha Hillyard. Karen is the daughter of Vincent and Debbie Neville and has two younger brothers Chris and DJ. Her activities include varsity cheerleading for North East Bradford, softball, dairy judging, market lambs, 4-H, and Ayrshires. Karen's Ayrshires are housed at her grandparents, Doug and Donna Stewart's Locust Lane Farm. She currently owns 10 Ayrshires of her own. Her first cow has given her two heifers and that's how it all began! Karen is very active with showing her Ayrshires in several local fairs. She also exhibits at the All American. Karen also helps to prepare cattle for classification. She plans to pursue a career in physical therapy.

Pa. Holstein Announces Jr. Judging Schools

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Pennsylvania Holstein Association this week announced details of its 1994 Junior Holstein Judging Schools.

All junior members, regardless of dairy cattle breed affiliation, are invited to attend the school closest to their home. 4-H and FFA members are also invited to attend.

The entry deadline is June 17.

According to a news release, each school runs from noon the first day, to noon the second day.

Scheduled for judging are eight to 12 classes of dairy cattle, during which instructors will attempt to cover all the basics of judging cattle, including type evaluation, terminology, class breakdowns and how to effectively give reasons.

Each person in attendance will have an opportunity to work one-on-one with an experienced judge on reasons giving.

The school for those in the western part of the state is set for (Monday and Tuesday) June 27 and June 28, with Butler County Holstein Club serving as host, and Tom Smith, of Lancaster, serving as the school official.

The school for those in the eastern part of the state is set for (Wednesday and Thursday) June 29 and June 30, with the Franklin County Holstein Club serving as host. Creedin Comman, of Carlisle, is to serve as official.

The cost of the school is $25 for those staying overnight. That cost includes schools costs, hotel room and an evening meal.

For those who elect to commute, the cost is $15 which covers school costs and an evening meal.

Thjis year, a second member of a family who attends will receive $5 off of registration costs.

For more information, contact the Pennsylvania Holstein Association at 839 Benner Pike, State College, Pa., 16801, or call (814) 234-0364.

Brown Swiss Calf Sale Has $6,000 Top

KAREN BUTLER
Maryland Correspondent

FREDERICK, Md. — The 20th Annual Mid-Atlantic Brown Swiss Calf Sale was held here at the Frederick Fairgrounds on Saturday, April 30.

The sale was sponsored by the Maryland Brown Swiss Association. Auctioneer for the sale was Chris Hill, and pedigrees were provided by Wayne E. Sliker.

Thirty-three calves sold, with an average price of $1,490. Consignments came from New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Maryland.

Leading the sale at $6,000 was a June Blend from Gentle Breeze Mat Christine *TW "3E", consigned by Alan Rinehart, R-Hart Farm, Wapakoneta, Ohio. The dam was All American 4-year-old in 1987. The calf was bought by the Bonnie Syndicate of Middletown, Md., and will be milked at the farm of Scott and Judy Hood. A maternal sister to this calf by Ensign recently brought $6,500 at the Mid-West Review Show in Ohio.

Second highest selling calf was another June Blend, from Mort Starbuck Paula "E". Her dam was nominated All-American 3-year-old in 1993. She was consigned by Brad Garst of New Windsor, Md., and was purchased by Howard and Norma Fleming.

New this year was a sale of yearlings, bred heifers, and cows held immediately following the calf sale. Fifteen head were sold, including High Spruce Dotson Evelyn, three-time grand champion at the Howard County Fair 4-H Show. From a "3E" dam with records over 21,000 pounds, the cow sold fresh for $3,300.

The Mid-Atlantic Brown Swiss Futurity will be held on Sunday, Sept. 4 in conjunction with the Maryland State Fair at Timonium. The first payment for Futurity calves sold at the auction will be made by the Maryland Brown Swiss Association.

Zimmerman Retires From PDA

The Interview

When John first went in for a job at the Department of Agriculture, he said he interviewed with Dewey Foster, who was the head of crop reporting, now part of Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistical Service. The PDA was then headquartered in the south office in Harrisburg, rather than at its current location adjacent to the state Farm Show Complex.

Zimmerman recalled that Foster 'starting talking about statistics. We concluded that I was in the wrong office. He told that the livestock division had an opening. John Chaney was director at the time and I interviewed in the spring. In August, he heard from the PDA and Sept. 19 he began as an agricultural marketing specialist.

"I always had a feeling that's the way is was supposed to be and the good Lord had a hand in it. Over the years I enjoyed the work and the people," Zimmerman said.

"When I first started we would report market news, like the auction reports that are published (in Lancaster Farming), different sales, Dewart, Silver Springs on Thursday. In 1963, I helped open up Greencastle, Bellville, Chambersburg and Carlisle. I was the reporter who started on those sales. Then somewhere in 1963, I used to go in (to work) on Friday to put together the weekly summaries for some time," he said.

"Starting in the 1970s, we had an old rented drum machine from Bell that we used a number of years until we got upgraded equipment. We went through a few pieces of equipment. We had one where a reporter could call in and put a tape on it, but it proved not to be too trustworth (a machine.)," he said.

Later came toll-free lines, which were eliminated about three years ago by further operational budget cuts to the agriculture department. But with the toll-free lines, Zimmerman had two lines running. On one line, he would put the auction reports for the eastern part of the state. On the other line, would be the reports for the western part of the state.

While those toll-free lines were operating, many radio stations would call in and tape Zimmerman's voice and rebroadcast it in the mornings, at lunchtime and in the evening. The system worked well for a time.

More recently, the reporting has been receiving less and less support. From January 1992 to July 1992, there were no representatives from the state Department of Agriculture working in the western part of the state.

For several months, Zimmerman or someone else would make a three-day trip to the western part of the state, picking up Indiana, Mercer, the sale at 84, and the New Wilmington sale on Friday morning.

In February 1993, with the employment of a part-time worker — which is something the state doesn't do very often, preferring instead to hire full-time employees to do the reporting jobs — the state was again providing the objective third-party role in grading animals for sale.

Zimmerman said he doesn't see it changing back to the way it was for a number of reasons.

In 1990, during an interview with Lancaster Farming , Zimmerman talked about the changing face of the grassroots livestock industry in Pennsylvania.

He remarked then on the correlation between the change in the use of livestock meat in domestic kitchens, the change in retailing from local butcher shops to mega-grocery giants which purchase boxed beef instead of doing their own slaughtering and butchering, the loss of the independent farm family producer, the decline in auction sales, and the surge in large food processing corporations offering contract production deals.

His prognosis hasn't changed.

The highways, he said, provide easy access for livestock producers to travel to different auctions, even larger auctions in other states.

The types of contract farm production that feed companies such as Pennfield has created with poultry, that Hatfield Quality Meats has created with hogs, Zimmerman said he eventually sees coming with cattle.

The local auction still has a place, but it's become more of a remnant of a past way of life that relatively few continue to practice, and with which the majority of the Pennsylvania population have no experience.

But there are those who know. And there are those who know Zimmerman.

Relationships

Even those who worked with Zimmerman just a short time before he retired, such as Richard Miller, 19, of New Holland, said they appreciated his personality.

Miller was working with Zimmerman on the floor of the older section of the New Holland Livestock Stables grading feeder pigs on Zimmerman's last day at that facility.

"I've worked with him five or six times," Miller said. "He's a very nice guy, what I know of him. He seems like the guy you can go up to and talk about anything."

Miller said that he was only starting out in life. "This is the first place that would take me, since high school," Miller said. "I love it. It's fun. The guys are fun to work with, but the work does get done. The boss, Dave, he's (easy to work for).

"John (Zimmerman), he's the kind of person who can make someone smile. To me, it's pretty important (being able to make someone smile), because if there's a job that you can't laugh at, it's pretty dull. He's the kind of guy you hate to see leave."

John said that he misses the people also.

When he retired, he was recognized by Secretary of Agriculture Boyd Wolff, and his department office had a lunchtime retirement party for him. They also held a dinner for him in Carlisle with current and previous employees of the department in attendance.

John said it meant a lot to him.

"I appreciated that a great bit."

Members Can Enter National Jr. Holstein T-Shirt Logo Contest

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Hundreds of Junior Holstein members will be coming to Pittsburgh June 25 through June 28 to attend the 1995 National Junior Holstein Convention, and the T-Shirt they collect as part of their participation could be carrying a logo you designed.

The 1995 National Junior Holstein Convention Committee has announced it is sponsoring a "Design A T-Shirt Logo Contest," that is open to all Pennsylvania Junior Holstein Members, according to a news release this week from the Pennsylvania Holstein Association.

"If you submit the winning entry, your registration fees for the 1995 convention will be free. So pull out some paper and ink and start drawing," the news release stated.

Entries are due by June 30, 1994.

The specific contest rules are that:

- each entry must be limited to the use of three colors and be drawn in ink;
- entries can be drawn on any size of unlined white paper;
- entries do not have to be camera ready or professional;
- all designs submitted become the property of the 1995 National Junior Convention Committee and are subject to change;
- the contest is open to Pennsylvania Junior Holstein members;
- the winning entry will be used on the T-shirt for the 1995 National Junior Covention;
- the winning entry designer will receive a free registration to the 1995 National Junior Holstein Convention Events;

Entries should be sent to Betsy Watson, 84 N. Dickinson School Road, Carlisle, Pa., 17013-9611. For more information, call Betsy Watson at (717) 243-8750.

nearly 4,000 persons and companies, including poultry growers, allied industry suppliers of products and services, Delmarva's eight poultry companies, poultry company employees, and hundreds of non-poultry businesses on Delmarva which recognize the economic importance of the industry to this area.

The Booster Banquet is also the occasion at which DPI presents awards to Delmarva's outstanding poultry growers and to two individuals who have made significant contributions to the poultry industry.

The DPI Medal of Achievement is awarded annually to a public servant of an agency or an organization for outstanding achievement and service on behalf of the poultry industry. This year's recipient is Dr. H. Wesley Towers, Delaware State Veterinarian. During his 25 years in that position, he has worked closely with the poultry industry. A native of Delaware, he graduated from the University of Delaware with a major in animal and poultry science and then obtained his doctor of veterinary medicine degree from the University of Pennsylvania. Dr. Towers has been active in many local, regional, and national animal health organizations. As a member of DPI's Poultry Health Committee and Emergency Poultry Disease Task Force, he took a leadership role in last year's effort to keep avian influenza out of commercial chicken flocks. Dr. Towers was appointed to the Mid-Atlantic Poultry Health Council by the Governor of Delaware and serves as president-elect of the United States Animal Health Association.

Delmarva's Distinguished Citizen Award, given in recognition of a person's work on behalf of DPI, the poultry industry, and the community, was presented to Charles C. Marker of Dover, Delaware, a Delmarva poultry industry pioneer. Mr. Marker's hatchery business was opened in 1932. He later expanded his business to include feed production and breeding operations. His dominant white male breed premiered in 1944 and became an international line in the late 1950s. The addition of a female breed in the 1960s produced a highly competitive product in the marketplace. Mr. Marker served as president of the Delaware Poultry Improvement Association in 1942-43 and, while in that position, was one of the founding forces behind the organization that later became DPI. In 1945, he was appointed with ten other persons from across the nation to form a poultry committee for the American Farm Bureau Federation and he served on that committee for five years. A competitor in the Chicken of Tomorrow Contest in 1949 and 1950, he was active in regional and national poultry organizations in the 1940s and 1950s. Mr. Marker worked with a number of the local poultry equipment companies in developing new mechanical systems for the industry. He was involved in the formation of the Delaware Agricultural Museum. In 1987, at the age of 79, Mr. Marker sold his real estate complex in north Dover known as Marker's Hatchery and retired from active business operations. He is a former director of Kent General Hospital in Dover and a 50-year member of the Dover Kiwanis Club. He and his wife live near Dover on their son's poultry farm.

Other banquet honorees included 18 poultry growers selected by their companies as outstanding producers for 1994. They were presented silver bowls by DPI President Walter W. Moorhead and Grower Committee Chairman Kay R. Richardson. Receiving the awards were, from Delaware: Roschen and Rose Mary Hill, Delmar; Mike and Teresa Hitchens, Georgetown; Robert and Anna Mae Yeadt, Delmar; and Margaret M. Smith, Townsend. From Maryland: James Abell, Pocomoke; Gary and Terri Griffin, Parsonsburg; Hilmar Helgason, Rhodesdale; Tommy Jones, Crisfield; Bernadine and Woodie Larrimore, Federalsburg; Chas Nau Jr., Kennedyville; Robert and Bertha Pruitt, Salisbury; John and Anne Shults, Henderson; Carole and James Spicer, Vienna; Ruth and Carl Tull, Whaleyville; Kenny and Susan Wallace, Westover; Roland and Pat White, Pittsville; Robert D. Wilkinson, Salisbury; and Teeny and Doug Willey, East New Market.

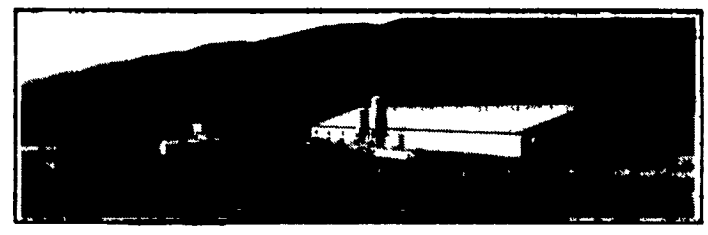
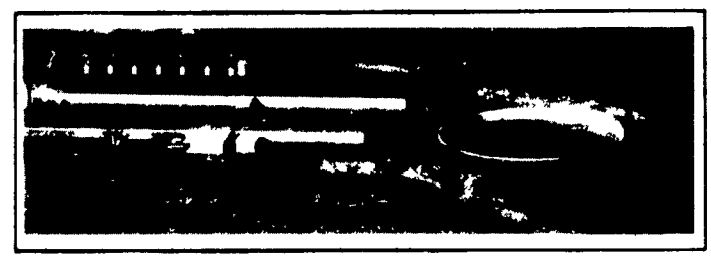
PIG SAVER "DUTCH CRATE"
Developed through testing in our research farms the goal was to develop a crate that nearly eliminates crushing, due to lay ons, unmatched durability and be easy to work around. All this has been achieved by a unique gravity fliprail that forces sows to lie down slowly and using stainless steel for rear doors and legs, proven horizontal and solid steel rod construction. All this at a reasonable cost. Crate also can be installed on an angle

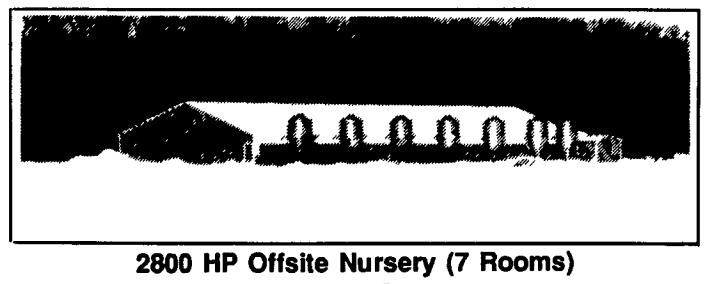


300 Sow Farrow - Feeder Pig Unit

CONFINEMENT STALLS
Developed in our R&D farm Our goals were convenience, safety and durability. The low back and flat top rails are easy to reach over with no sharp edges Stainless steel rear legs and front feet along with solid steel horizontal rods through punched uprights provide the strongest, most durable stall ever produced by Tri-County (21"-24" O C x86")

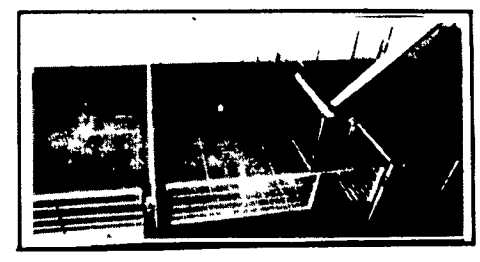


1200 Sow Farrow-Feeder Pig Unit



2800 HP Offsite Nursery (7 Rooms)
(Pull Plug, Preferated Ceiling Ventilated)

NURSERY PENNING
Nursery penning has been improved by the use of an optional solid stainless steel panel on the front gates which keeps walkways clean. Stainless steel feet on penning eliminate corrosion where penning attaches to the floor. Stainless steel drinker pipes & mounting brackets also increase durability.



2000 Head Finisher (2 Rooms)
(Deep Pit, Tunnel Ventilated)

FINISHING PENNING
Standard stainless steel feet and fasteners offer improved durability over other similar types of penning. Loop and flapper latch arrangement eliminates the use of drop pins. Stainless steel fence line feeders provide excellent durability and a minimum of waste.

Forget Your Discomfort, Keep Cow Comfort Year Round

ROBERT GRAVES
Ag Engineering Extension

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — This has been a snowy, blowy, cold winter, with many days below zero degrees.

But a dry, well-fed cow, out of the wind, does not mind harsh winters.

She does need a well-ventilated barn, regardless of temperature or weather conditions. Given a choice, cows still prefer cold and dry to warm and damp.

A dry, fresh, well ventilated freestall barn at 10 degrees is healthier than a poorly ventilated, humid, smelly barn at 40 degrees.

I am concerned that too many dairy managers will forget all we have learned about good ventilation.

They will let a few cold days or blowing snow keep them from ventilating barns with curtains and open ridges.

They will forget that we have many more hot, humid summer days than cold, windy, below-zero winter days.

But, the inconvenience of a few winter days should not outweigh a summer's worth of cow comfort. We must build our barns for the cows' comfort year-round.

So, please, don't punish your cows because it was cold this winter! Continue to provide a dry, well-ventilated freestall barn all year. Provide adequate ventilation openings, even on very cold days.

Use frostproof waterers, and run alley scrapers continuously or tractor scrape regularly. Provide your key employees and your cows with a world class working environment every day of the year.

Keep building and modifying barns so that side and end walls can be removed in the summer and ensure adequate openings — even on cold winter days.

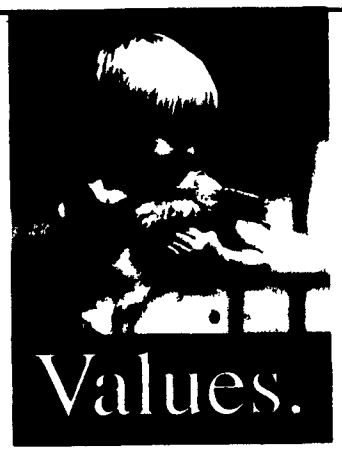
Two Guernseys stood patiently while the bidding climbed beyond $3000.

Scott Bates of Westerville, Ohio, saw his R-Way Perfect Lavendar senior calf go for $3100. It was purchased by Troy Hill of Sandy Lake.

Peb-L-Brook F. Lorie, owned by Scott and Elsie Wolff of Pebblebrook Farm, Quarryville, was purchased by John DuPont of Lifeter Farms of New Town Square for $3200.



Surviving this hard winter hasn't been easy. Collapsed buildings, caved-in roofs and water leakage problems are a few of the results of the unusual amounts of snow, ice and rain.

Are you 100% certain that your current policy provides coverage for this type of catastrophe? Ours does. Don't take a chance on getting snowed under next winter. Call the Securus Group today and create value for your future.

The photos that accompany the essay with the report on the Draft Horse and Mule Progress Days were taken Tuesday afternoon. Some of the photos were on the Gideon Stoltzfus farm located between Gap and White Horse. The team was hitched to the corn planter resting at the end of the field while the operator was in the barn attending a sick cow with the veterinarian. Other photos were taken on the Elmer Lapp family farm where Lillie (Lapp) Martin was working a team Registered Belgians. The Lapp's Pequea Valley Farm will be the site of the scheduled Progress Days. Photos by Everett Newswanger, managing editor.

Draft Horse, Mule Lovers Set 'Ag Progress Days'

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

KINZERS (Lancaster Co.)—With all the talk about larger farms, huge tractors, and humongous equipment, you may find it hard to believe that a growing number of small farmers and parttime hobbiests have created a market for draft horses and modified equipment you can maneuver with horses and small tractors.

But it's true. And the horse and mule lovers ag progress days June 24 and 25 at Elmer Lapp's Pequea Valley Farm, located on Martin Road, should help to convince you.

"We hope to have an "Ag Progress Days" for draft horses just like they do for modern farm machinery in State College," Lapp said.

The event, sponsored by the Draft Horse and Mule Association of America, headquartered in Lovington, Ill., will be the final stop on a nationally sponsored tour starting in Boston a week earlier. Arthur Reist, Lancaster, the association president, said the whole reason behind the Horse and Mule Progress Days is the fact that manufacturers don't build machinery for the small ten to 15 acre farm where a person may want to use a horse or a small tractor to farm the land.

WALTER WURSTER
Chester Co. Extension Agent

The directors of Chester County DHIA unanimously voted on April 20, to recommend that their membership vote in favor of entering into a conditional merger agreement with Pa. DHIA.

Members can return ballots by mail by May 16, 1994, or vote in person on that date at 7:30 p.m. at the Extension office in the Government Services Center, Suite 370, Route 202 & Westtown Road, West Chester.

Members not casting a vote will be counted as a "yes" vote in favor of the merger.

Chester County DHIA will temporarily suspend business for one year and merge with Pa. DHIA. At the end of one year, the Board will decide whether to permanently merge with Pa. DHIA, return to independent status, or seek other alternatives.

For the last few months, the Chester County DHIA Board of Directors has been trying to find a way to provide a quality testing program at an economical cost for their dairy farmers. Under current conditions, Chester County DHIA cannot continue to operate as an independent association without increasing rates.

The Board spent a day meeting with Pa. DHIA and Lancaster DHIA to hear proposals from both organizations. They evaluated both programs, plus the present program, before reaching their decision to merge conditionally with Pa. DHIA for one year.

The main reasons for reaching this decision are:

1- The overwhelming majority of Chester County DHIA members will realize lower monthly costs at rates that are competitive with other organizations. All members will receive the proposed rate schedule with their ballot and meeting notice.

2- Turn-around time between test day and receiving reports has been greatly improved and this important factor will continue.

3- The present technicians will be retained. Their salary package will be improved and their current benefits will be maintained.

4- The same reports that members are receiving will be continued. Reports have been produced on a high-quality laser printer for some time and will now have different colors for each report. Dairy operators will not have to learn how to use a new system of records.

5- New tru-test meters will replace most of the old milk-o-meters in the near future.

The directors urge all members to vote by May 16th. If there are any questions, contact a director in your area.

In other business, the Board hired Technician Tracy L. Witmer to take over the circuit currently serviced by Heather Becker. Heather is getting married and will be leaving Chester County DHIA in mid-May.

Tracy is currently living in Manheim, but hopes to relocate in or near Chester County. She was active in 4-H for nine years and has been a herdsperson for Preston Newcomer at Hidden Farms Holsteins, Mt. Joy.

She was also a four-year FFA member at Manheim Central High School receiving several awards and degrees, including the Keystone Degree. The Board would like to see Tracy's circuit expanded with new herds. With the new rate schedule, recruitment of new DHIA members should be accelerated.

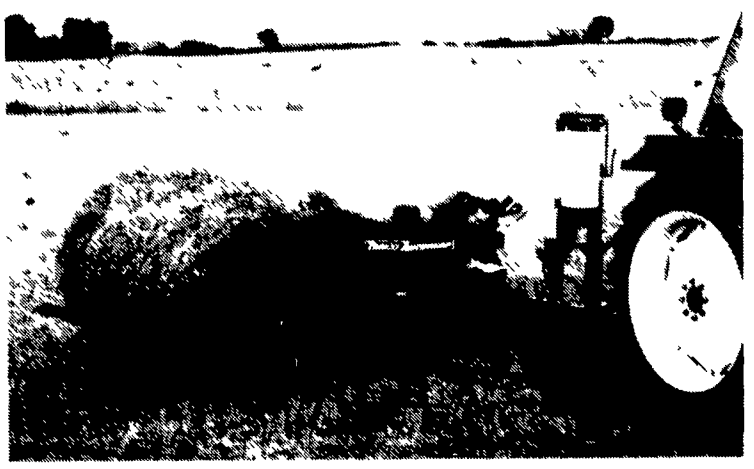
TOP 10 REASONS



WHY YOU SHOULD BUY A TANCO BALE WRAPPER

TANCO	COMPETITION
1. Five (5) points of support on turntable: Four heavy duty rollers add stability and support to the perimeter of the turntable in addition to the main central shaft. This allows Tanco wrappers to safely wrap the heaviest silage bales on rough or uneven ground.	Competition uses one central shaft to support the entire turntable mechanism
2. Single solid belt on turntable: The single belt enables Tanco wrappers to effectively wrap misshapen or soggy bales providing a positive surface for bale rotation.	Competition uses either no belts between rollers, or multiple belts which can allow bales to sag and slip
3. Adjustable extendable axle: On trailed models the extendable axle provides a wide, stable wheel base when loading bales. Eliminates the need for counter weights.	Competition must add counterweights or tandem axles as options to effectively handle silage bales
4. Top rollers on turntable: Extra rollers provide security to keep bales in place when wrapping at high RPM's (25) or on uneven terrain.	Competition - None
5. Unloading ramp on trailed models: The ramp allows bales to be unloaded gently. When a wrapped bale falls hard it can "burp." Once it "burps" the bale does not re-seal. The ramp gives a smooth transition between the ground and turntable.	Competition - optional drop mats or ramps available
6. Optional "High Rise" axle kit for soft ground conditions.	Compare!
7. Models available to fit every individual need, including machines to wrap big square bales. Tanco was first to build a large square bale wrapper, and continues to produce advancements in bale wrapping technology.	Limited product lines
8. Positive bale positioning: While being wrapped, bales are rotated the exact distance required to obtain optimum coverage.	Competition uses continuous hydraulic advance Bales can slip or over-rotate giving an uneven wrap
9. Durability: Tanco's subframe is one of the heaviest of any machines available in North America. The low profile design keeps silage bales closer to the ground with a low center of gravity for stability. Tanco's features are the result of years of experience and input from hundreds of individual, and commercial users.	Competition - Compare!
10. Price: From a basic 3 point Model AW200, to the trailed Model AW400 with automatic cut & start, bale and batch counter, and tractor seat controls, Tanco prices are very competitive. Pay less for more features and durability than any other bale wrapper on the market.	Competition - Compare!

Woodlot Field Workshop, Tour Set

WILLIAMSPORT (Lycoming Co.) — A field workshop will be held on Saturday, May 14 at 9 a.m. Participants should meet at the road to Little Bear Creek, about three miles north of Loyalsockville off Route 87. There is a sign on the east side of Route 87 that reads "Little Bear Creek."

The workshop is sponsored by Penn State Cooperative Extension, The Loyalsock Men's Club, Lycoming County Woodland Owners Association, and the Pennsylvania Bureau of Forestry.

The workshop/tour will begin with a brief introduction to the stewardship projects and how these activities relate to the Pennsylvania Forest Stewardship Program. The next stop will consist of viewing and discussing reclamation efforts of old gas well drilling sites to improve wildlife habitat.

The next stop will view trout habitat restoration efforts under the Adopt-A-Stream program. The third stop will be on the Cotner Tract to observe waterfowl habitat improvement and streambank stabilization efforts.

The final stop will be Ed Reish's raptor rehabilitation center.

Bring your own picnic lunch. Softdrinks will be provided. Advance registration is requested by calling Penn State Cooperative Extension at (717) 265-2896.

Nutrient Management Board

related farm plans into one operational plan.

In the past, and still to a degree today, governmental agencies concerned with agriculture do not have a system of standard cooperation.

As a result, different agencies can and have required conflicting things of farming operators.

The One-Plan Concept is an effort to literally bring all the agencies onto the same sheet of paper.

The most recent signator was the USDA Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, joining in the multi-governmental effort on April 12. Other organizations had signed the interagency memorandum of understanding last year.

Conservation Plan Review

Joel Myers, state agronomist with the SCS, told the group that conservation plans, free to cooperators, and fulfilled according to a list of priorities, are "umbrella" plans which seek to incorporate agricultural waste, nutrient management, pesticide use, and controlling sheet rill and gully erosion.

Nutrient management plans as they currently exist, are deemed worthwhile in that they address a specific concern. However, those plans hold no legal authority and their use is not connected, nor does it restrict, the work of the State Conservation Commission in its work to implement the agricultural requirements of the Nutrient Management Act.

Myers' presentation was allowed because members wanted to learn specifics of how these existing plans are made and carried out, in order to consider the role of an eventual authorized and approved nutrient management plan.

Some implications of Myers' presentation was that soil and erosion control planning is more or less a necessity in determining nutrient planning on a farming operation, whereas discussions to date about those who may be required to approve or develop official nutrient management plans have not, as of yet, included mandating expertise in soil and erosion control.

One-Plan Concept

Barry Frantz, program coordinator of the One-Plan Concept, is actually an employee of SCS who is on loan to the Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts (PACD). The PACD is the hub group behind the One-Plan effort.

Frantz said that he has been involved with 22 of the conservation districts in the state (there are 67 counties and only slightly fewer conservation districts) in the initial year.

He said that the goal of the effort is to bring together all concerned with the operation of a farm, to create a mutually agreeable, integrated plan of operation.

"There is a difference between resolving conflicts and integrating plans," Frantz said.

He was referring to the fact that resolving conflicts doesn't necessarily mean that priority is given to optimum results. In other terms, it's comparable to making alterations to a piece of equipment to make it useful, even though the original equipment wasn't designed specifically for the new purpose.

On the other hand, creating an integrated plan has to revolve around the farmer, his resources and his goals, according to Frantz. Or, in other terms, it means building a piece of machinery specifically for a job, using available technology.

Frantz said there is a lot of confusion about the one-plan concept. He said he has received comments from people that they don't need another plan, they already have five or six.

However, Frantz said that the reality of integrating plans on a farm is that time is of essence. He said that it can take up to a year to get a specific problem resolved, because of the need to have all the people involved review and discuss the problem from their perspective and area of expertise.

"We are not trying to create a situation with one planner for one plan," he said. "There are too many details and work for people to go too far from their area expertise," he said.

According to Frantz, the One-Plan Concept uses the farmer as the core decision-maker and the rest act in consultation.

"The farmer decides what goes in. He looks at all the angles," he said.

The quickness of making decisions depends on the quickness in which a problem is identified, understood and possible solutions can be presented.

Frantz said that because of the ongoing farm activities and the seasonality of the work, farm planning can probably be considered to be a seasonal activity.

For example, with soil moisture only becoming appropriate for field work during the past two weeks, he said that he can not schedule meetings now between consultants and farmers.

He said that this situation generally occurs during planting season and again during harvest season, depending on the type of farming operation.

Again, the implication is that there may be some timing problems with implementation of nutrient management plans, if there are significant numbers of plans submitted for approval. Though it is doubtful that a great many plans will be submitted at once.

Those presentations seemed to make clear that there may be a need for some guarantee of interagency cooperation in determining acceptable soil and erosion control practices, because it is so closely tied to the control of flow of nutrients on a farm.

However, it was also pointed out that those for whom mandatory nutrient planning was conceived are not the normal operators, but high-density operations, characterized generally by higher levels of organization.

Although not specifically said, the gist of the discussion was that those types of organizations, for whom the law was created, can and should be willing to conduct a proper nutrient management plan, including soil and erosion control, even if they can't get the work done for free by the SCS.

Certification Underway Educational Efforts Need Support

Further discussions about educational efforts by Penn State University Extension, which was given that responsibility under the Nutrient Management Act, resulted in the board approving a recommendation that funding be provided for the development of an instructional video for use in educating conservation districts and extension agents in nutrient management.

According to Dr. Douglas Beegle, the video would help provide a common base understanding to a wide audience without having to tie up the schedule and travel expenses of experts who would otherwise have to tour the state giving meetings. Further, weather and attendance would not be as much of a problem with people learning about the program through a well-produced instructional video.

As far developing specific educational programs in support of the criteria for attaining recognition as a nutrient management technician, Beegle said that the university can not develop and educational program until it is known what is to be taught.

It can not be known what is to be taught until those developing criteria and regulations have completed their jobs.

In the meantime, John Longenecker, director of the PDA Bureau of Plant Industry, who has been working to develop a program for certifying nutrient management specialists, said that work is underway on developing final criteria and that he will have a proposal before the board within the next two months.

While it was questioned how Longenecker could develop and get approval for a certification program prior to the actual finalization of regulations, he said that using the current pesticide certification program as a template, as was indicated during the formation of the law, and using the information garnered from the commission and advisory board, he will be able to have a program that can test demonstrated competency by July 1995.

Longenecker provided an update on the applications for interim certification, which is really pre-certification and makes those accepted eligible for training for final certification. The goal is to create a number of technicians who can begin to develop approved plans next year.

stock production. This puts the demands on growing more grain and other crops.

The poultry industry in Indonesia is expanding at double-digit rates, according to Avery.

"In North Africa, it is fed lamb. In Indonesia, it is poultry meat," said Avery. "But everywhere there is apparently an inherent human appetite for the high quality protein found in livestock products."

World population keeps expanding, and the world is about to "triple its demands on farming resources.

"With more people, they're all going to want the high-quality protein from your industries," he said.

In Asia alone, 2.5 billion people are gaining affluence more rapidly than any large group of people ever have in the history of the planet.

If the world's farm trade barriers were removed, according to Avery, America could trade to a tune of about $100 billion per year, of which $50-60 billion could come from selling more commodities overseas.

"There's no other country that can expand its agriculture output for free trade like we could," he said.

But severe trade restrictions that other countries have imposed are doing more harm to the environment than ever before. For instance, in Indonesia, they are busily chainsawing tropical forests to make room for farmland to grow soybeans for the broiler enterprises that are increasing exponentially, according to Avery.

Because of the rapidly changing demographics and social structures of many countries (including the end of the Cold War and communism and the rapid development of so-called third world countries), the U.S. has stumbled over its policies regarding free trade. With the passage of the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) and the steady progress of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT), more markets are opening. But the transition period has become difficult.

"The U.S. has the second dumbest farm policy in history," said Avery. "Stalin was number 1, but he's retired."

The U.S. has positioned itself to become a leader regarding high-producing agriculture and could be the key to feeding the billions of people that will exist in the world of tomorrow.

He told the animal scientists that we have the best technology, the best land, and the best infrastructure.

But we have the problems of the environmentalists, many who blame the problems on too many people.

Also, funding is being cut for research when the need is most crucial for it, said Avery.

Avery spent time doing research to debunk the theory that too many people have led to the demise of wildlife and the environment. He told them that, instead, "low input, organic farming" has caused the problems.

For educators to get agriculture's point of view across, it may be necessary to let the environmentalists know that wildlife, in the end, could be saved by making most intensive use of the ag land we have, so land doesn't have to be taken from wildlife to produce food. In fact, he said, high-yield farming is already saving 10 million square miles of wildlife habitat.

But to achieve the high-production agriculture, pesticides and fertilizers must be used. Also, producers must learn to radically intensify pasture and forage management, curtail overgrazing, and search for ways to get higher rates of gain in both pasture and feedlot with the help of chemistry and biotechnology. Also, producers will need to explore new ways to market meat animals for a world market, including methods to slaughter, cut, ship, and package it.

Whatever plan is decided upon to feed the world, agricultural science must prevail, and that includes an intensive use of public relations to educate the public about the facts.

Avery directs the Center for Global Food Issues at the Hudson Institute, a think-tank headquartered in Indianapolis, Ind. Avery served as senior agricultural analyst for the U.S. Department of State and policy analyst for the USDA.

"Ag Progress Days" Set For Draft Horse And Mule Lovers

From this development, a number of little manufacturers, many of them Amish weld shops on Lancaster County farms, are inventing and modifying machinery to do the job. At the same time, the number of draft horses on smaller farms has grown to increase the market for these horse-drawn implements, but would-be buyers don't know where to find the equipment.

"We're not talking about the old two-row corn planter with a tongue for horses and no provision for fertilizer or insecticide application," Reist said. "Many of the modern horse-drawn equipment makers use three-point hitches and ground-driven hydraulic pumps to raise corn planters, mowers, and plows. With the flip of a lever or the push of a pedal, you can maneuver the equipment in quite modern fashion."

To illustrate the increasing number of draft horses and mules on farms, Ben Nolt at Penn State University quotes Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service figures that show all horse and mule numbers in Pennsylvania alone have more than doubled since 1967. As of June 1, 1990, the latest report, there were 17,400 draft horses and 9,800 mules in the commonwealth.

Of course, many of the draft horse breeds nearly died out after the Second World War, and Reist recalls the time when you could buy a champion at any major show for $500. But since the early 1970s, the interest has been revived.

"Many of the new draft horse owners in our American association know nothing about horses," Reist said. "Unlike the Amish and other plain people in Lancaster County and other like areas in the nation who farm for a living, these new draft horse owners are often hobbiests — doctors and lawyers who have moved from the city pressures to get back to the earth. They buy small 10 to 20 acre farms and want to maintain their properties without a lot of expense and have relaxation at the same time."

The American association is an educational organization with ties to all the major breed organizations, and the association sponsors programs where people can learn how to handle horses, how to feed, drive, work, break and physically care for them.

"After we have taught people how to work their horses, their next question is 'Where can we buy machinery to work on our little farm?'" Reist said. "And that's what we hope to do at the Draft Horse and Mule Progress Days. We'll have exhibitors of machinery working in the fields with representatives of manufacturers to tell the procedures of use and maintenance and why the equipment was developed. In addition, we will have five major breeds of draft horses on display with representatives of their registry associations. Belgians, Percherons, Clydesdales, Shires, and Suffolks are to be included. And maybe a Cream can be found. Only about 75 animals in the Cream breed exist in the U.S.," Reist said.

A small entry fee will be charged to visit the Progress Days. Exhibit booth space is somewhat limited, and interest has already come from many parts of the nation. But Reist said other potential exhibitors, or anyone who would like more information about the Progress Days, may call him at (717) 560-7987 in Lancaster.

If you work with or have an interest in draft horses, mules, or modern horse-drawn farm equipment, you will want to attend the Draft Horse and Mule Progress Days.

Nutrient Management

According to the bureau director, the flow of applications has been steady since the announcement earlier this year that they were being accepted.

He said that, as of Tuesday, there were 94 applicants approved for interim certification. A breakdown of those approved applicants is 45 commercial people, 38 public service people, and 11 farmers.

In other news, Longenecker told the board that his bureau is in the process of trying to quantify the non-agricultural use of fertilizers, such as on golf courses and in landscaping.

He said he is also trying to get data on the potential use of nutrient chemicals, other than being intended as fertilizer.

Longenecker said he is trying to quantify such uses, such as using urea for de-icing at airports, and different ammonia-containing compounds in road and sidewalk de-icer formulations.

"Environmentally Sensitive" Is Sensitive Issue

A brief discussion of what considerations and definitions for environmentally sensitive areas might be given in regulation was also held Wednesday, but representatives of a subcommittee studying the issue said they needed more time to review existing regulations by other agencies in order to form proposals that are consistent.

Perspective Outlined

However, perhaps the most telling of the progress the board has made was in a summary statement made by Mike Krempasky, executive secretary to the State Conservation Commission, at the end of Wednesday's meeting.

Krempasky had been asked about how the information the board recommends gets passed on to the commission members, and whether he gives his own recommendations.

In his remarks, Krempasky told the board members that he does give both their recommendations, and his own recommendations.

But further, Krempasky told the board that he and his staff take "very seriously" the issues raised by board members. He said he has a list of 26 specific issues raised by the board and he said, "We are in complete agreement on about 80 perecent of them, as far as numbers go."

He gave an example of what kinds of efforts have been going on between meetings to incorporate or resolve advisory board concerns.

According to Krempasky, while board members have continuously requested that flexibility be built into regulations, he said that he has discussed that subject with Dr. Beegle, a Penn State agronomist who has been serving in an advisory capacity.

According to Krempasky, he is working on the creation of a regulatory section that would provide a means for allowing innovation and flexibility.

Dr. Beegle has consistently urged for regulations which are not restrictive in final form, but which must be based on sound, scientific operational principals.

Krempasky also told the board that he is sensitive to the distinctions between manure in a heavily bedded pack and in liquid form.

He told them that they must concentrate on making regulations for mandatory compliance, and worry about voluntary efforts later.

COUNTRY FEEDS. from Agway: DISCOVER THE DIFFERENCE

And what makes new Country Feeds. different from other premium horse feeds?

For starters, we use only first-quality grains and ingredients, like those you see here in our textured feed. Crimped oats, rolled corn, well-balanced nutrient pellets and NutraMax Plus* molasses for extra energy and nutrition. You'll also find the same quality in our pelleted, extruded and complete feeds.

Second, a choice of protein levels allows you to balance your horse's ration according to its lifestyle and the quality of your forage.

However, the biggest difference is our freshness. Every bag is stamped with a "Best if used by" date before it leaves the mill, so that you are assured that it is the freshest available.

Consistently superior, consistently fresh, bag after bag, feeding after feeding. Unconditionally guaranteed.

But don't take our word for it. Stop by your Agway store and see for yourself the difference quality makes — in a feed and in your horse.

Lancaster 4-H Horse Production Club Reorganizes

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — The Lancaster County 4-H Horse Production Club will be reorganizing on May 16 at 7 p.m. at the home of Samara Shuster-Edelson, 2001 Sonora Lane, Manheim.

The Production Horse 4-H Club is open to any youth between the ages of 8-19 who has a horse or pony under the age of three years.

Production 4-H teaches youth the skills needed in properly raising, training, and showing a young horse or pony. Each youth has the opportunity to show his or her animal in a county production round-up with possibilities of competing on the district or state level of competition.

4-H is the youth program of Penn State Cooperative Extension. For more information on joining 4-H, contact either the organizational leader Tammy Long, daytime phone at (717) 665-7626 or evenings at (717) 627-2837 or the Lancaster County Cooperative Extension Office, 1383 Arcadia Road, Room 1, Lancaster, PA 17601, (717) 394-6851.

Ayrshire

Katie Young, 15, of Chester County is the Alternate PA Ayrshire princess for 1994-95. She is the daughter of Charles and Debra Young. She has a brother, Charles, and sisters, Kelly and Betsy. She attends Avon Grove High School where she is a member of stage crew. Katie is the secretary for the 4-H dairy club and also is involved with dairy judging. She helps out by feeding the calves on Purr-Ayr Farm. She enjoys showing her Ayrshires throughout the year. Katie's future plans are to attend college as a business major.

Karen and Katie will be promoting PROFITABLE PA AYRSHIRES throughout the next year. They will be in attendance at local, state, and national shows, and also at the Ayrshire Field Day that is to be held at the Alvin String Farm in New Jersey. The PA Ayrshire Association looks forward to Karen and Katie promoting the Ayrshire cow!!

Premium Lamb Prices In Niche Markets

Editor's Note: Larry Yager, Adams County Extension wrote the following information for sheep producers.

As most of you know, lamb prices dropped to the high 30s about two years ago. At that time your Pennsylvania Sheep and Lamb Marketing Program decided something had to be done as lamb producers just could not survive at those prices. The Board approved a Plan of Action to address this challenge. John Shoemaker of Allensville was appointed to oversee this project.

The first item in the plan was to investigate the potential of a producer-owned cooperative for improving returns to sheep producers. A random survey of Pennsylvania sheep producers was conducted to determine the production practices, number of lambs sold and interest in being involved in a lamb marketing venture. The results of this survey showed sufficient interest to proceed with a study to identify premium marketing opportunities.

Lynda Brushett, a consultant in "Niche Marketing" and who did the research for Yankee Shepherd Lamb Cooperative in New England, was hired to assist the steering committee with this study. Funding was a joint effort of the Sheep and Lamb Marketing Program, Federal-State Market Improvement Program and Penn State.

The steering committee is focusing on two premium markets that provide an outlet for 60-80 pound, unfinished lambs and 100+ pounders under a "Natural" lamb label. The protocol has been developed and is awaiting USDA approval for the label.

So, are you interested in getting the most for your lambs and being a part of a cooperative solution to lamb marketing? If you are, then you should attend the statewide organizational meeting for Green Valley Lamb to be held in Room 324 ASI Building on the Penn State College of Agriculture campus on May 21, 1994 starting at 10:00 a.m. Please register soon with Lora Zimmerman in the Cooperative and Business Program office in 206 Armsby Building, University Park, PA 16802 or call 814-863-0644. She needs the numbers for reserving your lamb barbeque. There will be a $10 registration fee.

Scholarship Available

DEFOREST, Wis. — American Breeders Service (ABS) encourages Jersey youth to apply for the ABS-sponsored Morris B. Ewing/ABS scholarship. Conducted in conjunction with the American Jersey Cattle Club, the essay contest is open to all Jersey youth who plan to continue with post-secondary education.

The winning student will receive a $500 scholarship to be presented in November at the North American International Livestock Exposition Junior Awards Banquet held in Louisville, Kentucky.

This year's essay topic is, "What is likely to be the biggest challenge Jersey breeders will face in the near future, and how can they confront this challenge?"

Essay applications should be sent to Gayle Starkey at the American Jersey Cattle Club, 6486 East Main Street, Reynoldsburg, Ohio 43068.

Penn State Researcher Revises Holstein Measurement Standards

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — A researchers in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences has revised growth standards used to estimate the weight of Holstein calves and heifers from heart girth measurements.

Dr. Jud Heinrichs, associate professor of dairy science, has developed new, more accurate growth charts for height and weight of heifers at a given age from two to 24 months. "The new standards are helping dairy producers chart animal growth, provide balanced diets and determine when heifers should breed," he said.

Using data about Holstein weight and growth collected from across the United States, Heinrichs developed a new equation that makes girth measurement a more accurate estimate of weight and growth. Heinrichs already has revised growth charts for Ayrshire, Brown Swiss, Guernsey, Jersey and Milking Shorthorn cattle.

Farmers use these growth charts to compare their animals to a breed average for weight and height. Weight and growth usually are estimated by measuring an animal's heart girth.

"Girth-measuring tapes are marked in inches on one side, with each inch correlated for the average weight of that breed on the other side," Heinrichs said.

Heinrichs recently evaluated heart girth tapes for Holsteins and found serious problems. "The Hosltein standards were based on a 1936 U.S Department of Agriculture study of a single herd," he said.

"I analyzed more recent data that measured cows and calves using both tapes and scales. The tapes consistently made animals seem heavier than they really were."

Inaccuracy is a problem because body weights of animals are used to make various management decisions, such as ration balancing. "The average milk cow's productive life last only a few years, so a dairy farmer replaces about 30 percent of the herd each year," he said. "Replacing culled cows with superior heifers improves the herd, but getting good heifers takes good nutrition."

Genetic improvement in the Holstein breed over the decades may have altered the 1936 correlations between girth and weight, Heinrichs said. "But many tapes don't even match each other. If you pick a girth measurement and compare the weights given by two different tapes, they may differ by up to 40 pounds for a single inch measurement of heart girth."

Exclusive rights to the new standards developed by Heinrichs have been purchased by the Coburn Company, Inc., the nation's leading manufacturer of girth tapes. Heart girth tapes based on the revised standards should soon reach the market.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

"You have a green thing in your hair.!'

With that warning, a fourth-grader in the Sunday School class I help teach reached up and plucked the object off the back of my head.

It wasn't the piece of hay I expected to see, though hay, straw and sawdust bits are an everyday part of my hairdo. Nor was it one of those little green worms you often find crawling somewhere on your clothes after a springtime walk through the woods.

No, this was maple tree residue, one of those tiny, yellow-green blossoms that dropped by the millions around the area in recent days. Seeing the unexpected hair ornament brought to mind a magazine article I'd read just days before listing the positive and negative characteristics of the most popular trees grown around here. After reading the list, with its critique of diseases, pests and dirt created by various shade and ornamental trees, I wondered why anyone would bother planting a tree at all.

Two of the worst offenders on the list were maples and willows.

Maples have massive and invasive root systems, poking into every bit of soil in their reach, slurping up moisture, clogging septic lines, preventing lawn growth beneath. Messy trees, they drop twigs, blossoms, seeds, leaves — something almost year 'round.

Willows are almost as bad in their usually short lifespans, with lots of twig dropout and problem root systems. As they get older, the large roots of willows will surface above the ground near the trunk, often gnarled and picturesque, but so shallow-rooted the trees easily uproot with heavy wind. And those protruding roots chew up lawn mower blades like crazy.

Guess what grows around our farmhouse?

You guessed it. Maples. And willows.

Nine towering old maples surround the house, beloved old trees with many decades of growing under their bark. Four willows of lesser age — the oldest is over 20 — also dot our landscape. A fifth one planted the same time as the oldest simply fell over last year, on a warm May afternoon with no breeze.

Everything the article says is true about both species. They are messy, depositing droppings on the lawn that need to be cleaned up on a regular basis. Both lose branches in heavy winds. Both create problems on the ground beneath their canopies of leaves.

Still, we treasure each one and feel that they're a lot like having children — the rewards outweigh the work that comes with them.

Just as the sun beings to seasonally heat up, the maples unfurl shading leaves which help naturally cool our old stone and brick farmhouse. Birds galore build nests in their wide-spreading branches, robins, sparrows, blackbirds, and an opportunist bluejay couple that set up housekeeping directly above one maple's birdfeeder.

Our new squirrel family likewise chose to nest in a large, arching maple limb — also near the stash of sunflower seeds and corn. From the back porch and kitchen, we can watch as the five half-grown babies romp up and down the limbs, while mother stretches out on an adjacent branch, looking positively worn out.

Cardinals, red-winged blackbirds, song sparrows and an occasional sharp-shinned hawk hunting dinner favor the weeping willow by the pond. Its tiptop branch is often occupied by one of the noisy mockingbirds, belting out whatever song it fancies at the moment. A pair of gentle, mourning doves usually nests in the backyard willow.

Dirty trees? Yep. Problem trees? Yep. Beloved trees? Absolutely.

Pardon me while I go sweep all these green things off the kitchen floor.

Chester County Plans Extension Workshops

MELROE COMPANY

The #1 CHOICE WORLDWIDE bobcat

Sometimes Darlene and daughter Katy dress in authentic garb to greet guests at The Country Stay, a bed and breakfast in a beautifully furnished 1880 Victorian-style home.

High Bidder To Get Two Nights' Sleep At The Country Stay Bed And Breakfast

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

MAYTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — Treasured items, gardening supplies, and works of art will cross the auction block at the annual benefit auction of the Kraybill Mennonite School on May 13 and 14. One of the more unusual items will be a certificate for two nights' lodging at The Country Stay Bed and Breakfast.

Unfortunately, auction-goers will not be able to preview the Victorian Bed and Breakfast with its elegant touches by hostess Darlene Landis. The Country Stay is located on a 98-acre farm where Darlene's husband Lester raises soybeans, corn, and wheat for his 165-head steer and 120-head sow operations.

The Landis' purchased the farm with its stately brick house in 1970. Only part of the house was used until eight years ago, when the unused part was renovated for a bed and breakfast.

The Landises did not cut corners when they sought to restore the 1880 house to its former beauty. Crown moldings, chair railing, and molded baseboards were made to match the original. Antiques were carefully chosen to enhance the atmosphere evoked by the 10-foot-high ceilings and deep-seated windows.

Son Doug, 16, mows the spacious lawns surrounding the home and does the trimming. Darlene keeps the many flower beds in showmanship shape. Even 9-year-old Katy helps by daily watering the flowers in the window boxes during the summer months.

Another son, Donavan, 21, lives at home and works full time off the farm and but spends a few hours daily helping his dad with farm work.

Most guests spend two to six nights on the farm. A different breakfast is served each morning, but a typical one includes baked oatmeal, fresh fruit cup, waffles with blueberry sauce, sausage, pastry, juice, and coffee. Other favorites are apple dumplings, pancakes, pecan sticky buns, banana streusel, meat and potato quiche, and dried beef gravy.

Darlene spends two hours preparing each breakfast from scratch. Although she is an excellent cook, it is not her favorite thing to do. She prefers cleaning and decorating.

She certainly excels in that area. Two bedrooms plus a suite are tastefully furnished.

The sitting room for the private Victorian Suite is elegantly formal with Queen Anne chairs, and touches of lace, marble, and roses. In keeping with the era, an armourie is used to hang clothing instead of ruining the architecture with built-in closets. Full-length shutters can be closed for privacy or opened to view the rolling farmland and lawns surrounding the property. A step stool to reach the high bed is representative of the era, when beds were placed high for added warmth.

The sitting room that is shared by two of the bedrooms is furnished more with the country look. A school desk serves as an end table, a wooden wagon as a magazine rack, and pegs on wall hold a wooden chair, baskets, and a wooden stocking form. Tin lights, dried herbs, wreaths, and candles complete the country decor. A player piano that still works is ready for guests to use.

Guests generally leave the home by 10 a.m. to view the surrounding tourist attractions. Darlene often helps guests map out stops not located on tourist handouts. For Couples searching for something special will find it in The Victorian Suite, which includes a bedroom with a private bath and this sitting room. Notice the deep-seated windows with indoor shutters in keeping with the era. Darlene and her daughter page through a book from the Victorian era, one of the many elegant touches placed there for the pleasure of guests.

(Turn to Page B4)

Homestead Notes

The Country Stay Bed And Breakfast

example, she has several local Amish friends who will prepare a full-course dinner and even sing old hymns for the guests.

This bed and breakfast is designed for couples, not families interested in a hands-on farming experience for their children.

It is open year-round, but winter months are usually only full on weekends. Beginning in April through the fall season, the rooms are booked solid almost every night.

In the past, Darlene has handled all the work of laundering linens daily, she irons the sheets, prepares breakfasts, shops daily for supplies, cleans, decorates, and makes crafts for guests to purchase. That's quite an undertaking when added to the yard work and her responsibilities to her own family. In a few weeks, she plans to hire part-time help.

"I don't want my own children to feel that I was too busy to take care of them," she said.

Although Darlene appreciates the guests's exclamations of her beautifully-furnished home, she is more thrilled to hear again and again, "There's something so special about this home. The minute I walked into it, I felt so peaceful and loved."

Darlene explains, "I contribute that feeling to God's love. I pray for each guest as I make the beds and before I serve breakfast. I want this to be a haven where people can come and feel God's peace and presence.

"To do all this work is empty of meaning if I had no reason for doing what I'm doing," said Darlene who believes the bed and breakfast opened up a whole new opportunity for her to use her hospitality gifts of serving and mercy.

"I feel very fulfilled to provide a service people really enjoy. It's exhaustive work, moments when I feel I can't go on," Darlene said. "Yet it is rewarding. It's the best thing we could have done."

For more information about The Country Stay Bed and Breakfast, call or write Lester and Darlene Landis at 2285 Bull Moose Road, Mount Joy, PA 17552, (717) 367-5167.

Guests enjoy the nostalgia of days gone by when they play old-time favorites on this player piano located in the sitting room decorated with homemade crafts and herb wreaths that can be purchased for lingering memories.

School Benefit Auction

MOUNT JOY (Lancaster Co.) — The 17th annual Kraybill Mennonite School Benefit Auction will be held Friday and Saturday, May 13 and 14, at the school. 598 Kraybill Church Road, Mount Joy.

On Friday, May 13, beginning at 5:00 p.m. enjoy a Southern Style Pig Roast and an ice cream sundae bar. Tickets can be purchased prior to the roast or that evening. Take-outs are available.

If crafts and plants are your favorites, stop by the craft and plant sale from 5:00-8:00 p.m. Crafts will include country pillows, handmade baskets, eucalyptus wreaths and much more. Also, preview the beautiful quilts and fine art slated to be auctioned. Choose your favorites for bidding on Saturday!

Baseball card collectors - be sure to visit the card stand at the craft area to find that missing card!

Visit the outdoor plant area and choose from a variety of hardy bedding plants and beatiuful perennials. Also meet KMS's own "Plant Doctor", Tom Fredlund, a professional landscaper, on Friday evening and get answers to your most thorny plant questions.

The gavel strikes at 6:45 p.m. when more than 100 Winross trucks will be auctioned along with a few service oriented gift certificates from local merchants.

Saturday, May 14, from 7:00-9:00 a.m. feast on a hearty country breakfast of omelets and home fries or pancakes and sausage. After breakfast, view the spectacular countryside, from a tethered hot air balloon! Rides will lift off from 8:00-10:00 a.m., weather permitting.

For those of you who like to "wear your words", custom printed T-shirts will be hot off the press between 10:00 a.m. - 12 p.m.

The auction will begin at 9 a.m. and feature a large variety of new merchandise donated by local businesses, handcrafted items, fine art and collectibles, furniture, bark mulch (at 11 a.m.) and - at 1:30 p.m. more than 20 beautiful quilts, wall hangings and braided rugs.

High quality, handmade quilts are a tradition at KMS! A few of this year's quilts include Country Rose and Spring Flower Garden (both appliqued). Mariners Compass, Album and the KMS Eighth-grade Log Cabin. Some matching wall hangings are also available.

In addition, one Williamsburg Blue and several Hunter Green Mount Joy Hometown cotton throws will be auctioned. Cranberry throws will be available for purchase at the craft stands.

An outstanding collectors edition is being offered this year! A one of a kind remarque, by P. Buckley Moss, will be featured at the auction. The remarque is entitled, "The White Barn" and features extensive original painting on the print, making it a unique collectors item.

Other special features include P. Buckley Moss rare print, David Brumbach limited edition print, a collection of prints and one limited edition from Amish artist Susie Riehl, originals and prints of the Star Barn and the Hans Herr House and an original oil - subject of the bidder's choice - by renowned local artist Linn Longenecker,, and Kraybill Mennonite Church armetale banks.

Fresh strawberry pie, chicken barbecue, home baked goods and funnel cakes are among the goodies available all day long.

Auction proceeds benefit Kraybill Mennonite School.

For information about the auction, contact Kraybill Mennonite School at (717) 653-5236 or KMS, 598 Kraybill Church Road, Mount Joy, PA 17552.

Russian Poultry Exchange Builds Friendship

Through the Friendship Force, a group of poultry ambassadors from Russia stayed with local families who had visited Russia last year. The group is shown here with host family members that included Frank and Ellen Baber, Lancaster; Alan and Sally Bair, Columbia; Harold and Ruby Esbenshade, Manheim; Mel and Ann Gehman, Annville; Dick and Linda Peacock, Lancaster; Paul and Karen Wolgemuth, Elizabethtown; and Robert and Regina Zimmerman, Reinholds.

REAMSTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — For the final 10 days of April, 13 Russian poultry representatives examined the area's poultry industry. It was a reciprocal visit for the Russians, who stayed in host familys' homes and absorbed American culture while studying the intricacies of successful poultry operations.

The group, traveling under the auspices of the Friendship Force, expressed fervent praise of the poultry farms and industries that they toured.

According to Yuri Solomin, deputy director of a large poultry farm in Russia, the poultry operations in the county are not similar to those in Russia, where large state farms are operated.

He foresees that the state farms will continue in his country because it is too difficult to break them into smaller farms. But the Russians hope to see smaller family-run farms being built.

The ambassadors were interested in learning how family-run farms are organized and the relationship of these to feed companies, processing plants, and wholesalers.

Solomin was especially intriqued with visiting Shady Brae Farms, operated by his host family, Harold and Ruby Esbenshade of Manheim. The large poultry complex offered Solomin ideas that could be applied to those in Russia.

A lot of cammeradie was evident between the visitors and their host families as they discussed the lifestyles of Americans.

"The way American people live is more than I expected. It seems the right pace," said Maya Donskikh, chief personnel. "I liked the land, enjoy the standard of living, and all the people — they are friendly and hospitable."

The enviromental side did not go unnoticed. "I admire the way the people treat the land, their houses, and their heritage," said Eugeni Artemyev, chief engineer. He stayed with Alan and Sally Bair of Columbia. He mentioned that he was impressed that children are taught to be independent from their early years.

The visitors vehemently shook their heads in agreement with this observation. In Russia, they said, the children never leave. They almost always stay living with their parents because of their country's housing shortages.

It was the third time that Galina Gorislavskaya spent time with Robert and Regina Zimmerman, broiler producers in Reinholds. "We are very close, like family," she said.

The Zimmermans had accompanied the poultry to exchange to Russia last year and stayed in the Gorislavskaya home. Later, the Zimmermans went with the Friendship Force Relief Exchange to give medical supplies and equipment to Russian children's orphanages. When Galina heard about it, she insisted the Zimmermans stay in her home again.

The visitors accompanied their host families to church services on Sunday. Ulyana Trusova, an accountant, said that she accompanied Paul and Karen Wolgemuth of Elizabethtown to a local Mennonite church.

"They keep a belief that makes the people more in community and closer to each other," she said.

The visitors said that although they came to see the poultry industry, they did not consider that the most important benefit of the visit. "The poultry industry is everywhere — it's the friendships with Americans that is the most important part of our visit," said Vladimir Stepantsov, deputy director. He and his wife Vera stayed with Mel and Ann Gehman of Annville.

Vera said the she observed that American housewives do not have as much to do in the kitchen as Russian housewives.

"Americans have dishwashers, microwaves, and many appliances to do the work for them. They can buy meals ready to cook — we don't have that," she said.

Many of the foods were unusual to the Russians, who said that they liked it all, especially the tapioca pudding, someone remarked.

Stepantsov said that his people felt that their host families have given them food that is "too much and too tasty."

The host families said that they were only trying to feed them as much as they had been fed when they had visited their homes.

Remember Mama

How do you remember your mother? Mending your clothes? Washing your sheets?

Probably not.

No doubt it was stirring up your favorite cake or serving plump warm cookies hot from the oven or other family favorites.

Here are recipes our readers sent from their mother's and grandmother's kitchens. These are recipes to pass on to your daughters and sons.

POTATO BUNS

1 cup mashed potatoes, may use instant
1 cup scalded milk
2 eggs, beaten
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
⅔ cup shortening
6 cups flour

Soak one tablespoon yeast in ½ cup warm water. Add remaining ingredients and mix. Let rise for 2 hours; knead. Pinch off small pieces and put on a cookie sheet. Let rise. Bake at 375 degrees until lightly browned. Frost or fill. The secret to get these moist is to not use too much flour and do not handle more than necessary.

My mother's name is Joann Martin. She lives on a dairy farm in Myerstown with her husband of 25 years, Reuben, and five children. She also has two married daughters, one married son, and one grandson. Mom loves to bake, cook, and sew. She is always willing to lend a helping hand and a listening ear. Happy Mother's Day, Mom!

MOTHER'S MONTGOMERY PIE

Mix together and set aside:
1 lemon grated and the juice
1 pint boiling water
1 cup molasses
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons flour

Place in bowl and beat for 4 minutes:
2½ cups flour
2 large eggs
¼ teaspoon salt
1¾ cup sugar
½ cup butter
1 cup milk
2 teaspoons baking powder

Pour liquid into 3 unbaked 9-inch pie shells. Then with 2 tablespoons, evenly drop batter on top of liquid. Bake in 400 degree oven until cake on top springs back when tested.

Contributor writes: This was my mother's recipe and it is delicious.

Jane T. Wismer
Trappe

GRANDMOTHER'S MILK PIE

1 unbaked pie shell

Put a handful of flour and a handful of sugar into pie shell. Mix gently with fingers. Add milk or cream and keep mixing until dissolved. Stir in sugar, flour, and milk until pie shell is desired fullness and mixture is the texture of instant pudding. Don't fill the shell too full or the mixture will bubble over the sides when baked. Add a dash of vanilla and sprinkle with cinnamon and nutmeg.

Bake at 400 degrees until it wobbles like Jell-O. Cool and eat.

Contributor writes: This pie was called Milley Flitcher or leftover pie. It was the last ones made on baking day, using the leftover pie dough. They were also the first ones eaten as a custard was harder to keep with refrigeration. Also, my grandmother would not let a fruit pie or cake pie be cut until it had a day to set.

Linda Boyer
Narvon

MOTHER'S O HENRY BARS

Combine:
4 cups oatmeal
1 cup butter
1 cup brown sugar
½ cup white syrup

Spread in greased 9x13-inch pan. Bake at 15 minutes at 350 degrees. Cool. Melt a 12-ounce package chocolate chips and ½ cup crunchy peanut butter. Cool and cut.

Contributor writes: Not only are these my favorite homemade candy bars, but my mother, who is from Iowa, still makes a tray of these bars on my birthday every year and sends them to my home In Jacobus, Pa. I hope readers will enjoy them as much as I do.

Kieren Knapp, D.O.

LEMON DESSERT FLUFF

¾ cup butter
1½ cups flour
3 tablespoons sugar

Crumb together butter, flour, and sugar. Press into pan. Bake at 375 degrees for 15 minutes. Spread the following over baked crust.

16-ounces cream cheese
1½ cups confectioners' sugar
1½ cups whipped topping

Combine:
3 3-ounce packages instant lemon pudding
4½ cups milk

Spread pudding over cream cheese mixture and top with whipped topping.

Mothers, grandmothers, and great grandmothers are often expert cream pie bakers.

BOILED APPLE DUMPLINGS

Serves 6

2 cups flour
4 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons vegetable shortening
¾ cup milk
3 large tart apples
6 teaspoons sugar
Milk
Sugar

Sift together the flour, baking powder, salt, and sugar. Cut in the shortening until it is the size of peas. Stir in the milk. On a floured board, roll dough to ½ -inch thickness. Cut into six squares.

Pare and core apples and cut in halves. Put a half on each square of dough and 1 teaspoon sugar on each apple. Pull the four corners of dough together, dampen slightly, and press to seal. Tie each dumpling in a clean piece of white muslin.

Drop dumplings into a large kettle of boiling water. Cook 20 to 25 mintues, depending on the size of the apple. Serve in soup dishes with milk and additional sugar if desired.

June Dairy Month Extravaganza

In a salute to dairy farmers, Lancaster Farming wants to show our readers how versatile and great tasting dairy products are when used in appetizers, dips, soups, breads, main dishes, vegetables, desserts, beverages, snacks, and salads.

Every person who jots down a favorite recipe using dairy products and sends it to us will receive a packet of 25 decorative recipe cards and a note pad.

Please send your recipe using a sizable quantity of at least one of the following ingredients: milk, cream, sour cream, butter, yogurt, buttermilk, ice cream, cottage cheese, ricotta cheese, cream cheese or any hard or soft cheese.

Print or type your recipe and be sure to give accurate measurements, temperatures, times, and sizes of baking dishes to use. Be sure to print your name, full address, and phone number on the recipe. Please include a few paragraphs about yourself or your family. Although it is not required, we'd like a picture of you or your family to include with the recipe when it is printed. Photos will be returned if you mark your name and address on the back of the photo.

All recipes submitted will be printed during the month of June. This is a popular annual event for our readers who enjoy the recipes and reading tidbits of information about the person who submits the recipe.

Send your recipe and accompanying information and photo to Lou Ann Good, Lancaster Farming Dairy Recipe Extravaganza, P.O. Box 609, 1 E. Main St., Ephrata, PA 17522.

One recipe for family, please. Send it immediately as the deadline for entries must reach us by June 1.

Consuming Thoughts

Penn State Extension Home Economist For Berks Co.

Americans who are health and fitness conscious are finding that brown rice is "trendy," something nutritionists have known for a long time. Fitness and health are playing an important role in food preparation as evidenced by the increased use of fresh fruits and vegetables; fish and poultry; nuts, lentils and dried beans; and whole grain cereals. High calorie cooking methods also are being replaced by lighter methods such as steaming, poaching and grilling.

Brown rice is one of the "whole grain cereals" which currently is experiencing a rapid rise in popularity. No longer is brown rice eaten almost exclusively by health food devotees. Today, more and more Americans from all age groups are turning to brown rice, not just because it's nutritious, but because it tasts good.

Brown rice is not a mysterious as some consumers might think. Actually, brown rice is the whole, unpolished grain of rice with only the outer hull and a small amount of bran removed. Because the bran layer is left virtually intact, brown rice contains more protein, calcium, potassium, phosphorus, niacin and vitamin E than white rice. It also is a natural source of iron and provides fiber which we now know is important for good health.

Brown rice is easily digested, a benefit for both youngsters and oldsters. It has a nut-like flavor and slightly chewy texture which white rice lacks.

Although we do not look to brown rice to provide protein in the diet, brown rice often is combined with other foods to create a complete protein dish. For example, dried beans frequently are combined with rice in the South and Southwest to produce hearty, nutritious main dishes such as Red Beans and Rice. Cheese, eggs, poultry, meat and fish are other complimentary protein foods which can be teamed with brown rice for nutritious and economical meals.

Because brown rice is an agricultural product harvested once a year, the oils located in the bran layer may begin to turn rancid in just six months after harvesting. This process can cause the rice to develop unpleasant flavors, making it unacceptable for use. By the time the consumer purchases brown rice, it may already be several months old. So, its shelf life can be quite short.

However, major suppliers have solved this problem. Some food processors use a special "parboiling" process to increase the shelf life. Brown rice packages also are clearly marked with the statement "Best If Used By" and a date.

In addition to its many nutritional advantages, brown rice is exceptionally versatile. Appetizers, salads, accompaniments, casseroles, skillet dishes, stir-frys, even desserts benefit from the whole grain texture and hearty, nutty flavor of brown rice. Brown rice complements so many different ingredients, too, particularly the fresh fruits and vegetables, lean meats, poultry, fish, dried beans and low-fat dairy products which are so in-tune with today's healthful eating habits.

As you experiment with them in your own kitchen, you'll undoubtedly come up with many creative ideas of your own. Take dessert, for example. Most families love rice pudding. Your favorite recipe probably uses white rice, but why not substitute brown rice? Raisins taste fine, but what about using other kinds of dried fruit, or fresh fruit instead? And for summer, cooked brown rice combined with a soft custard, whipped cream and toasted walnuts might be a refreshing variation of the traditional baked pudding.

ANSWER — Marilyn Baumert, Herndon, wanted a recipe for tapioca pudding made with large pearl tapioca. Thanks to Sadie Stoltzfus, Kinzers, for sending a recipe.

Pearl Tapioca Pudding

2 tablespoons pearl tapioca
2 cups milk
1 egg
⅓ cup sugar
Dash salt
1 teaspoon vanilla

Heat milk and tapioca slowly in heavy saucepan. Boil 5 to 10 minutes. Beat egg and sugar, add a little hot milk to egg mixture then pour into tapioca, stirring constantly, bring it to a boil. Add vanilla. Stir occasionally as it cools to make a good creamy pudding.

ANSWER — Marilyn Baumert, Herndon, wanted a recipe for chicken corn soup that tastes like that served at Bird-In-Hand Restaurant. Thanks to Sadie Stoltzfus, Kinzers, for sending a recipe.

Chicken Corn Soup

1 chicken (about 5 cups meat)
4 quarts water
1 onion, chopped
½ cup chopped celery
2½ cups fresh or frozen corn
Salt and pepper to taste

Cook chicken slowly until it is tender in the 4 quarts water with seasoning. Remove chicken and strain broth through a fine sieve. Take meat from bones and cut in bite-sized pieces. Set aside. Add corn to broth and bring to a boil. Add chopped celery and onion and cook 5 minutes. (Optional, may also add noodles and cook with the celery and onion). Add chicken, simmer covered 5 minutes. Serves 10.

ANSWER — Joy Shreck, Bunker Hill, W.V., wanted a good recipe for pizza crust. Thanks to Sadie Stoltzfus, Kinzers, for sending a recipe.

Pizza Dough

1 package dry yeast
1 cup warm water
1 teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons oil
2½ cups flour (some whole wheat may be used)

Dissolve yeast in warm water, stir in remaining ingredients. Beat about 20-30 strokes until it rolls in a ball. Let set 5 minutes. Spread with fingers on pan and spread sauce and cheese on top. Bake at 400 degrees for 20 minutes.

ANSWER — Thanks to Cathy Gro, Mifflin County Dairy princess, for sending a dressing recipe in response to a previous request.

Apricot Dressing

2 cups cottage cheese
¼ cup apricot jam
2 teaspoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon grated lemon rind

Place cottage cheese, jam, lemon juice, and rind in blender or food processor. Blend or process until fairly smooth. Transfer to small bowl. Cover and chill. Serve as a dressing for fruit salads.

ANSWER — Thanks to Bunny Bankert, York Springs, for sending a dipping mustard recipe that was requested.

Bunny's Mustard

½ cup water
¼ cup dry mustard
⅛ teaspoon ground turmeric

In a saucepan, combine:

6 tablespoons cornstarch
1 cup sugar
⅔ cup vinegar
1⅓ cups water
¾ teaspoon salt

Cook until thick and bubbly for 2 minutes. Blend mustard mixture into hot vinegar mixture until it boils. Add 3 tablespoons butter and stir until butter melts. Remove from heat. Makes 3½ cups.

Note: If the mustard is too thick for dipping, thin with cold water.

Salad Vinegars

2 cups white vinegar
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ cup raspberries or blackberries.

Place all ingredients in microwave safe container. Heat 3-5 minutes. Cool to room temperature. Store in glass bottle or jar.

Herb Vinegar Italian Style

2 cups white vinegar
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons oregano, dried or 2 pieces fresh
2 cloves garlic

Place all ingredients in microwave-safe container. Heat 3 to 5 minutes. Cool to room temperature. Store in glass bottles or jars.

ANSWER — Thanks to Mrs. Harold Diller, Hagerstown, Md., who sent a recipe in response to the request by Mary Winters, Elizabethtown.

Crisco White Cake

2½ cups flour
1⅔ cups sugar
¾ cup milk
⅔ cup shortening
1 teaspoon salt
4½ teaspoons baking powder

Mix 2 minutes then add as follows:

½ cup milk
5 egg whites
1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix another 2 minutes.

Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes in a 9x13-inch pan or 9-inch round pan.

ANSWER — Thanks to Frederick Dropko, Thurmond, Md., for sending a recipe requested by Ada Mothes, Renick, W.V.

Seafood Crab Soup

1 pound claw crab meat
1 quart water
1½ pints tomatoes
½ cup diced celery
½ cup butter
3 or 4 diced potatoes
Salt and pepper to taste
2 tablespoons sugar
1 package frozen lima beans
1 package frozen corn
2 bouillon cubes

Into kettle, put butter, crab meat, water, tomatoes, and celery. Let cook about 30 minutes. Add potatoes. Cook 10 minutes, add salt, pepper, sugar, lima beans, and corn. Cook about 15 minutes and then add two bouillon cubes. Cook again for 15 minutes.

CHOCOLATE COOKIES

½ cup butter
1 tablespoon shortening
½ cup granulated sugar
½ cup brown sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 egg
2 ounces melted chocolate
2 tablespoons milk
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
2½ cups flour

Combine ingredients. Chill dough. Roll thin. Cut out shapes. Bake at 350 degrees for 8 to 10 minutes.

This recipe was handed down from my grandmother from her mother and then to my mother and to me. I am 68 years young so the recipe must be close to 100 years old. It is a very good tasty chocolate cookie.

COCONUT CREAM PIE

1 cup coconut
1 quart milk
2 large eggs
1 cup sugar
Pinch salt
2 heaping teaspoons cornstarch
1 tablespoon butter
¼ teaspoon vanilla
10-inch pie shell, baked

Separate eggs, saving whites for meringue. Beat yolks into 3 cups milk, adding sugar and salt. Heat in double boiler, mix cornstarch and remaining milk and blend with first milk mixture. Add butter. Stir until this mixture thickens and sticks to spoon. Remove from heat and add vanilla. Pour half of cream filling into pie shell and sprinkle with coconut, add remaining filling and sprinkle with additional coconut. Whip up egg whites and cover pie with meringue. Sprinkle remaining coconut over pie top. Place in 350 degree oven until merinuge and coconut are browned.

This was my mother's recipe.

CHOCOLATE RAISIN COOKIES

1 cup butter, melted
2 cups brown sugar
2 eggs
1 cup sour milk
2 tablespoons vanilla
3 cups flour
¾ cup cocoa
1 teaspoon baking soda
3 cups raisin

Mix together ingredients. Drop by teaspoonful on cookie sheet. Bake at 350 degrees until done. Frost with vanilla icing.

My mother got this recipe from her mother. This was our favorite cookie and I made them many times while a teenager on our farm in Denver.

Mrs. Leon Musser
Manheim

MOTHER'S MONTGOMERY PIE

1 cup sugar
1 cup dark molasses
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 pint cold water
1 tablespoon flour

1½ cups sugar
½ cup shortening
1 egg
1 cup sour milk
1 teaspoon baking soda
2 cups flour

Mix and drop on top of first part with a tablespoon. Bake in 350 degree oven until set and nicely browned.

Teachers Learn Truth About Eggs

LOU ANN GOOD
MOUNT JOY (Lancaster Co.)

—Cathryn McCharen attacked the "cholesterol myth" when she addressed home economists from Lancaster and Lebanon counties on April 28.

McCharen, who is considered a leading authority on egg nutrition, doesn't like the bad rap given the egg as the culprit of high cholesterol.

John Schwartz, extension director; Mark Price, secretary of the Lancaster County Poultry Association; Catherine McCharen, speaker, and John Hoffman, president of Pa. Poultry Federation, counteract myths about eggs with researched facts.

"Dietary cholesterol does not equal serum cholesterol," she said. "Dietary cholesterol has the least impact on serum of any of the sources studied."

Her message is penetrating the blockade that many people hold toward eggs. While some persons concerned with cholesterol levels determine to cut out all eggs from the diet, that is the wrong decision, according to McCharen. Studies show that the egg is not only 22 percent lower in cholesterol than previously thought but it also contributes an average of four percent of saturated fat in the diet.

Reducing saturated fat and exercise are shown to be the most effective controls of cholesterol in the blood stream, McCharen said.

In a recent control study of 25 men who were in good health, each was put on a controlled diet for eight weeks with the only dietary change of eating zero to four eggs a week. According the McCharen, the study indicated that eggs are not responsible for raising cholesterol levels. The only significant change, and that was mimimal, was in going from zero to four eggs.

Genetics probably is the underlying risk, with obesity also playing a major role in cholesterol built-up in the blood, McCharen said of the ongoing research.

She stessed the importance of considering an egg as a replacement to one ounce of meat when observing dietary guidelines.

"Eggs are the most versatile in cooking and the cheapest source of high quality protein," McCharen said. "An egg contains every vitamin but Vitamin C, and is considered nutrient dense."

Eggs have a positive future as poultry producers are finding new ways to change the fatty content of an egg by changing chicken feed.

The Lancaster County Poultry Association sponsors the annual dinner for home economists so that the teachers can translate their findings to students — important consumers who need to be educated on food sources.

Twin Valley Third Graders Learn Where Food, Other Stuff Come From

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

ELVERSON (Chester Co.) — Students in Mrs. Wagner's third grade class at Twin Valley Elementary Center were asked:

"What's a male chicken?"

The question was posed by Professor Animalicious, noted animal expert and contributing FFA member.

Immediately, one of Mrs. Wagner's group pointed to Matt Marks, designated Class Scholar. He bowed his head, closed his eyes, then looked Prof. Animalicious in the eye and said, "A rooster!"

"You're right!" shouted Dr. Animalicious, portrayed by Jason Redmond, Twin Valley High School freshman and school FFA member.

Along with help from three other FFA members, including freshman Kate Collmann, freshman Holly Smoker, and sophomore Raina Alexa, Prof. Animalicious (Jason Redmond) challenged the third graders on many questions. Most were about animals, and what products are made from them.

As part of the FFA's Food for America program, last week the FFA'ers spent some time going over a chart, asking the third graders if they know where certain products come from.

Did you know what animals lay eggs?

A checkmark next to chickens, ducks, and turkeys.

Did you know glue is derived from pigs?

Well, cattle, sheep, pigs, chickens, ducks, and turkeys.

The FFA Food For America team visited other elementary classrooms throughout the region, including Robesonia and Honey Brook, according to Renee Frederick, who helped coordinate the program.

"Through this activity, the FFA students learn about public speaking," Frederick said. By conducting aspects of the Food for America program in the elementary schools, not only does it provide an education for the third graders about food, but the FFA students benefit from the experience of addressing a group.

According to Mrs. Wagner, learning about animals in this way is used in their school science program.

Also, the FFA'ers brought along a pet guinea pig to show the students. Now, they'll have to give it a nickname.

Maybe Scholar Guinea?

RIDGE -- OUR MAN FOR GOVERNOR
REPUBLICAN PRIMARY MAY 10

Why Tom Ridge deserves your vote May 10

Five candidates seek the Republican nomination for governor in the May 10 primary.

But only one candidate has a detailed action plan for Pennsylvania agriculture. That's Tom Ridge.

And only one of those five candidates promises to overhaul Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Resources, and make it a "a partner of farmers rather than prosecutor." That's Tom Ridge.

And only one candidate for governor in the primary next week has a solid ag record. Tom Ridge, of course.

A six-term congressman from rural northwest Pennsylvania, Ridge has long championed farmer rights on wetlands and other issues at the federal level.

As governor, Ridge will continue his role as a farmer advocate.

Congressman Tom Ridge, Erie, long a friend of agriculture, wants to be Pennsylvania's next governor. But first he must beat four other challengers Tuesday in the Republican primary. Make Tom a winner. Give him your vote May 10.

Here's what Ridge plans for Pennsylvania:

Cut excessive taxes of the Casey years by $2 billion while reducing state spending by a like amount.

Reform workmen's comp to protect workers without bankrupting farmers.

Speed up DER permit process immediately with an executive order.

Exempt DER permits for normal farming practices.

Launch Task Force chaired by Ridge to double farm exports in four years. Bonus: 100,000 new jobs created by exports.

Boost sales further by putting more pizazz in commodity promotions.

"What we basically need in state government," Ridge says, "is less government intrusion and more common sense."

Egg Rolls With A New Twist

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — Ever taste egg rolls with apple pie filling?

This tasty variation from the standard Asian favorite was a big hit at the Berks County Extension recently.

Nipa Hammond, a Thailand native who now operates an egg roll factory in Reading, taught the afternoon workshop.

She admitted that egg rolls with apple pie filling are not made in her country, but something that she devised to suit American tastes. This creative entrepreneur also makes egg rolls with American flavors such as pizza and ham and cheese.

Under Nipa's detailed demonstration, workshop participants learned how to make the perfect egg rolls — and then sample the shrimp, pork, mushroom, and apple egg rolls.

"Why are egg rolls called egg rolls since they do not have egg as an ingredient in them?" asked a participant.

Nipa answered that the original egg roll included an egg filling, but in this country — like everything else — it got messed up.

Because many people are allergic to soy sauce or need to watch their salt intake, Nipa improvises and uses a combination of salt and sugar to replace soy sauce in egg rolls. She also precooks the vegetables a bit, which prevents the egg roll wrapper from splitting.

Americans do like egg rolls, and as Nipa proved, they are eager to taste new varieties.

Following is a recipe for shrimp egg rolls, but the other ingredients can be used. When Nipa puts together an egg roll mixture, she doesn't use exact measurements, but adds ingredients that she enjoys. Here are some of her ideas that can be experimented with.

Pork Egg Roll — cabbage, pork, celery, bean thread noodle, flour, onion, sugar, salt, and egg roll wrapper (ground turkey or chicken can be substituted for the pork). Don't add carrot to this combination.

Mushroom Egg Roll — mushrooms, white American cheese, flour, salt, pepper, and egg roll wrapper. (Wrap cheese around the mushrooms.

EGG ROLL WRAPPERS

2 cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup water

Add salt to flour and sift twice. Mix with ¾ cup water. Knead until smooth. Sprinkle flour generously on a bread board and roll out dough paper thin (about 27-inch square). Cut into 18 9-inch triangles.

Cooking Procedures

Heat oil to 375 degrees and deep-fry the egg rolls one at a time for 3 to 5 minutes, until each is golden brown. Cut each roll into 3 or 4 pieces. Serve hot.

Egg rolls can be made well in advance of serving. Deep-fry for one minute and allow to drain on paper towels. When serving time arrives, deep-fry again until golden brown or place in preheated 400 degree oven reduced to 325 when putting egg rolls in the oven, and bake for 10 minutes.

How To Wrap Egg Rolls:

Place a triangle of dough on board with corner A at the top fot board (figure 1). Place ¼ cup of the cooled filling in the center and fold corners B and C toward the center until they overlap (figure 2).

Roll up and continue to roll until it reaches corner A. With a little cold water, seal corner A securely to the roll (figure 3).

SHRIMP EGG ROLLS

½ pound uncooked shrimp
½ pound fresh bean sprouts (or 1 can)
4 cups finely chopped celery
½ cup sliced button mushrooms
2 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon sugar
½ teaspoon monosodium glutamate
1 teaspoon sherry
½ teaspoon cornstarch
3 tablespoons peanut or corn oil
Oil for deep frying

Shell, devein, rinse, and drain shrimp. Cut into ½ -inch pieces. Mix in bowl with sherry, ½ teaspoon salt, monosodium glutamate, and cornstarch.

If canned bean sprouts are used, drain sprouts and rinse in cold water 2 or 3 times. If fresh bean sprouts are used, wash and drain. Cut the mushroom slices into smaller pieces.

Heat 1 tablespoon oil in frying pan over high heat and add shrimp. Stir and cook over high flame until all shrimp turns pink. Place in dish and set aside. In a clean frying pan, heat 2 tablespoons oil and add celery. Stir rapidly over high flame for about 2 minutes. Add 1½ teaspoons salt, ½ teaspoon sugar, and ¼ teaspoon monosodium glutamate and mix well. Cook for 5 minutes over medium flame. Add mushrooms and mix thoroughly. Add mushroom juice. Add bean sprouts and mix a few times.

Add the cooked shrimp and after stirring a few times, turn into a colander and let all juice drain off. Cool thoroughly before using as filling.

Teens Learn To Develop Positive Attitude

GAIL STROCK
Mifflin Co. Correspondent

REEDSVILLE (Mifflin Co.) — This is the time of year high school seniors look forward to graduation. But 39 teens and five adults from Perry, Juniata, and Mifflin Counties participated in a graduation of different sorts on Thursday, April 14, at the Camelot Restaurant near Reedsville. They were graduates of the Dale Carnegie course offered to FFA and 4-H Junior Leaders through the Cooperative Extension Service. The Dale Carnegie Program, one of this nation's leading communication workshops, teaches communication skills and helps participants devleop confidence, express themselves clearly, maintain poise under pressure and motivate themselves and others.

"Through a cooperative arrangement with the Dale Carnegie Program, Pennsylvania 4-H'ers have a unique chance to get experience and confidence in public speaking," says Dr. Robert Lewis, professor of 4-H and youth development in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences. "The Dale Carnegie Course is offered through 4-H in different regions of Pennsylvania several times each year."

"It's a good leadership program," says Jim Ladlee, multi-county Youth Development Agent stationed in Lewistown.

Ladlee brought the program opportunity to the tri-county area through a PA Department of Agriuclture Grant- the Agricultural and Rural Youth Organization Grant. This grant was issued to Juniata County with the understanding that all three counties be given the opportunity to participate.

And an opportunity it was. Dale Carnegie courses usually cost almost $1,000. But with the $2,500 grant, each student needed to pay only $20. More than 350 Pennsylvania youths have completed the course during the past five years. Dale Carnegie instructor and Mifflin Countian Audrey Gay Rodgers conducted the 12-week course with s pot instructional appearances by her father John Reed Rodgers.

At graduation, certificates of recognition went to six Dale Carnegie graduate assistants who helped conduct the course. They were Richard Baxter from Lewistown, Candy Ciecierski from Lewistown, Erin Goss from Lewistown, Jim Ladlee from Lewistown, Amy Laughlin from McClure, and Kelly Spokus from Lewistown.

"The graduate assistants have been through the course before. Most have been elected by class members. They give demo's each week of what is expected that week, do the bookkeeping, and time the speeches," says instructor Audrey Gay Rodgers.

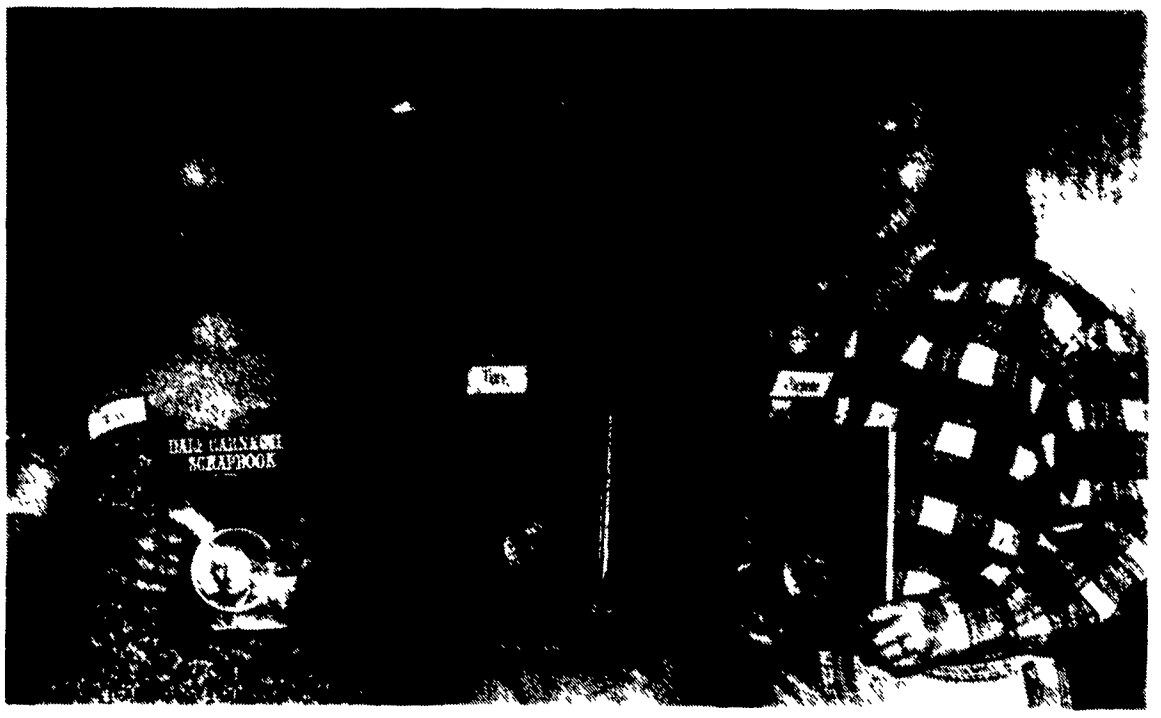
Book awards went to Sonya Ryan of McCalisterville, Mark Fogleman of Mifflintown, and Michelle Burdge of Mifflin, for presenting the most effective talk that evening. Bobbi Burdge of Mifflin received the highest award for achievement.

The students not only learned valuable motivational and leadership skills, but also set self-improvement goals. They were also told how to apply for obtaining three college communication credits for taking the course. Here's some of what the students had to say in their last session three-minute presentation.

Richard: My goal was to conquor worry, stress and fear. This was helpful when choosing a college. I learned that it's not healthy to worry.

Warren: My goal is to look for the good in others. There's something very special in each person. It is easy to stereotype someone before giving people a chance. My goal is to stop and take a first, second, third, and even fourth look to find something special in everyone.

Sonya: I learned it's o.k. to change, even though it can be hard. I benefited from my personal change and know that my family is very important to me and I'm glad Dad is here. My goal is to count each one as special.



Sonya Ryan of McAlisterville (left), Mark Fogleman of Mifflintown (center), and Michelle Burdge (right) of Mifflin, accepted Book Awards for presenting the most effectives talks that evening.

Sharon: My goal is always to have a smile on my face. I am encouraged to go out and be friendly. I urge others to smile and be friendly. You meet interesting people that way.

Chris: I learned we need to recognize strengths in each other. You can always find at least one good thing in each person. It changes a person's life to hear the good things. We need to communicate this effectively to all.

Charlotte: I've learned confidence. Now I can conduct meetings and I have improved socially. Now I look forward to doing activities I have planned for myself. My goal is to excel socially.

Megan: I learned to give more compliments and to become a friendlier person. Now I notice the good things about people.

Megan: My goal was to stop complaining. Now I'm getting better grades in school because I do my homework without complaining. It has helped me with speaking in front of a group.

Jim: My goal was to stop worrying, which was hard because the first five Dale Carnegie classes were cancelled because of snow! But we pushed on and I'm seeing a lot of future leaders in this class. My personal goal is to spend more time with my family.

Mark: I don't like dealing with academic disappointment. I've learned to try to deal with disappointments by looking at the bright side. I've learned we can do a lot with our attitudes.

Nathan: My goal is to begin what I do in a friendly manner and to encourage everyone I meet. If you begin in a friendly manner, it makes others feel important.

Joan: My goal in the beginning of the class was to work on communication and listening skills. I have learned to focus on who is speaking. Everyone will get more out of it if more people listen.

Erin: My goal at the beginning of the class was to become more enthusiastic about schoolwork. My goal is to keep my grades up.

Rachel: My goal is to try and not compare myself with others. My goals are with my family, to not criticize or complain.

Scott: This course has helped out a lot with speaking in front of people. It has given me more confidence. It's easier to talk to people.

Michele: I found if you have more confidence in yourself, you can go far in whatever you choose.

Erica: My goal was to speak better in front of a group. It's a lot easier now. I'm going to encourage others to be leaders and to listen to others.

Robert: This has helped me with speaking in front of class. I now like new challenges because of this course. I would encourage others to not be afraid to take on challenges.

Candice: I've learned that if I get mad, step back and take a deep breath, don't just walk away. I've learned to know when to say when when you talk.

Marcia: I've become more outspoken. I encourage other to be more vocal.

Beth Ann: This has helped me in talking in front of anyone. My presentation in front of English class had a good outcome.

Ryan: I've learned to give as many compliments to as many people as possible. This course will help me in college.

Amy: I've learned to concentrate on what I'm doing and not to worry about what's coming up.

Danielle: My goal is to smile during everyday, ordinary things. Everything will be better then.

Judy: This has helped me with human relations principles. I am able to listen more effectively.

Gay: I encourage everyone to get involved with others, especially kids. I've rediscovered the fountain of youth with my new job at a youth camp.

Rachel: I've learned not to complain. I've learned to voice my ideas while not criticizing the other person.

Kelly: My ideas now are spoken more clearly. I've learned to listen to what others say.

Amy: I've learned to be more enthusiastic.

Josh: This has built up my confidence. I've learned if I put my mind to it, anything can happen.

Bobbi: I've learned that if you always think positive, you will most likely succeed. Don't be afraid to speak out and be heard.

Mark: My goal is to take control of my life, make new friends, and don't be shy about things.

Jackie: Now I have no problem getting up in front of people.

Kelly: I've learned that if you are enthusiastic about what you do, you'll like what you do, and it will have a good outcome.

Amy: My goals were to get up in front of people without getting nervous. I've learned to be open to new challenges.

Melissa: This class has improved my self confidence and lowered my self-consciousness. People will think more of you if you speak your ideas.

Heidi: I wanted to build up my self confidence. If you smile and put on a cheerful attitude, people will be more friendly.

Diane: I learned how to control stress and worry. You can decide how much anxiety a subject is worth and don't give it any more.

First Step To Sound Money System

UNIVERSITY PARK, (Centre Co.) — If you're having difficulty making it from one payday to the next, it's time to start keeping careful spending records, advises Dr. Marilyn Furry, assistant professor of agricultural and extension education in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"The first step in developing a budget is finding out just where the money goes each week," Furry says. "Have family members carry a small notebook and jot down all expenditures. It's important to list even small items, such as parking fees, snacks and one-item stops at drug and grocery stores. These are easy to overlook, but they add up quickly."

Organize everyone's spending records into categories such as food, transportation, mortgage or rent, utilities, clothing, gifts, charities, medical care and recreation.

"Keep recording these expenses for at least a month," Furry says. "With this information, the family can play ways to increase purchasing power and save money. It also will help to decide on allowances for everyone."

Every family member should take part in budgeting. "Hold regular discussions about needs and goals — whether it's a new bike, next year's vacation or paying income taxes," says Furry. "Young children don't need to know every detail of the budget, but it's important that they're included and their thoughts and questions heard.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

The gardens are finally planted. First it is too wet to work the ground and next it is too dry. We have two gardens at our home and two on the dairy farm and that does not count the sweet corn patch. Every year I like to try something new. Sometimes the plnats that come in the mail are so tiny compared to the six foot ones pictured in the catalog.

I'm still amazed that I could grow such nice cotton plants last year. Even their flowers are pretty and the cotton is so very soft. The safflower from the heirloom catalog gave orange-red flowers and is a substitute for expensive saffron. This year I'm trying black salsify and I'm told that the second year it will bear large daisy-like yellow flowers. If you plant Job's Tears, to make into necklaces, be prepared for it to spread in following years. My New Zealand spinach reseeds itself from year to year and this gives me early spinach.

My red and blue braided wool rug is finally finished. This is a rather small one as I need more time to work outside and also time to freeze the asparagus that my husband brings from his plot. When one of the 11 grandchildren reaches 12 years of age, I tell them to pick one of the dozen rugs for themselves. While I basted strips for the rug, I watched some tapes from our son's family in Virginia. These make me feel as though I know them a lot better.

The men have been picking up stones in the fields. This is a never ending job as this farm has been in my ancestor's family since 1727 when they sailed from Rotterdam. That will soon be 300 years and still there are stones cropping up along the ridges.

Some of our shrubs have died over the winter and they are expensive to replace. But, we have so many people walking for exercise along our dead-end road that I bought some new blooming ones. The walkers appear to appreciate my tulips and hyacinths.

Just had my 50-year old portable typewriter cleaned and oiled so I'd better sit down and type this article. So far, I've written more than 1200 of them — that is a lot.

Butter Sales Reach 15-Year High

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Butter, long considered by many to be the "gold standard" of spreads, is enjoying a remarkable comeback. It's popularity is continuing to increase as consumers discover it's taste, value, and versatility.

"In 1992, the commercial disappearance of butter reached a 15-year high of 944 million pounds or 4.5 percent above 1991 levels," reports Scott Higgins, general manager, Mid East United Dairy Industry Association. "For 1993, retail sales figures are up 10.2 percent for the first 11 months of the year."

Quality/Value Equation

Why are more and more American consumers buying butter these days? Several factors are contributing to butter's newfound popularity according to market watchers: Improved price/value perceptions, health concerns and a growing trend among adult consumers to value the "quality of life."

Since 1989, the average price of butter has dropped 30 cents a pound, from $1.79 in 1989 to $1.40 in 1992. During the same time period, average margarine prices declined only 4 cents, from 63 cents per pound to 59 cents per pound. Industry watchers agree that in these days of tighter purse strings and with the growing importance of value pricing, butter's new economy has contributed to sales increases.

Margarine No Longer a Better Alternative

Many observers believe that recent medical studies linking trans-fatty acids contained in margarine to certain health risks have also been a factor in butter sales. A June 1993 Wall Street Journal article reported that several studies have shown the hydrogenated vegetable fats in margarine and vegetable shortening actually raise the risk of cardiovascular disease. Some consumers who switched to margarine because of health concerns are now turning back to butter as result of these findings.

One of Life's Little Luxuries

The "pleasure principle" provides a more emotional explanation for butter's growing popularity. Futurists point to mounting evidence that consumers today are concerned with enriching the quality of their lives in often small, but meaningful ways. Butter is one of the "common sense luxuries" that consumers have discovered in their quest for the finer things in life.

4-H'ers Gather In Harrisburg At Capitol Days

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — More than 100 4-H members across the state learned about the inner workings of state government when they took part in the State 4-H Capitol Days program in mid-April.

Youth from participating 4-H clubs were selected to represent the county based on their 4-H experience and leadership skills.

Breakfast with state legislators was the highlight of the event. 4-H members discussed issues and concerns and shared their ideas about the 4-H program.

Capitol Days is an educational experience that provides 4-H members age 15 and older with a better understanding of their roles as citizens of Pennsylvania and the roles and functions of state goverment.

Included were tours of various state facilities and meeting with officials of state government. The 4-H teen's experience in Harrisburg also included touring the governor's home, corresponding with state senators and representatives, a legislative breakfast with senators and representatives, and recreational activities with other 4-H members from around the state.

Each 4-H members chooses a particular state agency for an in-depth visit. By visiting their legislators, 4-H'ers develop a better understanding of how the executive branch works.

For more information about 4-H, contact your local cooperative extension office.

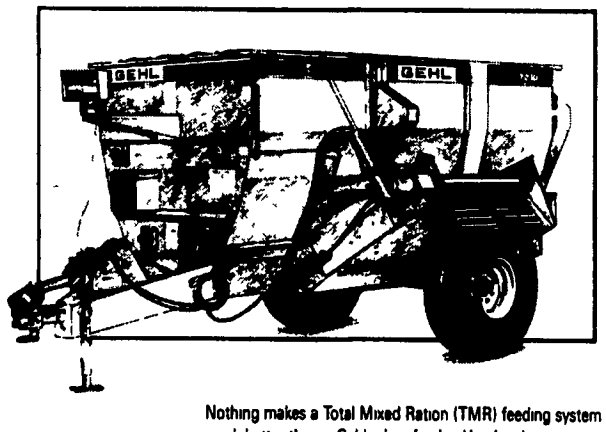
GEHL

GEHL TMR MIXER FEEDERS ARE #1



Nothing makes a Total Mixed Ration (TMR) feeding system work better than a Gehl mixer feeder. Here's why

- Better Mixing Action – Unique four-auger design creates a double figure-8 mixing pattern for fast and complete mixing of all feed ingredients
- Energy Efficient – Planetary drive system requires less horsepower.
- Built To Last – Patented star couplers absorb shock loads by allowing the bottom augers to flex, providing long service life
- Six Sizes – 150 to 500 cubic feet capacities
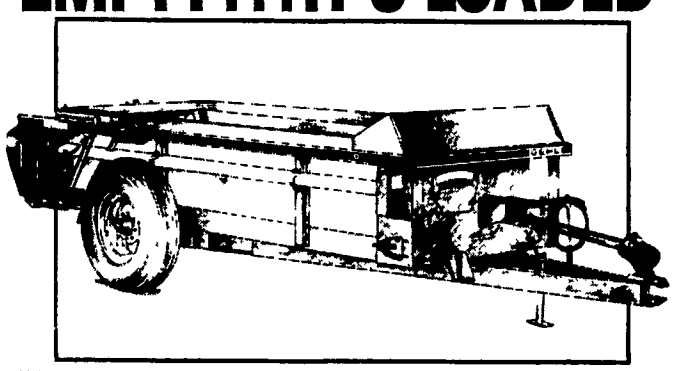
- Three Styles – Trailer type, stationary and truck-mounted units to fit your operation

EVEN WHEN IT'S EMPTY...IT'S LOADED



When you're checking out box-type manure spreaders, look to Gehl for a better spreader! Gehl box spreaders are available in five sizes ranging from 135 to 425 bushel heaped capacities. Gehl box spreaders deliver these and many more advanced features:

- Gehl-Tuff flooring is slippery so manure slides out easily
- T-bar apron chains are extra-strong for durability
- Galvanized steel sides are more corrosion resistant
- Single or tandem axle models available.
- 10-year warranty on sides and floors
- Hydraulic apron drive (optional) to match your specific application needs

Stretch your equipment purchase dollars with Gehl Finance. Talk to your participating Gehl dealer about our current programs

Waiver of finance on new Gehl equipment until October 1, 1994 Then standard rate financing for up to 36 months after that.

Culinary Caper To Feature Jo

CONNIE LEINBACH
Berks Co. Correspondent

WERNERSVILLE (Berks County) — Participants in the annual Wernersville Culinary Caper not only get to see some magnificent homes—both old and new—they also get to taste specially cooked foods by some of the areas finest chefs.

The Culinary Caper will be held this year on Saturday, May 21, from 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Seven homes in the borough and surrounding townships are on the tour, which participants can take at their leisure during the time slot.

Each home's kitchen will feature a local chef offering his or her unique specialty, said Marlene Ochs, chairman of the event. To complement the chefs in each house, individual local florists will display decorative creations.

The event is a fundraising project of the Junior and Senior Woman's Clubs of Wernersville for the purpose of redecorating the Wernersville Public Library and completing improvements to Greth Memorial Park, notes Phyllis Daniels, president of the club.

On the tour this year will be the Lerch Tavern, the first stop on the tour.

Here, tour-goers can sample hors d'oeuvres made the by chef from the Beverly Hills Tavern in Spring Township. Also there will be musicians in period costumes, playing music from the 1700s and 1800s on period instruments.

At an upscale, two-story sample home in the Reedy Run development, foods will be provided by the Junior Woman's Club of Wernersville. All the samples are creations from American Buffet, the GFWC cookbook that will be on sale during the tour.

Other homes along the route are the home of Mr. And Mrs. Warren Moore, a two-story Victorian home atop Texter Mountain; the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hummel, a two-story colonial built this year; Greystone, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richar d Esterly, a Georgian-style home built in 1802; The American House, known as one of the oldest standing hotels in Berks County, at 737 Fritztown Road, Sinking Spring. It is now home to The Guild Shop, which is operated by members of the Reading-Berks Guild of Craftsmen who offer hand-crafted gifts and home furnishings for sale.

Floral designs in each home are provided by the following florists: Signed, Sealed & Delivered, Davis Florist, Ernst Greenhouse and Floral Shop of West Lawn, Floral Studio, Hummel Florists, and The Nosegay of Bernville.

Recently, Brian Zimmerman, chef de cuisine at the American House in Stouchsburg, visited the home of Dennis and Cindy Rex, one of the houses on the tour, to discuss the dish he will make for the more than 200 people expected to attend the event.

Tickets for the tour may be bought in advance for $7 each by sending a check payable to GFWC Wernersville, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to GFWC Wernersville, 310 N. Walnut St., Wernersville, Pa 19565.

On the day of the tour, tickets are available for $8 at the Heritage Society in Wernersville. No tickets will be sold at individual homes.

For more information, call (610) 678-7513 or (610) 678-0229.

Cream of Crab Soup, created by American House owner Michael Filzenger, is one of American House's specialties, Zimmerman noted. It is one of several Easter-style soups, or chowders, offered on the menu. It is surprisingly easy to make.

FFA HAPPENINGS

Solanco FFA Holds Annual Awards Banquet

The Solanco Chapter of the FFA held its annual awards banquet Friday evening, April 15, honoring several chapter members for their achievements in the many areas of agriculture.

Five chapter members received Star awards during the evening's awards ceremony. The Star Award recipients are as follows:

- The Star Greenhand Award, which is presented to a first-year member in the chapter who has excelled in the Agriculture Education Program, was presented to Justine Hill.
- The Star Chapter FFA Award, presented to a second-year member who has excelled in the classroom and project areas, was presented to Joy Young.
- The Star Red Rose FFA Production Award was given to John Kiser. He is active in swine, dairy, and beef finishing shows at the local and county levels, as well as being active in various chapter and county events.
- The Star Red Rose Agribusiness Award was presented to Donnie Ammerman. He works on the L.M. Prange farm in Kirkwood, where he is responsible for general farm work and maintenance.
- The Star Keystone Award was presented to Tim Craig. Craig conducted swine breeding, swine finishing, and beef finishing projects, and has been involved in the FFA program from committee work to chapter officer. He has competed in meats judging, placing second in the county, first in the state, and received a gold medal in the national contest.

Receiving Greenhand degrees, which are presented to first-year FFA members in agriculture education, are Sarah Strickler, Bill Absher, Jimmy Angeline, Chris Althoff, Kurt Barto, Bryan Byers, Shannon Groff, Brianne Grumbling, Roy Haldeman, Justin Harrington, Jason Hess, Justine Hill, Mike Houghton, Nate Kreider, Nick Kreider, Kolin McCauley, Cherry Mellinger, Kandy Miller, Pat Nissley, Jerry O'Donnell, Charles Pannell, Matt Perry, Jennifer Pierce, John Pownall, Mike Reinhart, Jeremy Spangler, Jeff Sweigart, David Testerman, Michael Trout, and Jeremy Welk. The Greenhand Degree recipients received a certificate and a pin, and also received either a Solanco FFA cap or T-shirt.

Chapter degrees are presented to second-year members who have received their Greenhand Degree and have completed a project book. Recipients of Chapter degrees are Jake Barr, Jennifer Burkhart, Naomi Cowart, Brian Henry, Steve Hess, Nate Hoover, Ann Keefer, Tom Kegel, Andrea Kreider, Josh Kreider, Diane Landis, Bobby Lefever, Clint Metz, Todd Pell, Jennifer Reves, Jennifer Riley, Connie Stanley, Daryl Supplee, William Trout, Gary Welk, Robert Wimer, Andy Young, and Joy Young.

Red Rose degrees are presented by the Lancaster County Red Rose FFA to only eight percent of the total county FFA membership. The degree is awarded to third-year

JOHN DEERE POWR-MIZER™ FORAGE HARVESTE

Consistent cut, consistent savings

A John Deere Powr-Mizer Forage Harvester provides more than a uniform length-of-cut, it delivers savings that are every bit as regular. So you harvest more of your crop efficiently – without squandering horsepower.

The exclusive Dura-Drum™ cutterhead is fully enclosed. It can't fill with silage like cage-type designs. That means cut crop doesn't get recut, so all of your horsepower remains productive.

You'll also like the way the short, segmented knives save you money and time. When damaged, a John Deere replacement knife costs $13.03* compared to $77.32* for a full-width knife found on competitor's cutterheads. Here's another bonus – it's easy to replace a John Deere knife. Simply loosen three bolts, slide out the old knife, slide in the replacement, then retighten the bolts.

To start saving power, money, and qualit forage, check out a Powr-Mizer Forage Harvester at your John Deere dealer toda

CREAM OF CRAB SOUP

1 pound of backfin crab meat
2 tablespoons butter
1 small onion, minced
2 egg yolks
White pepper to taste
Dash of salt
Pinch of cayenne pepper
Pinch of paprika
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 cups warm milk
1 and 1/2 cups half & half at room temp.
Fresh parsley to garnish

Melt the butter in a double boiler (to keep soup away from direct heat), cook onion till transparent. Add seasonings. Heat the milk in a separate container. Add milk and half & half till 100 degrees. Add egg yolks to crab meat and stir into milk. Stir constantly so that nothing sticks to the bottom. If the soup breaks, add a pinch of baking soda to bring it back together. However, Zimmerman notes that the soup won't taste as good.

Serve with a sprig of parsley. Serves 4 to 6.

In this recipe, the whole milk ingredients can be substituted with nonfat milk for a "heart smart" dish without sacrificing taste or quality.

Phyllis Daniels adds milk to Chef Brian Zimmerman's cream of crab soup, one of many gourmet food selections on the tour.

members who must submit an application to be considered for this degree. Red Rose Degree recipients are Donnie Ammerman, Bill Bare, Sheri Bollinger, Bill Davis, John Kiser, Matt Strickler, and Scott Wagner.

The Keystone-Farmer Degree is the highest degree awarded by the State FFA organization. Applicants were judged on the basis of their leadership abilities in and out of school, involvement in community organizations and activities, and their project program and FFA activities. This year Solanco had four members receive this degree during the Mid-Winter Convention held in the Farm Show Complex. Recipients are Sheri Bollinger, Tim Craig, Mark Fry, and James Welk.

The Solanco FFA presented two Honorary Chapter degrees to persons and companies which have helped them through the years. Receiving Honorary Chapter degrees were A.L. Herr and Brothers, Inc. for providing tractors and equipment for the county Agricultural Mechanics Contest, sponsoring trophies for top winners on the grain contest, and for providing a place of employment for several Solanco graduates and to Clifford W. Holloway III for giving his personal time to transport storage buildings built by the Building Construction Technology class to their respective owners at no charge to the chapter or the customer.

Citrus Fruit awards were presented to the top three salespersons in the chapter's annual citrus fruit sale. Chris Althoff, top salesman, received a $100 savings bond: Bill Davis and James Welk, second and third respectfully, both received a $50 savings bond.

Corn Production awards were presented in two categories: grain and silage. The Grain Production awards, sponsored by A.L. Herr and Brothers, Inc., were presented to the following: James Welk, 1st place, 174.4 bushels per acre; Matt Welk, 2nd place, 169.2 bushels per acre; and Matt Mellinger, 3rd place, 157.5 bushels per acre. Corn Production awards, sponsored by Powl's Feed Service, were presented to Scott Wagner, 1st place, 25.9 tons per acre; and Daryl Supplee, 2nd place, 23.8 tons per acre.

Recipients of other awards are as follows:

- The Farm Women #20 Award is presented to a senior agriculture student who has conducted at least one project program of state standard size and has taken an active role in the FFA. This year's recipient is James Welk.
- The Paul Risk Associates, Inc. Award is presented to a senior who has exhibited initiative in making the most of the opportunities available to them. This year's recipient is Mark Fry.
- The Dairy Calf Award is given to promote interest in breeding purebred dairy cattle; to offer a member the opportunity to start or add to his/her dairy herd; and to stimulate interest in improved dairy farm practices; a love for farm animals, and an active participation in cooperative enterprise. This year, the purebred, registered dairy calf was awarded to Joy Young.
- The Past President's Award, sponsored by Keystone Farm Credit, ACA - Quarryville, was presented to Mark Fry, who will step down as the 1993-1994 chapter president at the end of this school year.

Scholarship Awards were presented to the following students: Bryan Byers, Brad Linton, Justine Hill, Nate Hoover, Andrea Kreider, Joy Young, Andy Young, Connie Stanley, Kandace Miller, Sarah Strickler, Shannon Groff, and Jennifer Pierce. These awards recognize members who have attended outstanding scholastic achievements in the total school program.

Kristine (Miller) Wilkinson, a Solanco graduate and Solanco FFA member, was awarded the American FFA Degree, the highest degree a FFA member can attain in the organization.

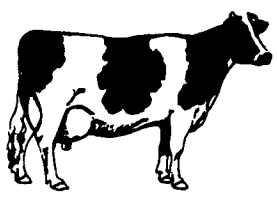
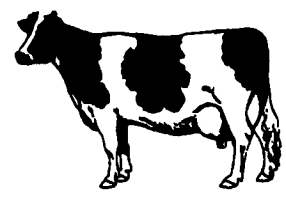
SHORT NOTICE SALE



MILLER - BARD
REG. HOLSTEIN HERD DISPERSAL
FRIDAY, MAY 13, 1994
7:30 P.M. SHARP



Sale to be held at Smoketown, PA at the Gordon and Helen Fritz sales barn along Rt. 340.

This is a tie stall herd of registered cattle and they are on official DHIA and no BST. I hand picked the best and left the rest. They are very young. Nearly all 2 and 3 year olds. As good a group of cattle for udders, feet and legs with dairy character as you will find in a sale. Most are from and bred to proven sires from Atlantic Breeders. Herd is all home raised. No bought cattle. Herd ave. for milk is 19,000 B.F. = 3.8 P.T. = 3.2 S.C.C. 160,000 income over feed cost $1,534 per cow. Cattle are not from Jhones infested area and no infected feet (strawberry).

Super All Traction 23°

R-1

- New top-of-line bias-ply tractor rear, featuring our long bar/long bar design for tread stability, and heavy bar bracing to extend tread life.
- Long wearing and smooth riding, due to the more uniform, flatter contour of the long bar/long bar design.
- Proven 23° bar angle for traction and open center for self-cleaning.
- Bead and rim protector shields the rim to help keep stubble and soil from getting between the bead and rim flange.

SCREW-DRIVE CURTAIN COMMANDER™

NV1 CONTROL

NV1 CONTROL Precisely adjustable in all ways. Lets you adjust both the run time and the pause time. It even lets you choose a different rate for opening and closing. Adjustable dead band and heater interlock make it the most accurate digital control on the market for natural ventilation... and it's standard equipment with the Curtain Commander™.

LATCH-OUT ASSEMBLY Fully adjustable latch-out assembly available on all Curtain Commander™ machines. (Can be retro-fitted to selected models). Allows for total flexibility in tunnel-ventilated buildings. Shuts off fans when curtain reaches desired opening.

ADJUST-A-BAFFLE™ SYSTEM

NEW AIRSTREAM VENTILATION SYSTEMS Adjust A Baffle™ System by design afford high insulation value and total flexibility of operation. New improved AIRSTREAM VENTILATION SYSTEMS Auto Air II™ and Adjust A Baffle™ Systems provide maximum inlet air control for new and existing negative pressure ventilating installations

Typical Installation

Tight Seal

- High insulation value one inch (1") polystyrene core • Corrosion-free construction consists of rugged fiberglass composite laminate and UV stabilized PVC trim channel • Exclusive flexible PVC hinge allows for ease of installation and alignment. Flexible PVC closure allows for building construction variables • Exclusive PVC expansion connector automatically adjusts to temperature variations and ensures consistent closure alignment

CEILING INLETS

Each unit provides 1.2 square feet of intake area and is designed to operate under negative pressure. Inlets are constructed of fiberglass composite and Styrofoam. Units measure 16.5" square and mount directly into the ceiling and project into the attic. An insulation-stop is provided. Stainless steel counter weights and a manual lock adjustment make it unsurpassed in performance.

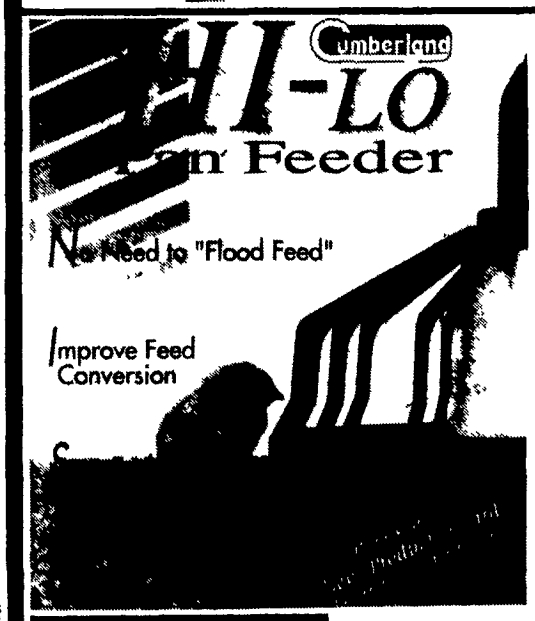
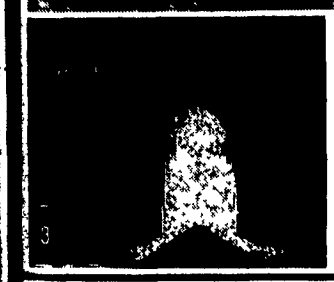
HI-LO Pan Feeder

Cumberland

No Need to "Flood Feed"

Improve Feed Conversion





A TWO-STAGE PAN

The first 7-10 days of a broiler's life are critical. The eating habits they develop then establish their growth pattern for life

For those very young birds the Cumberland HI-LO Pan Feeder, resting on the house floor, presents a lip height of 2 1" (the average height of traditional "chick lids") Because they can easily and safely get in and out of the pan, they're eating out of the pan from day one.

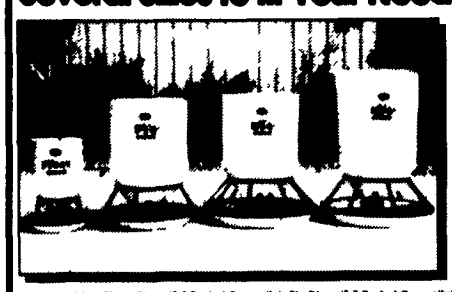
And because the pan needn't be "Flooded," they're getting only fresh feed and only as much as they need

Then as the birds grow, and the feed line is raised, the Cumberland HI-LO Pan Feeder E-X-P-A-N-D-S into a 3.5" deep adult bird pan!

The higher wall and feed saver lip prevent waste from raking and billout .and cause the birds to eat nearer the outside edge of the pan, assuring a more even "first in, first out" utilization of feed (which also saves feed and maintains freshness).

PIG & HOG DINERS

Several Sizes to fit Your Needs



Left to Right: Piggy Diner (1 1 Bushel Capacity) Pig Diner (5 5 Bushel Capacity) Hog Diner (8 8 Bushel Capacity) Large Capacity Hog Diner (7 5 Bushel Capacity)

THE A-P ADVANTAGE:

- Handles any type feed dry or wet (up to 27% moisture)
- Unique feed down design permits feed to drop in area of feed pan with easy access yet virtually eliminates feed being dragged out and wasted
- No bridging or clogging
- Top crank permits easy adjustment of feed flow
- Feed pan and dividers permit animals to stand straight away from feeder rather than at an angle which blocks access
- Actuator requires less than 1 lb push to operate
- Fiberglass hopper and pan
- Stainless or painted steel parts
- Optional tie downs wet feeder valves/rings and adapters to convert to fence line feeder operation

THE PATH TO EFFICIENCY
The arrows indicate the feed path of A P Pig and Hog Diners A path that assures constant feed supply easy actuation by animals and proper control of any type of feed

Woods Family Tree

Today's Woods line has branched out to include over 50 proven products... all rooted in the same tradition of innovation, quality, value and service that began when we introduced the first tractor powered rotary mower in 1947.

Engineered and manufactured at our plant in northern Illinois, Woods mowers, cutters, scraper blades, backhoes and other specialty products are known for superior performance and rugged reliability.

They're the first choice of commercial users, farmers and home owners when quality, value and service count most.

MAKING ROTATIONAL GRAZING WORK

The concept of intensive pasture management through frequent rotations in a pasture has become an important management practice in beef production.

This is particularly true for cow-calf herds since it has been shown that this type of pasture management will help reduce the need for stored feed, will improve the nutritional value of a pasture, and will help reduce feed costs for the cow herd. It is, however, dependent on careful planning and management if it is to be successful.

The basic concept of "intensive grazing" is that the cattle will graze all of the available forage in a given area in a short period of time before being moved to new standing forage. Complete grazing and timely movement are essential to success.

The complete removal of growth inhibits selective grazing. There will be no competitive advantage of one plant compared to another; thus, more desirable species like grasses and legumes will not have to compete with weeds and undesirable growth.

Secondly, timely movement will allow for an appropriate "rest period" to allow regrowth of the desirable forage. Most Pennsylvania pastures are primarily cool-season grasses — orchardgrass, brome, bluegrass, fescue, etc. These forages also will respond well to rotational management, particularly if they also contain some legumes. However, they also present some distinct management problems since they have varying rates of growth during a given grazing season (maximized in spring and fall).

How does the manager capture the growth of these plants? The first method is through variable stocking rates. Many producers want to maintain the same stocking rate on a pasture for a season. This implies a given rate may be too low during periods of fast growth, or be too high during slow growth — such as mid-summer for cool season grasses. By doubling or tripling stocking rate in May and early June, the cattle are able to harvest the grass at an optimum feed value. When there are not enough cattle and the grass "gets ahead of you," the quality will be diminished.

Second, reduce the acreage available to graze and remove the excess mechanically. Spring and early summer rest periods for most cool season grasses can be reduced to 12-15 days in many cases. This is about ⅓ to ½ of what the acreage rest period would be for the season. Therefore, up to one-half of the pasture can be harvested mechanically. The regrowth is returned to pasture when growth slows down in mid-summer.

Third, use variable pasture species. Cool season grasses are poorly adapted to mid-summer and late fall grazing. Incorporation of species that are more adaptable at these periods can help extend the grazing season. For mid-summer grazing, warm-season grasses and summer annuals can be used as part of the pasture.

Alfalfa also works well in a pasture system if it properly managed. Bloat can be prevented and the alfalfa stand can be retained for several years with proper grazing management.

Two alternatives for fall grazing include brassicas and stockpiled grasses. Good fertility and seeding are necessary for brassicas to do well, but they can certainly contribute to extended fall grazing.

Fescue may be the best choice for stockpiling. New varieties of endophyte-free fescue have had excellent success, and can be grazed well into winter months.

Getting the most from a pasture is like typing to hit a moving target. However, careful planning can contribute to lower cost, successful use of pasture.

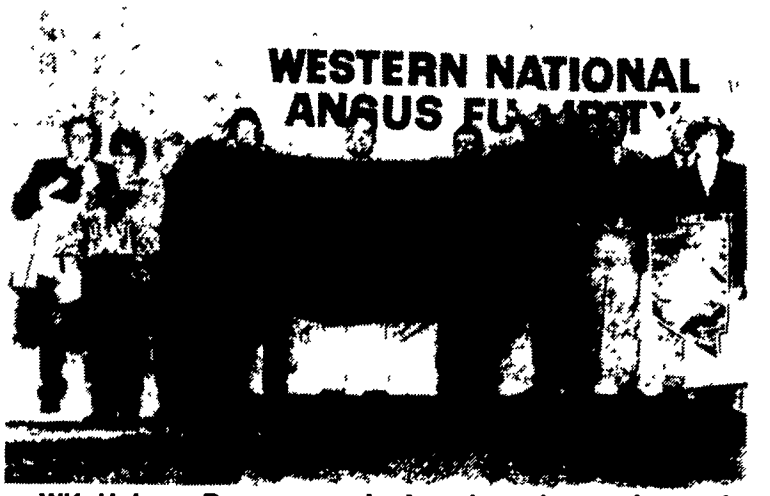
Western National Angus Futurity Sees 150 Entries

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — The 42nd Annual Western National Angus Futurity hosted 150 entries for the Roll of Victory (ROV) Super Point Angus Show in Reno, Nev. The show was judged by a three-man team of Don Boggs, Brookings, S.D.; Randy Daniel, Colbert, Ga.; and Dick Hubman, Central Point, Ore.

In the 95-head heifer show, the grand winner was WK Unique Peggy owned by Ty Krebs, Gordon, Neb., and Whiteoak View Farm, Hillsboro, Ohio. The April 1992 female is sired by Brost Power Drive and first topped the junior division. The reserve grand champion female was Duncans Thunderstruck owned by Duncans Angus Ranch of Aberdeen, Idaho. A February 1993 daughter of WK Thunder, she first won the early junior heifer calf division.

In the bull show, WK Rainfall was named grand champion. He is a February 1993 son of Kesslers Rainman 002 and is jointly owned by Ty Krebs, Gordon, Neb.; Adams Angus Ranch, Steele, N.D.; and Rainfall Associates, Gordon, Neb. The bull first won the early junior bull calf division. The reserve grand champion bull was S A Executive owned by Stein Angus Acres of Lewistown, Mont. The February 1993 bull is sired by G D A R Executive 727 and first won the reserve early junior bull calf title.

Michael Gonsalves, Modesto, Calif., exhibited the grand champion cow-calf pair. Gonsalves' entry was R&J Lady 672 and her March bull calf. The cow is sired by G D A R Executive 727. The reserve grand champion cow-calf pair was exhibited by Tyler Byrd of Red Bluff, Calif. The cow is B C C Miss Pine Joette 58-88. She had a September 1993 heifer calf at side. The cow is sired by Pine Drive Big Sky.



WK Unique Peggy won junior champion and grand champion female honors at the 1994 Western National Angus Futurity's Roll of Victory Angus Show in Reno, Nev. The winning female is an April 1992 daughter of Brost Power Drive and is jointly owned by Ty Krebs, Gordon, Neb., and Whiteoak View Farm, Hillsboro, Ohio.

Annual Apple Blossom Festival To Be Held

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — South Mountain Fairgrounds is the site of the 39th Annual Apple Blossom Festival scheduled Saturday, May 7 and Sunday, May 8.

Highlights of this year's festival include The Carroll County Cloggers and Square Dancers, who will perform all day Saturday in the auditorium and Sunday on a outside stage starting at 11 a.m. until 1 p.m.

The highlights of the weekend activites will be the crowning of the 1994 Adams County Apple Queen on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p.m.

There will be contests for apple pie eating and apple bobbing, and a children's tractor pull.

A wide variety of food will be available, such as fresh pork roast (cooked on a spit), French fried veggies, fresh apples, apple cider, apple butter, candied apples, apple cake, apple pie, apple pizza, chicken barbeque cooked on open pits, scrapple, sausage, funnel cake, French fried sweet potatoes, and apple fritters, and apple pancakes.

There will be a free magic balloon show, country music bands, chicken barebecue dinners, apple dumplings, fritters, apple pie, and apple pizza. All kinds of food will be featured.

There will be free bus tours of the orchards conducted by fruit growers. There will be 275 top quality crafters from Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, Delaware and others. There will be a blacksmith demonstrator plus a Redware pottery, clay pottery, picture framing, matting, and chair caning. All this will be demonstrated both days.

There will be a sand art booth for the children to make their own designs. There will be a baby 4-H petting barnyard for the delight of both young and old, and a free mule-driven hay ride.

The Apple Blossom festival is held each year at the South Mountain Fairgrounds, located eight miles northwest of historic Gettysburg on Route 234 near Arendtsville. The festival gates will open each day at 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Admission is $2 per adult, children under 12 are free, and there is ample parking for $1.

Visitors from an eight state area are attracted to this special spring annual event to enjoy the festival and to view the beautiful apple, peach, and cherry trees which are usually in full bloom during festival week.

The Apple Blossom Festival is sponsored by the Adams County Fruitgrowers Association. For more information, contact Ruth Detwiler, ACFGA, PO Box 515, Biglerville, PA 17307, telephone (717) 677-7444 or Gettysburg Travel Council, 35 Carlisle Street, Gettysburg, PA 17325, (717) 334-6274.

Pa. Braces For Tree Pest Onslaught

WARREN (Warren Co.) — They hatch during mid- to late May, then begin to devour the leaves of hardwood trees. In 1993, they defoliated Pennsylvania landscapes and forests to the tune of more than 1.2 million acres.

If the pest that comes to mind is the gypsy moth caterpillar, think again. The elm spanworm has become the latest major threat to the state's woodlands. The noticeable defoliation it caused in 1993 was nearly four times greater than that of its better-known cousin, the gypsy moth.

"Unlike the gypsy moth, the elm spanworm is a native species," said Greg Hoover, extension entomologist Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences. "It has been epidemic periodically in Pennsylvania since 1931, but rarely for more than one year at a time. In the past, it was best known as a major pest of urban street trees."

The adult of the elm spanworm is a powdery white moth with a wingspan of one to one-and-a-half inches. In mid-summer, the females lay an average of 250 oblong eggs in compact masses on the underside of twigs or branches or on tree trunks. The eggs are bright yellow-green when first laid, but darken to a dull olive gray or brown in the winter.

After they hatch in the spring, the destructive larvae grow to about two inches long and mimic twigs. Most are dull or slate black with a rust-colored head. Some of the larvae may be light green with yellow heads.

The larvae feed on a large variety of hardwoods and shade trees, although they prefer elm, hickory, oak, red and sugar maple, American beech, and ash. They begin feeding on the underside of leaves, causing a shot-hole effect. As they mature, they eat all leaf material between the major veins.

Hoover said property owners can take steps to protect their trees. "You should monitor your landscape from mid-May through early June for signs of elm spanworm larvae," he said. "Where possible, prune small twigs that are infested with egg masses and destroy the eggs by burning or burying them.

"If necessary, a registered insecticide can be applied when larvae are small. Homeowners may want to contact a professional arborist to apply an insecticide, especially on large trees."

The current elm spanworm outbreak began in 1991, when the pest defoliated 65,000 acres, mostly in Elk and McKean counties. In 1992, it spread to Potter County and defoliation increased to more than 300,000 acres.

By 1993, the outbreak extended across the northern third of Pennsylvania from Sullivan and Bradford counties in the east to Warren and Forest counties in the west. The damage reached as far south as Somerset County. Defoliation was visible from the air in 15 counties.

Entomologists are looking to the elm spanworm's natural enemies to help control the pest.

"There are two tiny parasitic wasps that are known to suppress the elm spanworm in the egg state," said Hoover. "If the parasite population increases enough, these small beneficial insects can destroy 80 percent or more of the elm spanworm and cause a collapse of the outbreak.

"But until the parasite population catches up with the pest, it looks as though damage from the elm spanworm may be severe in 1994."

Spring Classic Open Horse Show Set

DALLAS (Luzerne Co.) — The Ninth Annual Spring Classic Open Horse Show will be held on May 7-8 at the Luzerne County Fairgrounds on Route 118 in Dallas.

The show will begin on Saturday at 8 a.m., featuring a variety of western classes. Events include western pleasure, reining, trail and gymkhana for all ages.

On Sunday, the show begins at 8 a.m. with English classes for all ages. A wide variety of hunter classes, including pleasure and over fence classes, will be held.

The $300 added Pleasure Classic will be held both days and a Super Horse Award will be given at the end of each day to the horse accumulating the most points throughout the day.

Grober Celebrates New Research Farm

LEHIGH VALLEY (Lehigh Co.) — Grober, Inc. President Guy H. Tober and staff members celebrated the ground-breaking of their new research farm recently.

Tober said, "This is an exciting time for the Grober organization and our customers. We have been looking for a farm that is nearby and conveniently located to our plant and lab in Bethlehem, Pa. for over three years."

The new farm is about eight miles northwest of the Grober plant and is located at the southwest corner of Route 248 and Seemsville Road. It has 80 acres of tillable and pasture land, a house, and an existing barn with two silos. It sits on top of a rolling hill overlooking beautiful scenery and the Blue Mountain. It has been appropriately named Blue Mountain View Farm.

"We want to show and tell our growers, our packers, and the general public so many things about veal calf growing. This farm will allow us to demonstrate many new technologies developed by Grober at various locations in the country," said Tober. Building design, construction material, ventilation system, mixing and feeding equipment will incorporate the latest technologies recommended by Grober.

Pioneer Increases Commitment To Forage Producers

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Researchers at a local corn breeding station are working to provide the best data in helping silage producers make better hybrid selection decisions.

"Identifying corn hybrids, alfalfa varieties, and inoculants that can be used to produce quality forage begins with research," said Matt Antos, field agronomist for Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc., in State College.

Antos said Pioneer has increased its commitment to forage producers with products and expertise to help them make the most of their home-grown feedstuffs. New research and demonstration farms, continued evaluation of products for animal consumption, and a strong breeding effort are among the components of the company's goal to be the source of quality forage.

Pioneer has maintained a research location in the East for 35 years, according to David Whitaker, assistant station manager at the New Holland corn breeding site.

Station staffers collect data that farmers use to select hybrids for silage, Whitaker said. "In our hybrid trials, we collect whole plant forage samples because farmers use the whole plant to make silage, not just the stover."

The New Holland research staff also collects forage quality samples on Pioneer elite breeding parent lines.

Hoffman Seeds Expands N.E. Research Program

LANDISVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — Hoffman Seeds, Inc. has expanded its product research program in the Northeast.

The expansion stems from a realignment of responsibilities between Hoffman and Ciba Seeds. The program encompasses Hoffman's full line of farm seeds with particular emphasis on the testing of Funk's G® brand hybrids.

Hoffman will conduct advanced replicated yield trials (ARYTs) for hybrid seed corn across 12 locations as well as 87 research evaluation plots (REPs). The company also plans to gather performance data from more than 150 field day plots scattered throughout New York, Pennsylvania, Delaware and Maryland.

"Our greater involvement with testing," said Tracy Neff, product development agronomist, "provides farmers added insurance that our products will perform in Northeast growing conditions. Our program is perhaps the broadest in the Northeast and supports our commitment to this growing region."

Kuhn Selects New Officers

VERNON, N.Y. — Kuhn S.A., Saverne, France, has announced the appointment of two senior management executives for its North American subsidiary, Kuhn Farm Machinery, Inc. here.

Thierry R. Krier has been named vice president of operations and marketing and will oversee market development for Kuhn equipment in the United States and Canada. Krier was formerly export area manager for Kuhn S.A. in Saverne.

In addition to Krier, Kuhn has selected Paul D. Hummel as national sales manager. Hummel will be responsible for developing Kuhn's North American sales, distribution, and dealer network. He has an extensive background in marketing agricultural equipment, including serving as a product manager with Bush Hog Corporation, and career work with J.I. Case and International Harvester Company.

New President, CEO Takes Over Case

RACINE, Wis. — Jean-Pierre Rosso, a former Honeywell executive, has been appointed president and chief executive officer of J I Case.

He succeeds president Edward J. Campbell, who has retired after 26 years with J I Case and Newport News Shipbuilding, which are operating companies of Tenneco Inc.

Rosso assumes the CEO position from Dana M. Mead, president and CEO of Tenneco.

"In Jean-Pierre Rosso, Tenneco is adding another outstanding leader and manager of change to the top rank at one of our opreating companies," said Mead.

Rosso had been president of the $2.4 billion worldwide home and building control business at Honeywell Inc. since 1992 and joined its senior management committee last year. An 18-year veteran of Honeywell, he headed all of the company's European operations from 1987 through 1991. During that period, Honeywell achieved significant growth in revenues and operating income.

Rosso holds an M.B.A. degree from the Wharton Graduate School of Business and a bachelor's degree in civil engineering from Ecole Polytechnique de Lausanne in Switzerland.

Jean-Pierre Rosso

Rosso will continue to execute a three-year, $920 million restructuring plan, initiated in March of 1993 under Campbell's direction.

Broadleaf Herbicide Receives Second-Year EUP

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Permit herbicide for consistent post-emergence control of broadleaf weeds and nutsedge in corn and milo has received a second experimental use permit from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

If registration continues as expected, the herbicide, which was used on an experimental basis last year, would be available for the 1995 season.

Monsanto, which is developing the herbicide, said growers who tested Permit last season were pleased with its performance against competitive standards such as Marksman, Banvel, Clarity, or Buctril.

Sixty-one percent of last year's EUP participants rated it superior in controlling tough broadleaf weeds such as velvetleaf, cocklebur, lambsquarters, and redroot pigweed. More than 80 percent rated it first in safety to large or small corn and for reduced volatility to neighboring crops versus competitive standards.

Planter Available In Solid Row Crop Versions

RACINE, Wis. — J I Case is expanding its 950 Series Early Riser® planter line to include 15- and 20-foot solid-row-crop models, to accommodate customer interest in 15-inch spacing.

Limited production of the new 950 SRC planters, which seed 15-inch rows, begins this month. Full-production models will be convertible, so they can be used for 15- or 30-inch row work. .The 15-foot, 11-row models will convert to plant six 30-inch rows and the 20-foot, 15-row model will convert to plant eight 30-inch rows.

According to Kurt Schenck, J I Case product manager-implements, 15-inch spacing is very popular. "Productivity tests shows that yields can be substantially higher, especially for beans, in 15-inch spacing," he said.

Case International 950 planters feature patented Early Riser row-unit technology.

Case International Early Riser row units include front-pull equalizing depth gauge wheels and a special furrow-firming point that provides a well-defined V furrow bottom. This combination provides more uniform depth control and better seed placement, even in rough ground.

The new Case International 950 solid-row-crop planter is available in 15- and 20-foot models, which seed 15-inch rows. Cyclo Air® metering and Early Riser® row-unit technology provide greater productivity and a precision-controlled environment for optimum germination.

"Within-row seed spacing, seed-to-soil contact, uniform soil pressures, accurate population per acre, planting to the moisture and uniform depth control are all key contributors to developing a precision-controlled environment for optimum germination," said Schenck. "Farmers using Early Riser planters will see fast emergence, and that, ultimately, affects the bottom line."

Revised Fungicide Label Gives Growers Options

GREENSBORO, N.C. — Tilt® fungicide now joins corn growers in the battle against leaf blight and rust. Earlier this month, the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) approved the addition of seed and sweet corn to the fungicide's label, giving growers another option to control disease. Field corn and popcorn also were added to the Tilt label.

"The systemic action of Tilt means no wash off," said Eric Kuhn, Tilt product manager. "Since Tilt is absorbed by the plant, it provides longer-lasting protection and superior control, which maximizes yields and seed quality. And Tilt is not only a protectant, it can stop disease after infection, too."

Below are the recommended treatments for each disease.

• Northern and southern leaf blight. For control of leaf blight caused by Helminthosporium maydis, H. turcicum, and H. carbonum, two- to four-ounce-per-acre applications of Tilt should be made when disease symptoms first appear. Applications should continue on a seven- to 14-day schedule.

• Rusts. When rust pustules caused by Puccina spp. first appear, a four-ounce-per-acre application of the fungicide should be made with identical applications made on seven- to 14-day intervals.

Do not apply more than 16 ounces of Tilt per season. Always read and follow label directions.

Product Advisory Council Plans Badger Northland's Future

KAUKAUNA, Wis. — When Badger Northland recently assembled its 1994 Product Advisory Council, John Kreider, Jr. of Show-Ease Badger, Lancaster, Pa., was there.

Kreider starts a three-year period as a member of the council. Kreider is one of nine dealers from North America asked to serve on the council.

"The Product Advisory Council's input is helping us decide what products Badger will market 10 and 15 years in the future," said Stan West, Badger Northland vice president of sales and marketing. "They have accepted the responsibility to help us prioritizing development projects and to make sure that we respond quickly to the needs of farmers throughout North America."

Three new members will be added to the advisory council each year. The rotation of one third of the council will ensure that Badger and its dealers have a shared vision of the future.

Woods Equipment Introduces Cutters

OREGON, Ill. — Two new, dependable rigid cutters engineered for superior cut quality, durability, and value are the latest additions to Woods Equipment Company's line of high-performance tractor-powered attachments.

The Woods Model 3168 14-foot cutter, ideal for heavy-duty row crop shredding, features a tip speed of 15,560 feet-per-minute (fpm), ensuring excellent, dependable cut quality.

The Woods 3168 is also available with an optional shredder kit of seven stationary knives, providing 19 cutting edges. This, in combination with the baffle design on the underside of the mowing deck, maximizes the shredding action and ensures neat, even distribution of the cut material.

The Woods Model 2126 (15,925 fpm), with a 10-1/2 foot cutting swath, efficiently tackles general purpose mowing, including weeds, grass, brush, and orchard and pasture maintenance, in addition to row-crop mowing. The cutter is designed to cut brush up to two-and-a-half inches thick.

Agriculture Applauds ROR Proposal

ST. LOUIS (Mo.) — "The oil industry has been squealing over the proposed Renewable Oxygenate Requirement (ROR). Now we want the Clinton Administration to hear the ROaR of American agriculture," said Mike Bryan, ethanol/new uses manager, National Corn Growers Association (NCGA).

By June, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) is expected to issue a final rule on the ROR and the oil industry has pulled out all the stops to try and kill the proposal.

Under the ROR, 30 percent of the oxygenates required in reformulated gasoline would come from renewable fuels such as ethanol. In an attempt to counter this unprecedented effort by big oil, NCGA, along with other farm commodity organizations, has launched a massive effort to demonstrate support for the expanded use of renewable fuels such as ethanol.

NCGA and others are asking farmers across America to tear off a seed tag and simply write "ROR" in bold letters on it and send it to the President. "We want the President of the United States to know that what he has been hearing from the oil industry is not how American agriculture feels about decreasing our dependence on fossil fuels," said Bryan.

The NCGA asks that seed tags be sent to: Mr. Marion Berry, The White House, Old Executive Office Bldg., Room 217, Washington, DC 20500.

Berry is special assistant to the President for agricultural affairs and will deliver the messages.

In a letter to President Clinton, NCGA's President Pete Wenstrand said, "NCGA believes the ROR proposal is the first step in an urgently-needed process of achieving energy independence for the United States, while creating exciting opportunities for all alternative fuels which use renewable feedstocks." The letter went on to say that "every minute of every day the United States imports over $100,000 of crude oil from foreign sources. The Clinton proposal recognizes this problem and begins to slow the imported energy treadmill which America has been on for more than 50 years."

The NCGA expects that thousands of people will respond to the request to send seed tags or letters to the President in support of the ROR. The intent is to overcome the squeals of the oil industry with a loud ROaR from American Agriculture.

Does GATT Mean Growth?

the use of health-related measures which restrict imports, and calls for countries to employ a scientific basis for determining all health-related measures that affect international trade.

The Agricultural Outlook (1994) reports that in the new world order, agriculture everywhere will be affected by more factors, not fewer, and greater pressures to respond quickly to changing conditions. The pace of market liberalization, new production and processing technologies, the health and stability of the world economy, political relationships among nations, fiscal and environmental pressures in the U.S. and abroad, global humanitarian issues, food safety and quality concerns, and the growing voice and rapidly changing demands of consumers worldwide will influence the future of agricultural trade.

There is universal conviction among the efficient and high achieving producers that open trade drives toward global prosperity. GATT could respect the integrity of U.S. farmers' effort to compete in international markets.

The groups that will be vulnerable to trade liberalization will include beginning farm operators, heavily indebted farmers, and the inefficient farm operators. Farms will only succeed through high level operational management characterized by progress, efficiency and productivity — this will allow farmers to compete in world markets.

Investments in research and education to improve farming technology, management, and marketing contribute to efficient production and this benefits the world's population consumption along with United States' agriculture.

The General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade intends to provide the basis for global economic growth and cohesion well into the future.

Does GATT Mean Economic Growth?

DAVID J. SPRISSLER
Student
Delaware Valley College

Does freer trade mean economic growth to the United States agriculture industry? This is an important question, since there is significant skepticism among farmers with their relationship to the General Agreement On Tarriffs And Trade (GATT) and economic prosperity.

In a changing global economy, hard choices must be confronted and compromises must be made. The significant choices to agriculture prosperity can come from either the domestic economy, the American taxpayer and consumers, or from improved farming efficiency to compete in global markets.

The current agriculture problems will not be solved by current governmental programs. The United States' economy cannot grow rapidly enough to absorb the output from the steady rise in farm productivity. Trade liberalization of global markets is very critical to United States agriculture.

The United States was once very dominant in exporting products to feed the rest of the world. Now there is strong competition with other countries for world markets. Trade balances, political policies, international debt, and growing populations make the issues very complex.

On December 15, 1993, the United States concluded the seven-year Uruguay Round negotiations within GATT. This multilateral acceptance of the historic GATT accord, signed on April 15, 1994, was of major significance to United States' agriculture. This will become a major strategy in promoting growth in U.S. farm income.

The agriculture negotiations in the Uruguay Round focused on the causes of unfair competition in world agriculture trade. Increasing levels of government supports and protection for agriculture globally in the mid 1980s reinforced the need for globalism in agriculture trade.

Federal Budgetary Outlays For Agriculture

United States farmers had a large stake in the negotiations in the trade liberalization of GATT. Because of federal budgetary restraints, outlays for agriculture will continue to decline in the future years.

The Office of Management and Budget (1994) reports that nutrition spending would rise, while outlays for many farm-subsidy, soil conservation, and other programs will be eliminated or cut. Outlays for the agriculture department's big crop-subsidy program would fall 30 percent to $8.5 billion, a projection based on expected lower harvest during calendar 1994.

These budgetary projections for agriculture programs show a reduction from $16.9 billion in 1994 to $13.6 billion in 1997.

With less governmental intervention, U.S. farmers would be in better position to produce efficiently for the international market, increasing the productivity and competitiveness of U.S. agriculture and the nation as a whole. As a result, this would free scarce federal funds for other purposes, reducing taxes, or reducing deficits.

The USDA (1994) reports that 30 percent of all U.S. crop acres are exported. United States farm income has become increasingly dependent upon agriculture exports. Trade has become the key source for growth in farm revenue and employment.

The Agricultural Outlook (1994) reports that export subsidies, especially in the European Community, have retarded U.S. trade and reduced farm income during the past decade. The European Communities' high domestic prices have been protected by variable levies on imports that spur domestic production; and the resulting surpluses have been dumped on world markets, using the export subsidies. As a result, the European Community has transformed itself from a net importer to a net exporter of many commodities, including grain, beef, and dairy products.

The Uruguay round agreement would discipline the budgetary outlay and the quantity of subsidized exports to ensure that countries control the use of subsidies in all kinds of market conditions.

Structure Of The Uruguay Round Agreement

The USDA (January 1994) reports that agricultural provisions on the Uruguay Round GATT agreement will emphasize the new disciplines for international agricultural trade. This includes a description of the principal provisions addressing trade distortions caused by market access barriers, export subsidies, internal support, and unjustified sanitary measures. The goal of the negotiations on agriculture would be to bring all measures affecting import access and export competition under strengthened and more operationally effective GATT rules and disciplines.

Gradual cuts in GATT in years and percentages calls for reduced internal supports (a 20 percent reduction from the 1986-1988 base period during the next six years), a reduction in export subsidies (during the next six years, a 36 percent cut in quantities exported under a subsidy and a 21 percent cut in the amount of money spent), and more open markets (a 36 percent cut during the next few years from the 1986-1988 base, plus minimum access of 3 percent of the internal consumption during the base period, which will be gradually increased to 5 percent).

Market Access

The USDA (1994) summarization of the Uruguay Round market access provisions calls for the following:

- Reduction of import barriers will improve exporter access to overseas markets. All countries will replace non-tariff measures primarily with quotas, or with tariff equivalents (tariffication). All agricultural tariffs will be bound and reduced.
- The replacement of non-tariff measures with tariffs will include two complementary disciplines: countries will open up minimum access opportunities where there has been little or no trade, and countries will ensure that current access opportunities are maintained.

Under this provision, the United States will be required to replace the highly protective quotas on sugar, dairy products, and peanuts with tariffs that provide comparable protection. Since these new tariffs, beginning in 1995, will gradually be reduced during a six-year period, stiffer competitive pressure from overseas supplies is expected.

Export Subsidies

As the result of the Uruguay Round, significant cuts in export subsidies, especially by the European community, will reduce the level of unfair competition in world markets.

In the GATT agreement, export subsidies will be reduced by 21 percent in terms of quantity and by 36 percent in terms of budgetary outlays by the end of the six-year period.

USDA (1994) reports only a small portion of U.S. agricultural exports is subsidized. This multilateral cut in subsidization of exports will greatly benefit the United States. By reducing the quantity of exports that can be subsidized on world markets, the agreement will create trade opportunities for the U.S. producers who are more efficient than producers elsewhere.

Internal Support

The USDA (1994) reports that all countries must establish ceilings for the amount of support afforded producers through internal support programs. Average support provided to measures linked to production is totaled across all commodities for the 1986-1988 period. Developed countries must reduce this total level of support in equal annual installments by 20 percent by the year 2000.

Because of changes in support programs in recent farm and budget legislation, the United States does not need to make reductions in internal support.

Sanitary and Phytosanitary

The sanitary and the phytosanitary (plant sanitary) agreement will impose GATT discipline on

Pre-season Maintenance Saves Haymaking Time

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Before pulling your mower-conditioner out of the back shed and into the back 40, make sure you give it a thorough inspection. By checking and replacing key parts, such as knife sections, you can improve efficiency and reduce downtime.

"When most mower-conditioners come out of mothballs, they often aren't given enough attention to do a proper job," said Mike Cooper, product and pricing analyst, Ford New Holland Parts and Service Operations. "Knife sections are one of the most important, and often overlooked, maintenance considerations."

With all the tough wear and tear on knife sections, they're the most frequently replaced part on mower conditioners, he said. When selecting replacements, it's important to note that the cutting edge, material, thickness, and quality all affect knife section performance.

Three basic cutting edge options are available for use on mower-conditioners: overserrated, underserrated, and smooth. The most widely used cutting edge today is the overserrated. Because it sharpens itself, this cutting edge performs well in most crop conditions and is properly suited to abrasive soils. Underserrated and smooth knives work best in tough, stringy grass, said Cooper.

High-quality knife sections are made from induction-hardened spring steel and feature double-hardened cutting edges and back edges. For increased durability and resistance to rust during the off-season, some farmers prefer chrome-plated knife sections. These high-performance knives have a mechanical chrome coating that offers increased strength and longer wear life. Chrome knife sections are often preferred by custom-operators, Cooper said.

Thickness of knife sections affects mower-conditioner performance in two ways. Since the knife sections, guards and knife clips are dimensioned to within .005 to .020 of an inch, even a minor difference in knife thickness can disrupt the cutting mechanism. For mower-conditioners that require thinner knife sections, he recommends replacement parts that are induction-hardened on the back edge as well as the cutting edge for increased wear life. Thicker knife sections wear longer and are less likely to break.

However, using knife sections that exceed recommendations will increase the load on the knife drives. Mixing knife sections of different thicknesses is not recommended, he said.

Cooper advises farmers to evaluate replacement knife sections for such quality factors as thickness and hardness. "Usually, you get what you pay for in selecting replacement knife sections. Buying cheaper, lower quality parts doesn't always save you money, especially when you consider increased downtime. Your local equipment dealer can help you get the right part for your machine as well as the best value for your money."

Selecting the best type of knife for the job also depends on soil and crop conditions. Factors such as crop density, stringiness, and moisture all can affect cutting performance and the service life of the knife sections.

Following a proper maintenance schedule and timely replacement of knife sections in the spring will help ensure mower-conditioner performance all summer long.

Gomer Bulls Improve Profits For Producers

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The use of proven superior bulls is the major benefit of artificial insemination (AI). AI enables producers to select bulls with predictable performance for specific traits, such as calving ease, low birth weight, milk production, and growth.

If AI is recognized to be a tool leading to genetic progress and economic stability, why don't more beef and dairy producers use it effectively?

The reason? Estrus (heat) detection. Failure to detect heat or improper timing of insemination due to errors in heat detection results in extended calving intervals, lengthened calving seasons, open replacement heifers and cows, and additional semen expense.

Extending the calving interval one cycle (21 days) represents a loss in potential milk alone of about $40 per cow per year for dairy farmers. The loss for beef producers is about 55 pounds of weaned calf per cow per year (value: $45).

Heat detector animals can reduce the days to first service and improve estrus detection in the herd if they are used properly and supplement visual observation. However, managers must realize that, on an individual basis, surgically altered (gomer) bulls or hormonally treated females vary in their sexual aggressiveness.

In general, such animals have been shown to be effective in detecting heat. The more animals sexually active at one time, the more mounting will occur with each cow in heat. If allowed to interact with the herd throughout the day, detector animals provide a continuous monitoring of estrous behavior. If stanchioned cows are turned out daily for heat detection or if cows in loose-housing are checked regularly for estrus but heat detection does not seem to be effective, then use of a heat detector animal should be considered.

Beef cattle research has shown that the introduction of a bull shortens the interval to first estrus during the early postpartum period. They physiological mechanism for this male effect is unknown.

A vasectomized bull or a bull with a surgically altered penis can be an effective heat detector. The bull will seek out cows in heat and possibly stimulate the overall estrous activity in the herd. These bulls can be used with beef cows to stimulate early estrous activity (male effect) and detect cows in heat for AI, and later be removed from the herd to allow natural service. Producer concerns are the cost of performing the vasectomy, locating a local veterinarian to perform the surgery, and danger and costs of maintaining the bull.

Penn State's Department of Dairy and Animal Science has a limited number of vasectomized Angus and Polled Hereford-yearling bulls for sale as a service for producers. Dairy and beef producers can contact Dr. Erskine Cash (814) 863-3662 or beef managers Pete LeVan or Don Nichols (814) 863-0831 for information.

College Of Ag Science Aims To Diversify Programs

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences is taking steps to meet the needs of Pennsylvania's growing Latino population.

"The commonwealth's Latino population has increased by 51.2 percent since 1980," said Dr. Katherine Fennelly, professor and head of agricultural and extension education.

"Penn State Cooperative Extension has many excellent educational activities at the county level, but we need to respond to the state's changing demographics with more diversity in staff and program development."

Fennelly chairs the college's Committee on Outreach to Diverse Audiences (CODA), which brings together faculty, cooperative extension staff and administrators to develop strategies to make College of Agricultural Sciences' programs accessible to a wider range of people.

CODA's initial goal is to expand work with Latino audiences by translating educational materials, developing new programs, and training staff. County staff, department heads, and faculty specialists already have been surveyed about what support materials are needed most.

"Latinos are one of the fastest growing segments of Pennsylvania's population, but in general they have not been reached by extension programs," Fennelly said. "Bilingual staff and culturally appropriate materials will help us to reach out to this audience."

Dr. Anamaria Varela, postdoctoral fellow in agricultural and extension education, coordinates CODA's efforts. A native of Tegucigalpa, Honduras, Varela combines expertise in agriculture, education and Spanish. She holds bachelor's and master's degrees in animal science from Penn State and a Ph.D. in vocational education from Oregon State University.

Last year, Varela established links with the National Center for Diversity at Kentucky State University.

"Through the center, we requested Spanish materials from other land-grant institutions throughout the country," she said. "We've also contacted a wide range of public and private agencies that produce educational materials."

One of the most serious barriers to outreach programs is recruiting and retaining Latino volunteers. A letter has been written in Spanish and sent to Latino organizations to make them aware of the college's interest in increasing services to Latino residents.

"We've received very enthusiastic feedback from most of these agencies, and we're looking forward to working more closely with them in the future," Varela said.

CODA's upcoming plans include in-service education programs for extension staff working with Latino audiences, on-site visits to work with county staff, and a more aggressive campaign to increase awareness of Penn State Cooperative Extension among Latino agencies and organizations.

WARNING!

You can't see it--and you can't stop it. Storage losses in forage can steal your valuable crop--how much is lost depends upon how you store your feed:

- Tower Silos have Up to 8% loss
- Bunkers have Up to 45% loss*

If the average difference in feed lost between tower silos and bunkers is 30%, then storage of 1000 tons will mean 300 tons MORE lost in a bunker. If silage is valued at $30 per ton, the additional losses from bunker storage would be $9000 a year.

For information on losses for all types of crop storage methods, contact the Crop Storage Institute for your free copy of " Methods of Crop Storage" and "Know the Facts."

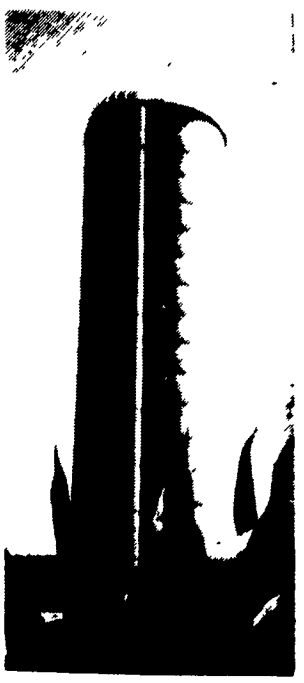
IT IS TIME TO ONCE AGAIN GET SERIOUS ABOUT STORING YOUR VALUABLE FEEDS!!!

The recent "innovations" and temporary methods of storing your grains and forages are just not protecting your feeds like they should, nor are they really efficient.

Research and practical experience has shown that "the tower silo has never been equalled in its ability to protect your forage quality." And remember..." on most dairy farms, forage quality is the single most important factor affecting profit."

Contact us soon to be sure you get on our schedule to have your poured concrete tower silo constructed in time!

No used silos!
No rebuilt silos!
No pre-owned silos!
All New For You!



"This is the kind of silo you need to protect your valuable feed."

NEW! Cen-Trak™
Power Drive Unloader

Meet Cen Trak! The new and better concept in single-cable unloaders. Simple, dependable power drive design eliminates the problems of other high torque, center drive machines. See your Starline Dealer for literature and pricing!

STARLINE

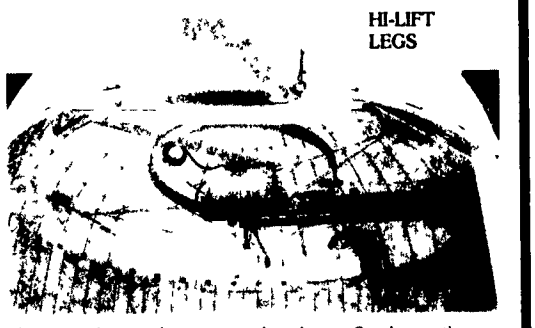
1-Used 16 ft. Cen-trak Unloader - used Only 8 Months
1-Used Jamesway Model 120 Cattle Feeder, 50 Ft.

VOLUMAXX
GIVES YOU A CHOICE OF DISTRIBUTION



The new advance design Volumaxx unloader gives you the best of both worlds your choice of distribution. New HI-LIFT legs let you raise the unloader an extra 15" into the silo roof, so you can use a conventional side distributor. Or, choose the Jamesway Powermaxx™ broad pan silage distributor. With proper distribution, you'll have better quality feed, and you'll increase your silo's capacity up to 35%. And we can prove it!

JAMESWAY

Volumaxx™ unloader. Expect the best from the leader.

CORN & SOYBEAN OILS - For Animals

BREWEX - For Use In Dairy Feeds

BREWEX is used extensively in complete dairy formulations to contribute utilizable energy. It is a price/performance value when used in dry feeds, liquid feeds and on-farm mixes.

- BREWEX replaced 5% to 10% corn/day
- BREWEX improves butterfat about 0.1%
- BREWEX mixed with forage reduces mortality due to displaced abomasum

PERMANENT FENCE SYSTEM

"With Gallagher Power Fences Insul Timber, I never have to worry about using or replacing insulators."

Dave Thompson
Delta, PA

Compared to woven and barbed wire, Gallagher Permanent Power Fence Systems are:

- Safe and more effective in controlling any livestock.
- Less material and labor required.
- Substantially lower cost to install and maintain.

For more information on the Gallagher Permanent Power Fence System contact your nearest Gallagher dealer listed or call 1-800-531-5908.

BUSY ACRE FARMS

We have an excellent set of July Farrowed Boars available for immediate service:
YORKSHIRE - Out of Lars. 1992 Summer Ohio Test Station. Group tested out of the top pen over all breeds. He is a lean one with muscle, length and soundness. His boars are excellent. Out of a litter of 15 raised.
DUROCS - Out of HP Horsepower. He was Res. Ch. boar at 1992 KILE from Howard Parrish. He is really working on our Hamalot daughters.
3 AI Boars our of Patriot. Semen from SGI. Gain 2.92: BF .67; LE 6.36 Days to 230, 129.
LANDRACE - 3 AI Boars out of Ivory. Semen from SGI. 147 days to 230; BF .57; LE 6.67.
HAMPSHIRE/DUROC - AI out of Knockout Hampshire semen from SGI. Out of our largest frame, longest sow.
SPOTTED- Out of Inxs, Blue Moon, and Modena. Champion boar at 1990 NYSF. 1990 National Barrow Show, 1992 Natn'l barrow show.
DUROC- Hamalot 1-9 A boar that came from semen from SGI. mated to our best Duroc sow. This boar makes females second to none. They raise pigs and scan well. Largest loins ever scanned on red gilts at 1993 PA State Sale with 7.6 LE.
We did not get these boars scanned due to the weather but we believe them to be the best boars ever produced here in over 50 years. They are long, lean, with muscle. They have frame and bone.

SPRING PIGS SIRED BY:

HAMPSHIRE- Out of Buckshot, and KHF3 Dolby from Kite hampshire Farm in Ohio. BF .8 LE 7.20.
CHESTER WHITES- Res. Ch. Boar at 1993 World Pork Expo. 7.5 LE: .80 BF. Big, long, lean, heavy muscled, heavy boned. Boar pigs look excellent.
SPOTTED- Two excellent young boars. One from the 1993 WPX. one from the 1993 Summer Type Conference where they had the largest loin in the entire show; 7.65, 7.25 with under .80 BF.
YORKSHIRE - 1993 Ohio Test Station graduate. Runner up to the 1993 Hog College Boar and out of the 2nd top pen over all breeds 132 days to 230; .60 BF; 6.26 LW; 214.8 FE 64.8 lean cuts.
LANDRACE- 1993 Ohio Test Station Graduate out of the top pen over all breeds with a record feed efficiency of 188.9. for the Landrace breed. Littermate to this pen on stud at SGI. Also a littermate to 1993 Hog College boar. BF .50, 5.89 LE; 143 days to 230; 65.3 lean cuts.
We have an excellent set of bred gilts for sale due for May thru Sept. litters. They are mated to our top boars plus litters bred for 1995 Farm Show club pigs. All of our Duroc, York, Spot, Chester, Landrace, Hamp gilts plus some bred AI to Lean Value Ohio top boars. Also some Pietrain litters. 30 litters per month plus crossbed litters. Breeding Dates Available.
We can supply you with 50-75 open gilts and 40 boars per month. Bred to order, also on hand.
We have an excellent group of pigs coming along for 1994. Give us a call or stop in and take a look for yourself.

Can and will deliver.

MIRACLE FEEDS . . . HER SOURCE FOR BREWERS WET GRAINS

Have You Considered Making BWG a Part of Your Herd's Program?

Brewers wet grains are an alternate part of many dairy rations in this area because they:

- Are very economical.
- Are concentrated and provide protein, energy and digestible fiber in a very efficient manner.
- Provide a significant quantity of bypass protein.
- Are an effective way to extend your forage when it is in short supply.
- Enhance the nutritional content of poor quality forage.
- Are flexible . . .can be used with McNess vitamin and mineral premixes in either grain mixes or TMR's (total mixed rations).

Brewers wet grains from Miracle/McNess also offer you the bonus of free ration balancing. We can test your forage and balance your feedstuffs to get the most out of your program. Just call toll-free 800-888-0230.

MIRACLE FEEDS, INC
Batavia, NY 14020
McNess

Have you tried toasted grains?

Consider these advantages over traditional roasting methods·

- ◆ Consistent by-pass proteins and low moisture levels.
- ◆ Improved energy density of your rations.
- ◆ Excellent quality control.
- ◆ Exchange programs with feed mills.
- ◆ Economical storage, rolling and grinding available
- ◆ We also buy corn and soybeans

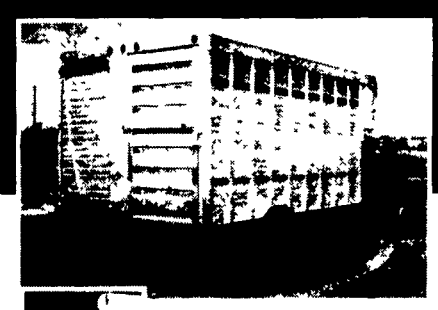
Agriculture Moves on EBY Bodies



M.H. Eby custom-builds aluminum truck bodies for the agri-transportation market. Nobody offers more sizes and options in:

- LIVESTOCK BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of heights and widths.
- GRAIN BODIES - Lengths to 24'; landscape and general purpose dumps to 12'.
- FLATBED BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of 5 widths.

For greater payload capacity, Eby's aluminum design is equal in strength to steel and up to 40% lighter. Our corrosion-resistant components never need painting. That means minimum maintenance, improved appearance and higher resale value.

Eby products have superior standard features. And we offer custom options for virtually any application. Agriculture is your business- building bodies to haul it is ours.

Let EBY custom build one for you.

Soy Ink In Spotlight At Conference

PHILADELPHIA — It comes in many colors, but SoyInk is basically "green."

That is to say, SoyInk, produced from a renewable resource grown in the United States, is an environmentally responsible alternative to traditional petroleum-based printing inks.

And the use of SoyInk by the printing, graphics, and newspaper industries across the country is steadily increasing. In 1992-1993, the use of domestically produced soybean oil for SoyInk increased 8 percent, from 41 to 44 million pounds.

That was the message offered to 30 representatives of printing and graphics firms at a luncheon and seminar in Philadelphia recently.

The Pennsylvania Soybean Promotion Board, which administers the national soybean checkoff in the Keystone State, joined with the United Soybean Board, the Iowa Soybean Promotion Board, and the Flint Ink Corp. of Detroit, Mich., to sponsor the event.

On the program for the two-hour meeting at the Omni Hotel at Independence Park was Jay McGinnis, a soybean grower from New Park, Pa., and a member of the Pennsylvania Soybean Board. He brought a farmer's perspective to the agenda, explaining why the promotion and use of SoyInk are important to farm profitability.

Other speakers were Michael Hade and Ed Zimmer, both representatives of Flint Ink, a major SoyInk manufacturer, and Rick London, founder and managing director of Second Nature Graphics of Clifton, N.J. Second Nature is a printing firm that works exclusively with recycled stocks and vegetable inks. London discussed the environmental benefits and other advantages of printing with SoyInk.

Many newspapers are switching to SoyInk, particularly for color reproduction. Other advantages of the ink are that it prints more paper per pound than conventional inks and allows for quicker press start-up, speakers said.

The SoyInk seminar was held in conjunction with the AmericaEast Newspaper Operations and Technology Conference in nearby Hershey, Pa. The conference attracted 1,150 newspaper personnel from 26 states and representing more than 275 papers.

Among the commercial exhibitions was a SoyInk promotion booth manned by staff members of the United Soybean Board and supported with checkoff funds by the soybean boards of Pennsylvania, Maryland, and New Jersey.

ASCS Reminds Foreigners Of AFIDA Requirement

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — "Foreigners who have bought or sold agricultural land in Berks County are reminded to report the transaction to our office within 90 days," said Richard Troutman, chairman of the Berks County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS).

To avoid federal penalties and monetary fines, foreign owners of U.S. agricultural land must report their holdings, acquisitions, dispositions, leases of 10 years or more, and land-use changes to ASCS within 90 days.

"The report is required by the Agricultural Foreign Investment Disclosure Act (AFIDA), which is still in effect," Troutman said. Foreign investors are required to file a report if all or part of any agricultural land is sold, or the title is transferred to another person.

Failure to file the AFIDA report could result in a civil penalty of up to 25 percent of the fair market value of the interest held in the agricultural land, he said.

For reporting purposes, agricultural land is any tract of more than 10 acres in the aggregate now in farming, ranching, forestry, or timber production. Land used for forestry production is land exceeding 10 acres in which 10 percent is stocked by trees of any size, including land that formerly had such tree cover and will be naturally or artificially regenerated.

"This includes land in agricultural use when purchased, as well as land later converted to agricultural use," the ASCS official said.

County government offices, realtors, attorneys and others involved in real estate transactions are asked to notify the foreign investor of these reporting requirements.

Simmentals Get Top Dollar At Expo

MADISON, Wis. — Four beef cattle breeds displayed some of their best genetics for sale at the second annual World Beef Expo. The sales were held as one part of the international cattle and trade show here recently.

The Simmental Sale, run by Ebersbacher Enterprises, came out with the top average of $2,584. There were 40 lots in the sale for a total of $103,350. The top selling animal was a female named Holley's Sorceress, sold by the Holley Cattle Company of Bowling Green, Ohio. She sold for $10,500 to Bar None Classics, Flannagan, Ill.

Schlichte Auctioneering sold 30 Belgian Blue cattle plus 8 embryos in its sale bringing a total of $87,715. The average animal sold for $2,308. L'Orgelot Lumin Charlotte ET was high seller at $8,300. She was consigned by La Gantoise, Lefaivre, Ontario and purchased by Janice Jackowski of Inglewood, Ontario.

Angus breeders crowded into the arena to purchase 48 animals sold by auctioneer Jerry Lehman. The sale brought a total of $112,750, with an average of $2348.96. Car Don Bando B275 brought the high dollar for $7,500 paid by Willard Zweyardt, St. Francis, Kan. The consignor was Bloom Angus, Westville, Ind.

Polled Herefords brought in a total of $74,875 for 45 lots sold by Gary Finley. The average animal sold for $1,970. The University of Wisconsin herd received the high dollar amount for their animal UW WIB JCL Shay Rival PCO4. Jenny Brown, Hartland, Wis., purchased the animal.

Organic Farmers Receive Grants

PENNINGTON, N.J. — Primed with funding by two New Jersey foundations, the New Jersey chapter of the Northeast Organic Farming Association has embarked on new initiatives in the local organic markets, including the development of an organic grower cooperative.

The Association received a $35,000 grant from the Geraldine R. Dodge Foundation and a $30,000 grant from The Fund for New Jersey in support of its programs to promote organic agriculture in New Jersey, according to NOFA-NJ's executive director, Jennifer Morgan.

The grants will also aid NOFA-NJ in establishing itself as an independent organization from the Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association, said Morgan. Since 1986, NOFA-NJ has been operating under the wing of the Watershed Association, a Hopewell Township based 1,700 member environmental organization. While continuing to work closely with the Watershed Association, NOFA-NJ is embarking on a completely independent path, concentrating on organic farming and gardening, Morgan said.

"The Watershed and NOFA-NJ have enjoyed a healthy and positive relationship over many years," said Jamie Kyte Sapoch, executive director, Watershed Association. "We are excited about working with a newly independent NOFA-NJ to help foster our mutual goals in the area of organic farming and gardening."

According to Morgan, NOFA-NJ has already begun the first step toward forming a grower cooperative by launching a Jersey Fresh certified organic tomato business venture. During the 1994 growing season, seven organic growers will participate in the venture organized in cooperation with the New Jersey Department of Agriculture and Rutgers Cooperative Extension.

Other NOFA-NJ projects include an organic certification program, education programs, publication of the "Organic Market Guide: New Jersey Region," an Organic Farm Employment Referral Service, and the New Jersey Organic Fair slated this year for September 17-18.

For more information about NOFA-NJ programs, contact NOFA-NJ, 31 Titus Mill Road, Pennington, NJ 08534, (609) 737-6848.

Efficiency Rating 83% to 85% - Cut Emissions by 90%
3-Year Warranty Except Electrical Components (1 Year)
35 Years Heating Experience

PROUDLY BUILT IN INDIANA COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA
100,000 - 500,000 BTU 36"-60" Fire Boxes

★ The only outdoor furnace made with a Catalytic Combuster. ★
Mahoning Catalytic Combuster Will Help In The Following Ways:

1. Burn one cord of wood which equals 166 gallons of oil.
2. Your fuel source becomes enormous inexhaustible and poses few risks to public safety.
3. Overall efficiency of 85% which means the heat no longer goes up the chimney!
4. You get more heat from a log compared to the non-cat furnace.
5. More burn time - less reloading time!
6. Zap 90% of pollutants, made from fire source.
7. Saves you a lot of money!
8. User friendly, emits no smoke!

Best Values in New Equipment

We hear you.

We know that making hay is a tough business. It takes a healthy share of your precious time, and leaves no room for equipment failure.

So when you told us you needed mower conditioners that would fit in and stand up to your long, relentless work schedules, we heard you.

When you said you wanted a cutting width that was tailor-fitted to the size of your operation, and a choice of roll configurations, we heard you.

And when you asked that the convenience of a center-pivot hitch be made available on a wider range of models, we heard you.

Our response? The broadest line of mower conditioners we've ever offered. With nine models, ranging from 7 ft. 3 in. to 16 ft. in cutting width—including two high-performance disc mower conditioners with new levels of durability for wet fields, dense hay or tangled grass crops.

Our seven conventional models feature uniform-motion sickle drives that not only provide a clean, high-speed cut, but also reduce the forces on knife-drive components for built-in dependability.

And with a center-pivot hitch now available on both disc and conventional models, the flexibility to work from either side of the tractor is just a hydraulic lever away.

The Case International line of mower conditioners. They take a tough job and cut it down to size. See them at your Case IH dealer today. And ask about Total Product Support—our commitment to the service and parts that turn a sale into a true partnership.

N.Y. Farmers Report On AFBF Activity

ALBANY, N.Y. — When it comes to commodity issues, the American Farm Bureau Federation's (AFBF) board of directors receives advice from a number of farmer committees.

Several New York farmers serve on these special national committees. They recently met in St. Louis.

• Greenhouse/nursery — Bill Chase, Monroe County, serves on this committee. This committee spent the bulk of its time delving into the impact of environmental issues and labor concerns impacting greenhouse/nursery owners. According to Chase, the soon-to-be-implemented Workers' Protection Standard (WPS) will have "an enormous impact on everybody." Ultimately, WPS will go against agriculture's effort to cut pesticides because of re-entry schedules, etc. The committee also talked about workers' compensation — including the rebates that farmers in several other states are getting.

• On the environmental side, the Endangered Species Act took center stage. Chase summed up this killer law this way: "If it comes between you and a snail, the snail wins." The farmers also expressed their dismay with the call to list every piece of land — mapped out for species on property. Lastly, the group touched on water problems around the nation, including the lowering of the water table in Florida, nonpoint source pollution, and the metering of water in California. The committee believes these two points and other water quality issues would eventually hit every American farmer.

• Dairy — New York is represented on this committee by Jon Greenwood, a member of the NYFB state board and its executive committee, and a dairy farmer from St. Lawrence County. This committee dealt with the BST issue. Since it was approved by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, the group saw BST as FB policy — a management tool. Regarding BST, the committee reviewed the situation by state. The farmers also examined the proposed consolidation of beef cow groups (Beef Council, National Cattlemen's Association, Meat Export Board, etc.). The committee also discussed the impact on dairy by the North American Free Trade Agreement and the GATT. At this point, the impact of NAFTA on dairy in the U.S. is favorable, while the impact resulting from the GATT is unclear. In addition, the Dairy Committee heard a report on the National Certification Task Force on Johnnes Disease, and the impact of the Clean Water Act as it relates to manure and nutrient management.

• Eggs — The New York representative on this committee is Kurt Kreher, poultry farmer from Erie County. According to Kurt, the most pressing issues discussed at the AFBF Egg Committee meeting included nutrient management, the Clean Water Act, salmonella enteriditis, and the American Egg Board referendum.

Regarding the referendum, producers will have a chance to vote on raising the mandatory checkoff for egg promotion, nutrition research, and consumer education. On the issue of nutrient management, John Bell, Pennsylvania Farm Bureau Counsel, told the committee that it's necessary for farmers to be involved in working with the process which will develop the regulations — thus working to mitigate the impact on agriculture. On the crucial topic of salmonella, Kreher discussed FB's efforts to find an acceptable proactive approach to this critical problem.

• Vegetable/potato committee — New York is represented on this committee by Pete Call, a cash crop farmer from Genesee County. As with other committees, this group discussed the Worker Protection Standards (WPS), Endangered Species Act, and the Clean Water Act. Regarding WPS, Pete noted that a lot of states are not prepared to handle grower training and enforcement. Their advice was solidly behind pushing for a delay of enforcement of the law. When discussing the Endangered Species Act, this committee said that farmers should be listed as an "endangered species." The committee also examined NAFTA, labor regulations, and the protection of private property rights.

• Honeybees — James Doan, a Monroe County beekeeper with about 2,000 hives, is the New York representative on this national advisory committee. Of prime concern to this committee were the loss of the honey program, the impact of the Varroa Mite, and the overall shortage of bees (a situation being especially felt in southern states, though we could see some impact here). As with other committees, this group also reviewed pressing environmental issues, such as the Endangered Species Act.

• Wheat committee — New York is represented on this national committee by Jim Vincent, a wheat grower from Genesee County. The Wheat Committee tackled a number of concerns, including the 1995 Farm Bill, Conservation Reserve Program (CRP), USDA reorganization, federal crop insurance vs. revenue assurance disaster payments, grain quality, Canadian wheat imports, and environmental concerns.

Vincent reported that expiration of CRP contracts will hit the dominant wheat growing areas of the state hard — up to 20 percent of gross farm income comes from CRP. We need to look beyond soil erosion (such as water quality issues), all the time saying the real beneficiary is the general public. Challenges faced by dominant wheat growing areas are the same challenges for New York growers, such as trade, conservation compliance, and revitalizing rural economies. On the topic of grain quality, the committee heard from Dave Shipman, Federal Grains Inspection Service. He discussed grain quality issues affecting wheat, as well as using near infrared technology to protein-test wheat.

4-H Forestry Teams Prepare For National Invitation

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Youth involved in the 4-H forestry project and conservation related projects will test their knowledge of forestry July 31 to August 4 at the National 4-H Forestry Invitational, sponsored by the International Paper Company Foundation through the National 4-H Council.

This annual event is held at Jackson's Mill State 4-H Camp in West Virginia. One four-person team from each state is invited to compete.

Since 1979, more than 800 4-H members from 23 states have competed in events that include tree identification; compass orienteering; forest insect and disease identification; tree measurement; forest evaluation; and the Forestry Bowl, modeled after television's College Bowl.

The National 4-H Forestry Invitational offers participants the opportunity to become more aware of the natural resource needs of our nation. The contest stresses the importance of conserving forest land and develops an appreciation for the significant role forests play in providing products, benefits and services for quality living. Also, it focuses on challenges facing resource professionals who strive to sustain our nation's forests through wise management.

The Maryland 4-H Wildlife and Forestry Invitational Judging Event was held on May 1 at the Nature Community on Meyer Station Road near Crofton in Anne Arundel County.

The top four contestants in the state forestry judging event go on to represent Maryland in the national contest in West Virginia. Winners in the state wildlife judging event will represent Maryland this summer at the National 4-H Wildlife Evaluation Invitational Contest, August 6 - 10, at Brian Head, near Cedar City, Utah.

For more information on how 4-H members can become involved in forestry and wildlife educational programs, contact your county cooperative extension service office. Look for the telephone number under county government listings in the blue pages of your telephone directory.

Quality Cattle, Exhibits Round Out World Beef Expo

MADISON, Wis. — From Saskatchewan and British Columbia to Australia and Yugoslavia, World Beef Expo drew an incredible diversity of people involved in the beef industry. The international cattle and trade show was held here April 14-17.

"We're extremely pleased by the support and enthusiasm cattle exhibitors expressed during World Beef Expo," said General Manager Tom McKittrick.

"Launching a successful new show is not an easy task," said McKittrick, "but when the producers and ag companies are willing to come out and support us the way they have, I'm confident we can build an incredible show for the beef industry."

More than 17,000 people traveled from 13 countries to be part of the second annual World Beef Expo.

Beef producers brought cattle from 15 states and five Canadian provinces to participate in 16 cattle breed shows. In addition, there were beef cattle sales, an education forum of nationally-known beef experts, consumer meat exhibits, and hundreds of agricultural company exhibits.

World Beef Expo's trade show featured a wide selection of equipment and technology for the beef industry. Exhibits on gene splicing and embryo transplants drew many questions and much interest, as did the possibilities of animal ultrasound. While initial figures estimated the booth count at 250, the number of exhibits jumped to more than 350 with last minute additions to the outdoor trade mall by interested agricultural companies.

Four cattle sales brought in a total of more than $378,000. Angus, Belgian Blue, Polled Hereford, and Simmental breeders took advantage of the World Beef Expo crowd to sell 171 animals and embryos. The Simmental sale had the top average with $2,584. A Simmental was also the top selling animal. Holley's Sorceress was sold by the Holley Cattle Company of Bowling Green, Ohio. Bar None Classics, Flannagan, Ill. bought her for $10,500.

Mike Siemens, extension beef specialist from the University of Wisconsin Madison, was honored with the Paul May Award. The award is presented annually to an individual who has made exceptional efforts in developing and promoting World Beef Expo.

Siemens has been responsible for coordinating the Educational Forums at Expo. He has also played a key role in initiating sponsorships from agricultural companies. The award is named after Paul May, the first recipient of the award. May was one of the first to develop and promote the concept of an international cattle show in Wisconsin.

A number of cattle breeders were also honored during World Beef Expo. Herdsmanship Awards were based on organization, cleanliness, and cooperation with show management. Each producer received an award sponsored by IN-DE Custom Embroidery.

Winners include Klover Korner, Rockton, Ill.; 2 KM Angus, Glen Haven, Wis.; Double H Charolais, Paynesville, Minn.; Rockdale Shorthorn, Caledonia, Ill.; Foggy Hollow Polled Hereford, Mt. Horeb, Wis.; O'Brien Hereford, Madison, Wis.; Harding Cattle Company, Holly, Mich.; Georgetown Farm, Free Union, Va.; Holtzinger Simmental, Lancaster, Wis.; Holly Cattle Company, Bowling Green, Ohio; Bloom Angus Farm, Westville, Ind.; Freed's Limousin, Fairbury, Ill. Top Overall Herdsmanship Award went to Donewishen Acres of Shullsburg, Wis.

Hundreds of young people flocked to World Beef Expo for youth competitions and prizes. Those participating in four or more contests were eligible for Sweepstakes awards sponsored by Spirit Farms, Fond du Lac, Wis. First prize winner in the junior division was Shane Richey, Plymouth, Ind., while Jordan Redelan, Fillmore County, Minn., took top prize in the senior division.

Nationally known beef industry speakers were brought in to World Beef Expo to explore the economics of grazing, market trends, genetic selection, feeder cattle grading, and more. Videotapes are available for those who missed the Cattlemen's College, Nutritional Technical Conference, and International Breeders' Forum.

Next year's World Beef Expo will be held April 6-9 at the Dane County Expo Center in Madison, Wis.

Trinder Receives Alfalfa Producer Award

FABIUS, N.Y. — Tom Trinder has been selected by the Certified Alfalfa Seed Council as the 1994 Northeastern Region Producer Award winner.

The award was announced by CASC President Dean Urmston at the 24th National Alfalfa Symposium held during February in Springfield, Ill.

Trinder, a member of Agway Inc., operates a 120-cow dairy with his wife and four children in Fabius. He started on the farm in 1971, first in partnership with his father and then as full owner.

Trinder has built his successful operation by stressing quality, rather than simply size. Half of his registered Holstein herd produced more than 20,000 pounds of milk each, with 742 pounds of butterfat per cow. Because of attention during harvest and storage, his hay crop silage has never fallen below 20 percent crude protein. Trinder sells 1,000 tons of high quality alfalfa yearly to neighboring farms who recognize the value of the crop.

Tom Trinder

In addition to his production leadership, Trinder has been recognized for his conservation efforts. In 1991, he received the USDA Soil Conservation Service Farm of the Year Award for outstanding efforts to conserve farm resources while improving crop and animal production.

The CASC Awards program is designed to recognize excellence among producers; successful alfalfa promotion, research, and development and education; contributions to the industry; and to help promote and publicize alfalfa for its role in animal agriculture and as a profit crop.

In addition to Trinder, award winners included Dr. Kenneth T. Leath of the USDA Research Pasture Lab at Penn State University, CASC Research Award; Dr. Harlan E. White of the Virginia Tech Crop & Soil Environmental Sciences Department, CASC Extension Award; Dr. Bill Knipe of Forage Genetics Inc., CASC Industry Award; Paul Myer of West Point, Nebraska, CASC North Central Producer; Dane Mercer of Sweetwater, Tenn., CASC Southern Producer; and CAsey Epler of Hillsdale, Wyoming, CASC Western Producer.

Weather Important Factor In Sucker Control

MIDDLEBURY, Conn. — Rainy or dry, the weather always plays a major role in flue-cured tobacco sucker control. Understanding how weather affects sucker control will help growers get the most from an application of Royal MH-30® plant growth regulator.

Dry conditions, such as those in 1993, make it more difficult to control suckers with MH® noted Fred Yelverton, Ph.D., extension tobacco specialist at North Carolina State University.

"MH® is absorbed by leaves and moved within the plant system to small sucker buds," Yelverton said. "Good absorption and systemic movement depend on having good crop growing conditions. Therefore, MH® should never be applied on drought-stressed crops. If soil moisture is low, it is best to apply MH® one to three days after a good rain or irrigation."

Rain is a problem only if it washes MH® off plants within six hours of application. If rain falls within six hours after application, MH® should be reapplied at one-half the recommended rate. Reapplication is unnecessary if it rains more than 10 hours after application.

Quality Of Grain Under Loan Important

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — To protect and maintain the quality and quantity of their farm-stored grain, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) official Richard Troutman advises farmers to continue following proper grain storage procedures.

"With more than 85,000 bushels of loan grain stored on Berks County farms, it is imperative that producers make periodic grain inspections, particularly during the spring, summer and early fall," Troutman said.

He said rapid insect development usually occurs near the grain surface, usually at the peak of cones and in areas where foreign material has built up.

"Producers are cautioned to be particularly alert when inspecting their grain, and increase spot-checks if the normal checks indicate the need."

The longer grain is in storage, the more likely it is to become infested. The stored grain should be probed to discover insects, and a thermometer should be inserted from time to time into the grain mass to check the temperature. If there are signs of insect infestation or hot spots, fumigation may be necessary.

"We spot check farm-stored grain at random and notify producers of any existing problems," said Troutman. "However, our spotchecks are strictly for the purpose of protecting the Commodity Credit Corporation's interest and should not be relied on as a substitute for regular producer inspections."

Any loss in the quality or quantity of farm-stored grain is the producer's responsibility.

Registration Granted

WAYNE, N.J. — Federal EPA registration has been granted for American Cyanamid's newest no-till soybean herbicide, Detail CP™ herbicide.

A complete surface-applied herbicide, Detail provides no-till farmers with consistent control of more than 50 grasses and broadleaf weeds.

Detail controls tough weeds such as cocklebur, lambsquarters, yellow nutsedge, nightshades, ragweeds, foxtails, panicums, and crabgrass.

"No-till farmers needed a complete surface-applied herbicide that could stand up to weather extremes and high levels of crop residue," said Julie Bennett, American Cyanamid product manager. "When we designed Detail, we looked for a product that would provide exceptional weed control in wet or dry conditions and would easily wash off crop residue."

Scientists Study Effects Of Mastitis

HUNTINGDON (Huntingdon Co.) — Mastitis, the dairy industry's most pervasive animal health problem, may be costing farmers more than they think.

Each year, farmers lose up to $200 per cow in lost milk, culled cows, veterinary fees and other expenses. Annual losses from mastitis total $150 million in Pennsylvania and $2 billion in North America.

Now researchers in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences are learning that mastitis also may be a factor in bovine embryo mortality. Veterinary scientists Dale Moore and William Sischo are investigating a possible link between coliform mastitis and changes in the reproductive cycle of infected cows.

"Some types of mastitis are caused by E. coli bacteria or other organisms that have endotoxins in their cell walls," Moore said. "When those bacteria die inside the mammary gland, toxins are released. The cow's immune system responds and, after a series of biochemical events, prostaglandin is produced. This chemical mediator is associated not only with pain but also with reproduction."

Moore said he suspects that prostaglandin released in response to mastitis short-circuits a cow's reproductive cycle.

"A layer of tissue called the corpus luteum, which grows on the ovary after a cow ovulates, may be the key," Moore said. "If the cow conceives, the corpus luteum produces progesterone, which maintains pregnancy."

Progesterone is produced at maximum levels during days six through 17 of the cow's 21-day cycle.

"Normally, if conception doesn't occur, the cow's endometrium produces natural prostaglandin, dissolving the corpus luteum so that she can ovulate again," Moore said. "If bacterial endotoxin from mastitis stimulates her immune system and prostaglandin is produced, the corpus luteum could be dissolved. Once that happens, the pregnancy is over."

The researchers have studied 75 cows from Penn State's dairy herd since the project began. "We're not inducing mastitis in any animals, but if a cow is diagnosed with coliform mastitis, we study her," Moore said.

"Because hormone levels reveal whether the reproductive cycle is disrupted, we monitor blood progesterone every four days for a whole cycle. We also check the ovaries to see if a corpus luteum is present when mastitis is diagnosed, and whether it regresses as the infection runs its course."

The study will be completed in 1995. "If we can show that mastitis is a factor in embryonic death, veterinarians and herd managers can make more specific diagnoses when a loss occurs and can take control measures," Moore said.

Triple-Bladed Disc Mower-Conditioners Perform Flat Out

CARLISLE (Cumberland Co.) — Vicon's high capacity GMR disc mower conditioners feature a new, flatter cutterbar to streamline crop flow and even out the cut.

This, plus three-bladed triangular discs that double the cuts per minute over two-bladed machines, ensures clean, no-plug productivity even in wet, heavy hay and fire ant mounds.

Apart from improved mowing performance, the new cutterbar is more power efficient, providing maximum capacity with minimum horsepower. It is protected by skids across the full width.

Working width is equal to the cutting width of 7 feet 10 inches, 9 feet 4 inches and 10 feet 6 inches on new GMR 2400/2800/3200 models, because the drive is taken directly to the first disc. There are six discs on the GMR 2400 and eight discs on the GMR 2800 and 3200.

The unique Vicon full swivel hitch is standard, making it possible to cut square or irregular corners under full power, without stopping. The PTO shaft is always straight, so backing up, driving over windrows, and noisy driveline vibration are avoided. And it's easy to hitch up the tractor to the swivel hitch headstock when the machine is parked.

For more information, contact Cummings & Bricker Inc., 100 Stover Drive, Carlisle, PA 17013, (717) 249-6720.

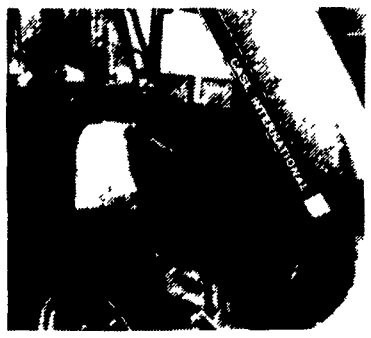
Case Reduces Prices On 4,000 Parts

RACINE, Wis. — J I Case has announced that, effective immediately, it is significantly reducing prices on more than 4,000 high-volume parts for Case and Case International equipment.

"Through surveys, customers have told us that, while they prefer to buy Case IH parts because of the quality assurance and product support we offer, some of them perceive our products as high-priced," said Harold Boyanovsky, J I Case vice president, parts operations. "We're out to change that perception."

He pointed out that Case recently tested price reductions on powertrain parts. "Customers responded by buying more parts from us. We're responding to them by lowering the prices on even more of our genuine OEM quality-assured parts," he said.

Case International agricultural equipment and product support are offered through more than 1,400 Case IH dealers across North America. Through its Global Parts Network, Case can supply most parts to its dealerships within 24 hours.



As part of its overall efforts to provide the kind of product support customers request, J I Case has reduced prices on more than 4,000 high-volume parts.

Deutz-Fahr Adds Cutting Edge To Round Baling

CARLISLE (Cumberland Co.) — Deutz-Fahr has introduced a new GP 2.30 OptiCut round baler equipped with 14 razor-sharp blades to cut high moisture forage into short lengths before it is baled.

Full length material is reduced to 3 or 4 inches in length before compression by ribbed, profiled rollers into an extremely tight package.

More forage gets into the bale increasing density by 20 percent to 25 percent while eliminating oxygen to speed and enhance the fermentation cycle. Depending on the crop and moisture level, a 4-foot x 4-foot silage bale from the GP 2.30 OC can weigh up to 1,500 pounds.

Cutting blades are angled at 30° to maximize performance and feature durable waved edges. Each blade swings clear from obstacles and returns automatically to the cutting position.

Resource School Director

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Dr. Larry Nielsen, professor of natural resources and head of the Department of Fisheries and Wildlife Sciences at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, has been named director of the School of Forest Resources in the Penn State College of Agricultural Sciences.

"It's going to be a great experience being a part of the College of Agricultural Sciences," Nielsen said. "I'm impressed with the variety of disciplines encompassed in the School of Forest Resources and with the faculty—they're a fine group of professionals."

Nielsen earned a bachelor's with honors in biology from the University of Illinois, master's in fisheries biology from the University of Missouri, and a doctorate in fisheries biology from Cornell University. He has been a faculty member at Virginia Tech since 1977 and a department head since 1989.

He has taught undergraduate courses in fisheries science, fisheries and wildlife management, forestry and renewable natural resources, and American attitudes toward nature. He also taught graduate courses in fisheries and wildlife planning, philosophy of science, fisheries theory, and professional speaking. He has received three university awards for teaching excellence.

Nielsen established several privately funded and endowed scholarships for undergraduate and graduate students, including two endowed scholarships. He also established the Rachel Carson Graduate Fellowship for outstanding women doctoral candidates and created a women's advisory committee in his department to ensure an environment conducive to a diverse workforce.

Candidate Kilkuskie's Approach to Government

I believe in the individual, free will, and responsibility; I believe in "limited government," that every social ill or problem cannot be solved by a governmental program or the expenditure of more money.

I believe that our government was based on principles that foster individual developmenty and that should be the primary role of our government today, that is, providing an equity of opportunity not necessarily an equality of outcome.

My belief in the individual, the liberty of the individual and my belief in limited government does not preclude me from supporting necessary government programs when it comes to law and order and does not preclude me from supporting programs that foster individual development and that encourage private solutions to society's problems.

NEW FARMING PRESS VIDEOS

NEW! FARMING PRESS VIDEOS
NEW! JOHN DEERE VIDEOS
TWO-CYLINDER TRACTORS VOL 1&2

Volume 1 starts with the Froslitch replica and the Waterloo Boy and takes the story up to 1938 when styled tractors made their appearance. Filming was done in Iowa, Illinois, Ontario and England. Many tractors shown are rarities and outstanding examples of restoration. The owners describe the features of their tractors and give fascinating insights into John Deere history. High Professional quality Videos are in full color, 55-minutes. $34.95

NEW! John Deere on Video
Two Cylinder Tractors Vol. 2

In Volume Two we look at the last of the older series tractors identified by a letter and follow with the first of the numbered models from the 1950s. It was also the time when diesel power was beginning to take over. Some stationary engines are also covered. Finally this video finishes with a look at the latest new models from the Waterloo Factory. These comprehensive videos will prove to be of indispensable value to both the collector and restorer of John Deere Tractors. VHS in full color 50 minutes $34.95.

NEW! JOHN DEERE TWO-CYLINDER TRACTORS

This excellent detailed book includes more than 130 full color photos, with detailed shots, which illustrate the design changes which took place over more than four decades. Has serial numbers and Nebraska tractor test results. Great reference guide, by Michael Williams, who is internationally recognized authority on tractors. 128 pgs. Hardcover $29.95.

GARRETT IS BIG ON AG TURBOS

PLOW BIG SAVINGS ON GENUINE GARRETT TURBOS

Don't miss this opportunity to plow some big savings on Genuine Garrett Factory Remanufactured turbochargers. Your Authorized Garrett Distributor Penn Diesel Service should have a turbocharger or cartridge that fits your tractor, combine, or other farm equipment. If it's a turbocharged Ag engine, there's most likely a Garrett turbo on it. Look at the following list of OE's. There's a reason why they specify Garrett turbochargers for their engines.

- Allis Chalmers
- Deutz Allis
- Fiat Allis
- Ford
- International Harvester
- J.I. Case
- John Deere
- Massey Ferguson
- Navistar
- Perkins

For those same reasons, when it's time for a replacement turbo, it's time for Genuine Garrett. All Genuine Garrett turbochargers are remanufactured to original equipment specifications at the Garrett factory. It's your assurance of original equipment quality and performance with a warranty that matches the new turbo. Genuine Garrett turbochargers are remanufactured with this same high quality parts as new and reengineered for the most recent upgrades and refinements to maintain the exact performance characteristics into the original turbo. For more information on Genuine Garrett Factory Reman Turbos, see your local Garrett Distributor or call or write:

CUT BIG JOBS INTO SMALL ONES

IN STOCK

The all-new John Deere model 2018 Rotary Cutter. It is a full 20-foot, heavy duty, flex-wing rotary cutter, a big brother to the successful 1518 Flex-Wing 15-Foot Cutter.

Stalks, set-aside acres, pastures, roadsides and large grassed areas present just a few of the chopping and maintenance chores to tame with the new 2018.

450 END WHEEL DRILLS: GOOD MADE BETTER
- 35 Percent greater penetrating forde than John Deere 8000 Series Drills
- Depth gauging Press Wheels accurately gauge furrow depth while providing good seed to soil contact

IN STOCK
- 450 8 ft. w/Grass Seed Att. $4,750

SAVE HORSEPOWER, TIME, AND MONEY
- Only John Deere forage harvesters feature the Dura-Drum™ cutterhead, with economical segmented knives. Less plugging.
- Knife sharpening is a breeze. Adjustments, a cinch.
- When damaged, replace only a short knife for a fraction of the cost of one full-width knife.

IN STOCK: 3950 HARVESTER BASE UNIT 1 ONLY DEMO $13,900.00

The all-new MoCo's

- An all-new three-point suspension system provides unmatched flotation.
- The all-new sicklebar machine cuts better - and six inches wider - than anything in it's class
- An exclusive Power-Cushion helps prevent the driveline from bottoming out during tight turns.

Efficiency Is Our Newest Resource

IXL Technology Is New, Different & Better

Modern lubricants are about as good as they are going to get. So IXL solves the problem of friction and wear by treating the metal itself.

Treated metal parts are smoother, tougher, heat and wear resistant. More importantly, the friction characteristic of the metal itself has been reduced by more than 70%! This allows lubricants to do their jobs better and last longer. Which means your equipment runs better and lasts longer—much longer; as much as two or three times the manufacturer's expected "normal" life!

HOW DOES IXL ANTI-FRICTION METAL TREATMENT ACTUALLY WORK?

Simply stated, IXL is a pressure treatment for steel. Picture iron or steel as a sponge soaking up IXL when heat and pressure are applied for a period of time. IXL is actually attracted to the heat and pressure found in your engine, transmission, differential, wheel bearings and other working parts of your vehicle. The more heat and pressure developed by these parts, the faster and deeper the treatment soaks into them.

Used as directed, the IXL treatment is longlasting and there's no resin coating or bonded film which can peel or rub off; just bare metal with IXL soaked into it. There's no buildup on the metal surfaces and no change of tolerances. The treatment even remains effective if the metal is heated red hot—way beyond the point where your lubricants have failed.

Friction created by the working parts of your vehicle is always wearing away at the metal surfaces. After treatment with IXL the friction of these surfaces is reduced by 70% or more providing "bare metal" protection and allowing your lubricants to do their jobs much more efficiently. Since friction and wear are a continuous process, we recommend (based on actual use) that you always use a little more IXL when adding or changing oil. As a result, friction and wear are always kept at a minimum. And the metal parts continue to be treated while they do their work.

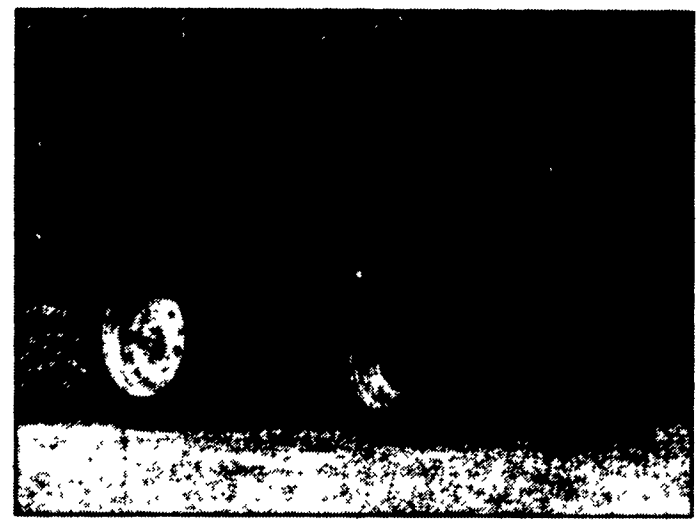
For The Way You Farm Today

Fingertip Powershift Control, Improved Field Visibility and The Most Comfortable Cab Ever



AGCO ALLIS
For the way you farm today

Model 9650
147 PTO HP (109.7 kW)

With their new 18x9 speed full powershift transmissions that electronically control the engagement of massive gears with just the tap of a hand... their cab-forward design that permits a clear, unobstructed view of the field in all directions... and their roomy, comfortable cabs, that feature a unique swivel, air-ride seat and an exclusive seat-mounted control console, the new 9600 Series tractors are clearly ahead of the time.

Every component — from the sleek, sloping hood, to the rugged, cast-iron mainframe to the world-proven air-cooled diesel engines, that require less maintenance — has been designed to match the way you farm today. The result is greater comfort, better performance and improved productivity.

Compare the features and specifications for yourself. Better yet, stop by your AGCO Allis dealer soon and try out one of the 9600 models for yourself. You have to drive it to believe it.

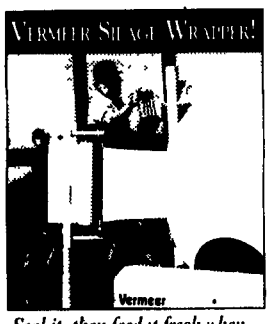
Silage Baling?

"Just Like Eating Candy!"

Cut away the plastic wrap and that sweet smell of fresh haylage says it all! The high-moisture, high-protein hay product you've been looking for ... neatly packaged by a quality-built baler specifically designed for high-moisture hay. The bottom line? A hay harvesting system that takes the weather out of making hay. Now you can bale both wet or dry. PLUS: Higher protein. Better milk production. Contented cows. Fatter profits. Without all the costly silos and expensive hay handling equipment. See what the new Vermeer 504 Silage "I" Baler can mean to your operation? Call today!



Seal it, then feed it fresh when you wrap it up with the new Vermeer Silage Wrapper

Consider a REAL Open-Top Mixer

- REAL mixing with four large counter-rotating augers for fast, thorough blending of feeds. The large augers are designed specifically to handle the feed gently.
- REAL mixing-capacity numbers: You can use much more of the Patz Mixer's struck-level capacity for mixing than with a reel-type mixer.
- REAL strength with heavy-gauge steel sides and bottoms for long service life.

Patz

Ask to see the video of the REAL Patz Mixer. Also, we will be glad to discuss an on-farm demonstration.

FOR
TOP INCREASING HERD AWARD
IN CLEARFIELD COUNTY FOR 1993.

Dennis Peters, along with his wife, Deborah and father Duane Peters, milk approximately 45 cows on a 200-acre dairy located in Shiloh, PA. In April, 1993 Dennis and Duane decided to go on a 4-month feeding trial to test the performance of Purina Milk Special Completes. Results are listed to the right.

COMMENTS:

"I'm very impressed with the palatability of Purina feed. There's been no problem with getting the cows to eat the feed from the first day on Purina.

"The service and expertise has been very helpful.

The Peters' Family feed haylage, corn silage, and dry hay in a tie-stall barn along with Purina Milk Special B20 and Maxi-Tech 32FF fed according to production.

Purina would like to thank the Peters' family for sharing their records with us and giving us the opportunity to help them achieve their high production goals.
